One Nation scrutinizes Scabbing Flat Bridge

Barnaby says new bridge is paramount to region's economy

AS SCABBING FLAT bridge has begun to be a hot topic in the Central West, politicians have been visiting to learn what the fuss is all about.

With the state election only four months away, One Nation took particular interest with a visit by the Party's Barnaby Joyce and the One Nation candidate for the Legislative Council (Upper House) Stuart Bonds of Singleton last Sunday.

The pair were met by Scabbing Flat Bridge Association chair Michelle Tomkins with farmers, transporters and the local rural fire service representatives, who explained their predicament due to the mending of an antiquated river crossing.

Mr Bonds said that on the other side of this pinchpoint bridge was 450,000 hectares of farming land.

"It's all grain, fodder and fibre growing country," he said.

"It's over one million tonnes a year that should be going over this bridge. But instead, it's going 70 kilometres around. That's at least 2000 B-Doubles that run through Dubbo or Wellington meaning millions of litres of extra fuel is being burnt and thousands of hours of extra trucks on the road that shouldn't be.

"They should be able to go straight over this bridge, three kilometres down the road to Geurie and then on the highway and off on their way to port.

"So, what do you think the solution is?

"A new bridge – it's a simple as that."

Mr Bond said the state government allocated $1.8 billion dollars to improve the highway from the New England to out here for their wind turbines, but they stopped short when they come here for a bridge for our farmers.

"So, I think it's pretty piss-weak, let's go look for a couple of coins under their lounge for a new bridge."

Barnaby Joyce was forthright in his approach.

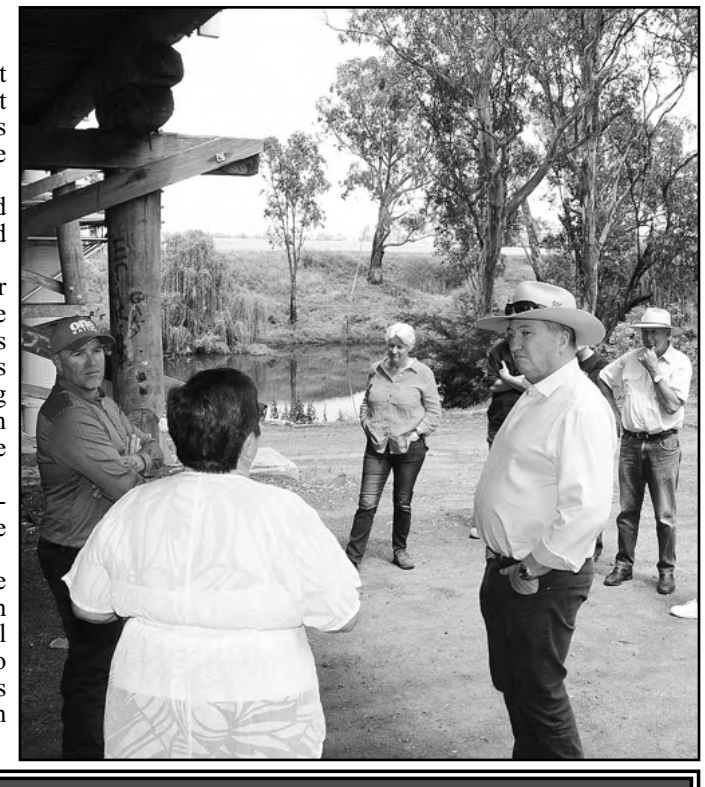

"To make a nation work you've got to have people making a buck, and not the swindle factories, but your farmers and graziers producing grain here," he said.

You've got wheat, barley, canola, and I imagine they've got fat lambs and cattle as well.

"However, if you can't move your product you can't get paid and the further you move it the less you get as return. So what we've got to set up is a fund to fix bridges [like Scabbing Flat]. And if you ask me where I'm going to get the money from, I've found $8.7 billion a year for you.

"It's out of the climate change department which we [One Nation] are going to get rid of.

"And after we get rid of the climate change department and the duplication of environmental efficiencies, we'll have a lot of money to be able to do things that don't actually send us broke, but actually make this nation money."

Wellington Osawano Japanese Gardens: Project Update

AT THE recent Council meeting the General Manager provided an update on the current status of the Wellington Japanese Gardens decking repairs, including scope of works, estimated timing, funding arrangements and proposed delivery approach.

The repair of the observation deck at the Osawano Japanese Gardens is a carried-forward Operational Plan action from the previous financial year.

Council originally allocated $35,000 for replacement of the deck flooring.

During project planning, a structural assessment identified that rectification works to the supporting pillars and subfloor structure were also required.

As a result, the scope of works has expanded to include repairs to the deck flooring, subfloor components and supporting pillars to ensure the platform is safe, accessible and fit for public use.

A quotation for the expanded scope has been received and the contractor nomination process has been completed. Council is currently finalising pricing for the expanded scope of works.

The revised project cost is expected to be confirmed shortly, at which time any budget implications and required budget adjustment will be known.

The project is proposed to be delivered through Council's nominated contractor. Following confirmation of the final project cost and contractor program, a construction commencement date and anticipated completion timeframe will be established.

A reopening date will be confirmed once the contractor's program is finalised.

The deck will reopen following completion of the works and confirmation that the structure is safe for public use.

In addition to these repairs, Council is progressing irrigation upgrades within the gardens and continuing discussions with its sister city regarding refurbishment of the front entry gate, with both projects planned for delivery during the current financial year.

Wellington Small Businesses Successful in Securing Grant Funding

Two Wellington small businesses, and another five from across the Dubbo Region, have been successful in receiving funding as part of the pilot Small Business Grant Program Dubbo Regional Council launched earlier this year.

Those local businesses were:

* Sharon's Haircut Shop, Wellington received $3000 – to support installing new, modern business signage and adding decorative potted plants to the front of the salon.

* The Grand Hotel, Wellington received $5000 – to contribute to the repairs of the front awning of the premise.

The Dubbo Region Small Business Grant Program was piloted by Council to help boost economic growth and development within the region.

Small businesses were able to apply for a grant of up to $5000 supporting a range of improvements, ideas and projects for local businesses.

Council had an overwhelming response to the pilot program with over 20 small businesses applying for a grant.

This program is about backing businesses to invest in projects and improvements that invest in the growth of our small business community.

Sharon and Ellie Gollan from Sharon's Haircut Shop said the improvements would help attract new customers, increase visibility and create a more inviting experience for clients.

"As a long-standing local business, we aim to continue supporting the Wellington community by providing quality hairdressing services and maintaining a welcoming space for everyone," they said.

The Dubbo Region Small Business Grant was a pilot program with $30,000 in grant funding available, with eligible small business, who employ up to 15 people, able to apply for a one-off grant of up to $5000.

Dubbo Regional Council will review and evaluate the pilot round of the program once the small business grant projects are completed to determine the next steps for the program.

Weight limits on bridge a tonne under national weight limits

RECENTLY I emailed Damien Pheiffer Regional Director Western Region Transport for NSW and asked him two questions, regarding a commitment that was made at a recent meeting where once the bailey bridge was removed that an assessment of the bridge was being done.

The questions related to the carriage weight of the bridge and bringing it into alignment with surrounding roads, especially as we are now heading into harvest.

1. Roads either side of the bridge have a carriage weight of 43.5 whilst the bridge is currently at 42.5.

Are you able to advise whether the assessment has been completed on the bridge and if the carriage will be increased to 43.5 tonne?

2. Under the Grain Management Scheme eligible heavy vehicles can exceed regular total mass limits by up to 5 per cent.

Will this apply to the Scabbing Flat Bridge?

The response I got was a short, it is still 42.5 tonne.

I asked again has the assessment been done and again a short, no.

So asked again why not and when will it happen and reinforced the importance due to harvest.

The response, I am on leave for the next couple of days and referred me to another person.

I rang that person and he has no knowledge or had any involvement with Scabbing Flat Bridge.

That is what we have been dealing with for the past three years.

This is why we need a replacement bridge that does not have weight restrictions and we would not have to deal with this pathetic excuse of a government department.

They continue to set expectations and never deliver.

Is Bowen following Columbus' footsteps in this new world?

NOW THAT I am over 80 and approaching old age, I increasingly enjoy pulling a book from our collection and peacefully reading and contemplating on wet and uninviting days.

Most recently I read "Famous Letters" the messages and thoughts that shaped our world, and a letter from Christopher Columbus to Luis De Santangel in 1493 after discovering the West Indies contained an analogy with our Solar/Wind Energy journey today.

Columbus after seven years of negotiations with the King and Queen of Spain realised his 18-year-old dream to sail west across the Atlantic Ocean and come to Cipangu (Japan).

He set of with three ships the Santa Maria and two smaller Caravels in August 1492 and after calling in to the Canary Islands, by October they found themselves well beyond where Columbus had claimed land would be found and the ships crews were "full of fear and threatening mutiny."

However, on the 12th of October land was sited and they made landfall that day on an Island the native population called Guanhani.

Columbus thought he had reached India and referred to the natives as "Indians".

His letter to the King and Queen of Spain via Luis De Santangel his financier, spoke of the beauty and riches of the Islands and how the native inhabitants were "ripe for conversion and exploitation" and how "he and his men were considered heaven-sent in their fine clothes" by the completely naked natives.

The ship "Santa Maria" floundered and sunk and Columbus had to return to Spain on one of the smaller Caravels and to avoid competition did not reveal any detail of the navigation route taken to the Islands.

He was congratulated by the King and Queen and made "Admiral of the Ocean Sea and Viceroy and Governor of the Islands he discovered in the Indies" and suggested he immediately return to the "New World" and he would be afforded all necessary funding.

In this we see a person with a vision, and with no substantial knowledge and a failed plan to get to a place, and after fear and threatened mutiny only to arrive at another place, with rich rewards, and then after suffering the sinking of his conveyance returning to be congratulated and feted by his supporters and detractors.

Will this be the Chris Bowen Solar/Wind Energy Story?

Australia Day Blacked out!

Is the mayor (Josh Black) and GM (Andrew Wilsmore) trying to scuttle the success of Wellington's Australia Day ceremony?

TO MANY, it may look so from the October Ordinary Council meeting on Tuesday, October 27, when a notice of motion by Cr Richard Ivey pertaining to the Wellington Australia Day ceremony for 2027 was refused as it was deemed unlawful.

However, when asked why, the answer was that legal advice was sought and deemed unlawful by the general manager – (due to the Local Government Act, a reason did not have to be given).

Further to this an urgency motion by Cr Mathew Dickerson on this matter was disallowed by the mayor.

Later in the meeting Cr Dickerson called for an extraordinary council meeting which only needed three councillors to call.

It is believed that meeting has been set by the general manager on the last day (an extraordinary meeting must be called within 14 days of receival by the general manager).

Looking back

After Australia Day this year council promised a review.

It wasn't until some time in May that council conducted a workshop with agreement to alternate the arrangements for the Wellington and Dubbo ceremonies – the evening of Australia Day eve and the morning of Australia Day with Dubbo's on the evening of 25 January and Wellington's to be on morning of 26 Jan 2027 and vice versa in 2028.

However, at the September ordinary council meeting the general manager proposed in his report a completely different scenario, recommending that only Dubbo be the official Australia Day ceremony and Wellington and any other town or village in the local government area could hold their own.

And as a carrot, offered $35,000 to Wellington to cover its costs.

That report was circumvented by Cr Dickerson's motion to move to the alternate dates as mentioned at the workshop.

This motion was passed by council, but nothing has happened since, hence Cr Ivey's notice of motion which was deemed unlawful by the GM.

To the uninitiated of council matters it would be fair to suggest that someone in the council administration have been sitting on their hands – and now that an extraordinary meeting has been called, an even slower response has been to wait another 14 days, and hopefully an agenda.

Cr Ivey's notice of motion was:

That Council:

1. Reaffirms its existing resolution concerning Council-delivered Australia Day civic ceremonies in Dubbo and Wellington, including separate Australia Day Awards Committees, separate award recipients and retention of the 2026 award categories for each community.
2. Resolves to expand the role of the Wellington Australia Day Awards Committee to include a formal advisory role in the planning and presentation of the Wellington Australia Day ceremony, with the objective of strengthening community involvement and local ownership of the event.
3. Requests the General Manager to commence, as soon as practicable, an expression of interest process for community membership of the Wellington Australia Day Committee, providing reasonable opportunities for participation by the Wellington and district community, including previous Australia Day award recipients.
4. Determines that the expanded advisory responsibilities of the Wellington Australia Day Committee are to include:
a. Providing input into the planning and presentation of the Wellington Australia Day ceremony on 26 January 2027.
b. Advising on the promotion of the ceremony and opportunities to encourage community attendance and participation.
c. Providing input into the timetable for award nominations and the selection process, consistent with the Committee's existing responsibilities for determining award recipients.
d. Advising on the involvement and itinerary of the Australia Day Ambassador, including opportunities to showcase Wellington and the surrounding district.
e. Providing input into the ceremony program, including official guests, Master of Ceremonies, Welcome to Country, Ambassador's address and award presentations.
f. Identifying opportunities for appropriate community participation and contributions to the ceremony.
g. Undertaking a post-event review and making recommendations for future ceremonies.
5. Determines that the Wellington Australia Day Committee is to be chaired by a Councillor appointed by Council, consistent with Council's existing committee governance arrangements.
6. Requests the General Manager to establish arrangements for meaningful consultation with the Committee on the matters identified in paragraph 4, including providing a reasonable opportunity for the Committee's input to be considered before significant arrangements are finalised, wherever practicable.
7. Requests the General Manager to prepare draft Terms of Reference and associated governance arrangements reflecting the responsibilities outlined in this resolution and to facilitate interim community consultation pending their adoption.
8. Confirms that the General Manager retains responsibility for the operational planning, management and delivery of the ceremony, including staffing, expenditure, procurement, risk management and statutory compliance, with the Committee's expanded role remaining advisory.
9. Requests the General Manager to provide Council with a progress update at its December 2026 Ordinary Meeting regarding community involvement and preparations for the Wellington ceremony.

Brien Partnership takes top prize in local wheat competition

GREG AND JASON Brien have been crowned winners of the 2026 Wellington District Wheat Competition, judged by Wellington AGnVET agronomists Matt McRae and Nick Redfern.

This year attracted extremely strong competition, with growers entering from across the district.

Areas south of Wellington benefited from some additional growing-season rainfall, which helped the Brien Partnership's crop of 'Condo' wheat achieve an impressive estimated yield of seven tonne per hectare (7t/ha).

Walking through the paddock, there was a significant number of heads, with most filling four to five grains wide. The paddock was also sown on some excellent river flats, with the late break in May helping to fill the soil profile and set the crop up for the remainder of the season.

Crop management was also a notable contributor to the overall score.

Minimal black oats and ryegrass survivors were observed, while the in-crop application of urea paid dividends in a year when high urea prices held many growers back.

Brien Partnership finished with an impressive 208 points overall, with their 7t/ha crop.

Second place went to Matt Mason from Westwood Grazing, with 189 points.

Third place went to the O'Brien boys from O'Brien Ag at Suntop, who received 188 points overall.

Congratulations to all the prize winners and, indeed, to every entrant who took part.

A massive thank you also goes to the competition's sponsors, who make this event possible.

The grain competitions don't stop here, with entries now open for the Local Grain section at the 151st Annual Wellington Show.

All grain types are welcome for judging.

Entrants are required to deliver a large ice-cream container's worth of grain to AGnVET Wellington by 12pm on Friday, April 30, 2027.

More details are available in-store at AGnVET Wellington.

Cupcake Halloween

AUDREY BURFITT turned Halloween baking into a helping hand for the community, raising $1273 at a cupcake stall held at her mother's café, Jespresso, on Saturday, October 31.

All proceeds will go to Yindyamarra Landcare, established by Jeff Amatto to bridge cultural healing, employment and land stewardship.

The donation will help fund free lawn mowing and rubbish removal for people who could use some extra support before Christmas.

Audrey was joined on the day by Anthony and Angel Haylock, (pictured above) with plenty of baking help from her Gran and Natacha Richards.

This year, she also invited the community and local businesses to donate baking ingredients.

Thanks go to Garian Foods Dubbo, Mazza Nolan, Shiela Bryant, the Sharpe family, Mrs Farley, Ben and Bek from Ben's Tyres, Grant the milkman, and everyone who dropped donations off at Jespresso.

Country Post Offices being stamped out

The Gee Report

Andrew Gee
Federal Member for Calare

FOR THE second time in Parliament in as many weeks, I spoke again on the plight of our country post offices and if we aren't careful, we are going to lose them.

Dozens of post offices across country Australia have already closed, and others in our region are being squeezed by unviable business models.

Australia Post and the Federal Government cannot wash their hands of this!

For many elderly residents and local farmers, their post office is the ONLY place left for face-to-face banking, bill paying and essential services.

A parcel locker is not a replacement for a local post office!

We expect Australia Post to actively support these small business owners and guarantee the future of rural postal services.

Australia Post, it's CEO and the Australian Government must be held to account!

Stop Taxing our small businesses dry!

In Parliament recently, I spoke out against the government's latest wave of new taxes.

They are enterprise and initiative destroyers that penalise our hardworking small businesses and entrepreneurs!

Small business is supposed to be the engine room of our economy, yet this government treats them like an ATM to prop up government spending.

They should be supporting those small businesses thrive, to take risks, employ our locals and keep our communities afloat.

Instead, they're strangled with endless tax after tax and reams of red tape.

If you're going to impose these massive financial burdens, the Government should have the courage to take them to an election and get a mandate!

It's simple: stop making life harder for the people building our future.

Bin these taxes, start respecting our business owners, and give them a fair go!

Stop Data Centre invasion

In Parliament I stood up against the massive data centre invasion threatening our regional communities!

The Tech Billionaires think our country communities are fair game and Parliament is asleep at the wheel.

Firmus wants to drop a colossal data centre out at Stubbo, near Gulgong, that will devour enough electricity to power hundreds of thousands of homes.

But, the unanswered questions just keep piling up:

ZERO answers on water supply
ZERO protection for productive farmland
ZERO protection for the environment, public safety & privacy
ZERO say for local country communities!

While the Tech Bros roll in it, these mega-projects threaten our way of life and risk driving up power and water bills.

That's why I've introduced my AI Kill Switch and Data Centre Control Bill.

We need an immediate halt and ban on these unregulated data centres until our laws catch up!

Parliament needs to wake up and act before it's too late.

tech talk with Mathew Dickerson, Axxis Comworld

WE HAVE five basic senses: hearing, sight, touch, smell and taste.

The first two are based on waves, which we managed to convert into signals and eventually digital code.

In 1876 we transmitted audio and by 1925 we were experimenting with transmitting video. The other three senses present somewhat of a problem.

I remember hearing about Smell-O-Vision when I was a child. It was a brilliant April Fool's Day joke the BBC pulled in 1965 that had people walking up to their television sets and sniffing them to participate in the first transmission of smell.

Some people actually called the BBC to report what they could smell!

Back in 1960, cinemas experimented with introducing smells at specific moments during movies. More recently, 4D cinemas have added moving seats, wind, water and scents to make the experience more immersive.

But smell relies on chemical molecules, and we haven't quite worked out how to transmit those through the Internet.

Or have we?

Researchers at Ohio State University have developed a system that brings us closer to sending smells across the Internet.

And while we are not quite ready to email the aroma of freshly baked bread, the technology is fascinating.

The system uses an electronic nose, artificial intelligence and a device called Scentronic.

Think of it as a translator for your nose.

When you smell an orange, tiny chemical molecules enter your nose and trigger receptors that send signals to your brain. Unlike colours, which can be recreated using combinations of red, green and blue light, smells involve thousands of different chemical compounds.

The researchers developed an electronic nose containing sensors that react to different airborne chemicals. These reactions create electrical signals that artificial intelligence learns to recognise. They trained the system to identify five aromas to start with: orange, cake, coffee, beer and red wine.

Once identified, the information travels across the Internet to a receiving device containing small reservoirs of scented liquids. Tiny vibrating mechanisms release droplets into the air, recreating the selected aroma.

In testing, participants correctly identified the transmitted smells 73 per cent of the time.

Not perfect, but considerably better than asking your television to smell like a roast dinner!

The researchers have even experimented with wearable versions, including necklaces and wristbands, along with a prototype capable of adding flavours to water.

Of course, there is an important distinction here. We are not actually transmitting molecules across the Internet. We are transmitting instructions that tell a device with locally stored scents to release.

And that distinction highlights the challenge ahead. With only five available aromas, the system is still closer to a musical instrument with five notes than an orchestra. But imagine where this could lead.

Online shopping could let you smell perfume before purchasing it. Virtual reality could transport you into a rainforest complete with the earthy aroma of wet vegetation.

There are serious medical possibilities too. Doctors could use controlled scents to investigate patients experiencing smell disorders, while carefully designed aromas might improve otherwise unappetising meals for astronauts.

Naturally, questions arise. Who controls the smells entering our homes?

Could advertisers interrupt our favourite programs with the irresistible aroma of freshly baked pizza? And would we need an electronic air freshener to clear yesterday's virtual fish market?

The technology remains experimental, and recreating the enormous variety of smells we experience every day is a significant challenge.

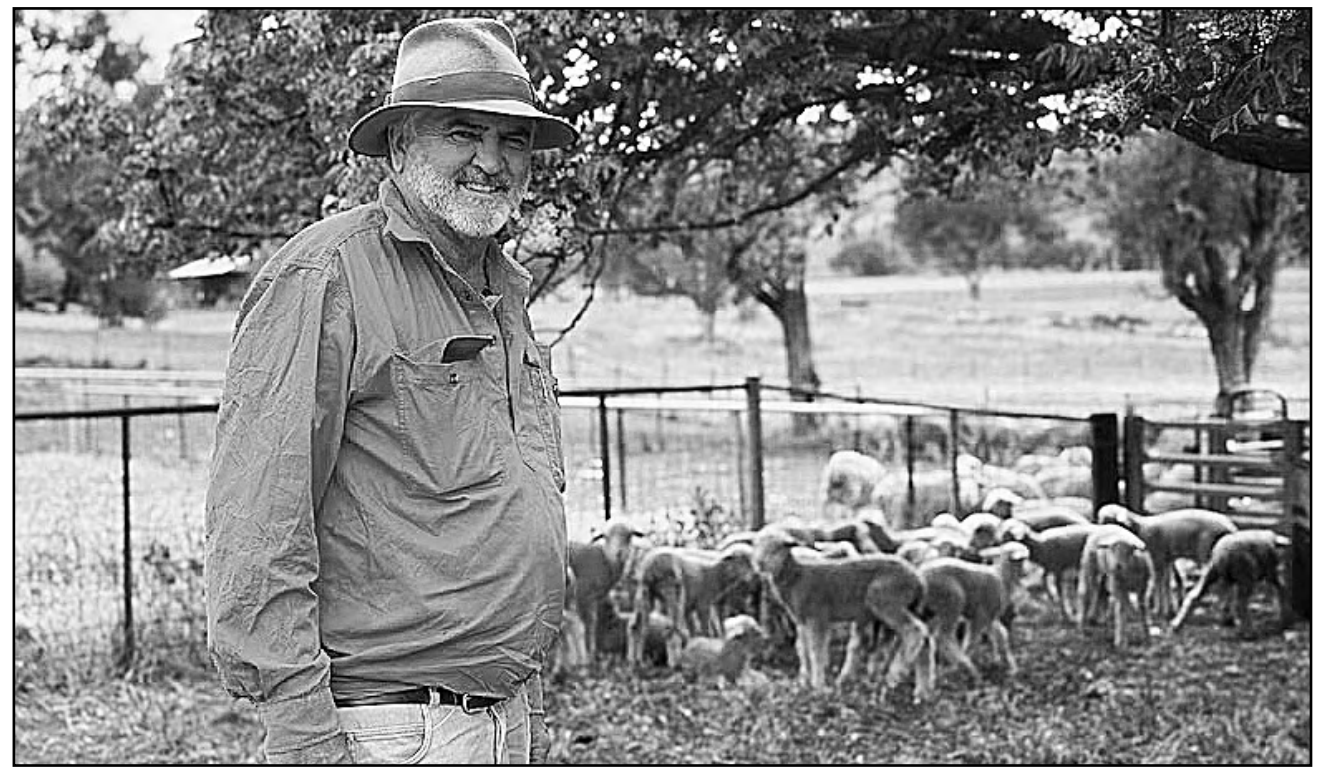

But we have already conquered transmitting sight and sound, and increasingly touch.

Perhaps the Internet of tomorrow will appeal to all five senses.

And when someone tells you their latest technological invention really stinks, that might be a compliment.

Biodiversity offset now protects habitat in same region as development

By Catherine James and Kim Goldsmith, ABC Western Plains.

Peter Barton checks some of his lambs at 'Brooklyn" in the Twelve Mile Road district.

IT TOOK Peter Barton four years of deliberation to sign over one-fifth of his 'Brooklyn' property to conservation.

What clinched his decision was something that initially had made him hesitate: the land must be maintained in its natural condition forever.

Mr Barton's 480-hectare property east of Wellington, is one of those contracted by the NSW government to offset environmental damage caused by construction within the Central West Orana renewable energy zone (REZ).

"That land cannot be used for houses, for mining, for renewables, for agriculture, for anything," Mr Barton said.

Paid to protect

Mr Barton's property sits within the Central West Orana REZ, the first of five zones the NSW government is building to connect wind and solar to the state's electricity grid.

The sheep grazier has lamented the "industrialisation" of his region, pointing to the wind turbines visible from his property with blade tips reaching 250 metres high.

"It's destroyed that land as far as I'm concerned," he said.

"If it was me who put those turbines up, I'd have to move away and never go back because if I did it, it would break my heart."

Under a new biodiversity strategy launched a year ago, the NSW government set aside $140 million to secure properties in the same ecological region as the Central West Orana REZ.

They are being purchased to offset the 1200 hectares impacted by the 240 kilometres of new transmission lines it is building.

An ecological assessment found Mr Barton's property contained endangered plant communities like the small purple-pea and was an ideal habitat for threatened animal species, including the critically endangered regent honeyeater.

Under the biodiversity stewardship agreement, Mr Barton said there was a "significant amount" of land management involved, which was supported with annual payments to tackle weeds and pests.

"The pigs, the deer, rabbits, any wild goats if they come back, will be all well controlled," he said.

"I'm hoping before I die that the regent honeyeater will come back."

New strategy after offset concerns

The NSW Department of Climate Change, Energy, the Environment and Water said it had reached agreements for around 6000 hectares, with another 8000 hectares in "advanced negotiations".

"Instead of taking a piecemeal approach, we're protecting and restoring habitat at a much larger scale," NSW Environment Minister Penny Sharpe said.

"That means bigger and better-connected habitats for threatened species."

The protected land includes native vegetation and woodland communities, as well as habitats for endangered species like the eastern pygmy possum, large-eared pied bat and masked owl.

Previously, biodiversity offsets offered by the government did not have to come from any specific region.

In 2022, the NSW Auditor-General raised serious concerns about the NSW Biodiversity Offsets Scheme's "integrity, transparency, and sustainability" in a lengthy report that questioned if the scheme was even effective.

At the time, the Nature Conservation Council (NCC) said the scheme was a "failure by almost every measure", and offsets were being "handed out like lollies" instead of used as a "tool of last resort".

The NCC has welcomed the new region-specific approach as a "long called for" move, with the $140 million a "substantial commitment" compared to other biodiversity programs.

"[Almost all of the] funding will flow to landholders in the region to compensate them for protecting parts of their land that have important habitat on it, and also to help them to do restoration work on that land," NCC policy director Brad Smith said.

Nature for the next generation

The irony of being paid to protect and restore nature so that environmental destruction could continue elsewhere was not lost on Mr Barton.

"This system they're developing is not perfect, but it's a start," he said.

"Developers are kicking and screaming about it because it's the first time that they've got to pay for the destruction of the ecosystem.

"But one day our grandchildren and our great-great-grandchildren will have something left.

"It won't be as much as what we've had, but at least it won't all have disappeared."

More delays expected at Warne Street rail crossing

UGL REGIONAL Linx has returned to the Warne Street railcrossing to complete the installation of Boom Gates.

This is the last of three stages of safety improvementsd at the crossing since May.

Final work began on October 26 and will continue through to December 11 - weather permitting.

During this period the road mayu be closed to traffic and detours will be in place similar to closures in July.

When finished the crossing will have new flashing lights and a boom gate on either side of the crossing and an improved pedestrian maze to improve safety for motorists and pedestrians.

Start dates set for new underquoting laws

THERE WILL be greater transparency for homebuyers and more clarity for real estate agents with the commencement of new underquoting laws this month.

Underquoting occurs when a property is advertised at a price below an agent's reasonable estimate of its selling price.

It can waste buyers' time and money and create a false impression about what a property is worth.

From November 17, real estate agents will be required to comply with the first tranche of reforms to restore confidence in the property market.

This includes:

* Adding a selling price or price range in residential property advertisements – the days of "price on inquiry" will be over.
* Making sure buyers know accurate pricing by requiring online ads to be updated within one business day if a displayed price no longer complies with the law. For example, if the estimated selling price is revised, a written offer is rejected because it's too low or the property is passed in at auction.
* Using the three most comparable sales when setting or revising an estimated selling price.
* Keeping detailed records showing how an estimated selling price was determined.
* Increasing penalties for underquoting up to $110,000 or three times an agent's commission, whichever is greater.
* Retaining agency agreements electronically.

The reforms build on changes introduced earlier this year, which:

* Doubled penalties for businesses that engage in dummy bidding to $110,000.
* Strengthened NSW Fair Trading's enforcement and disciplinary powers.

From February 8 2027, agents will also be required to prepare a Statement of Information which explains how an estimated selling price was determined, including details of comparable sales used to support the price guide.

The Statement of Information will need to be available alongside online advertising and at property inspections, giving buyers access to more information before making one of the biggest financial decisions of their lives.

With around 150,000 property transactions taking place each year in NSW, these reforms will help buyers better understand whether a property is within their budget.

These laws, their regulations and their timing have been developed following extensive consultation with industry stakeholders.

Less marriages - more divorces

Fewer Australian couples are putting a ring on it
THERE WERE 118,804 marriages registered in Australia in 2025, 1.7 per cent fewer than the 120,844 marriages registered in 2024 according to the Australian Bureau of Statistics.

This is similar to the number of marriages registered in 2023 (118,439) but still much higher than the numbers recorded during the first two years of the COVID-19 pandemic (79,987 in 2020 and 89,167 in 2021).

When adjusted for population size, the crude marriage rate in 2025 decreased slightly from 5.5 in 2024 and 2023 to 5.3 marriages per 1000 people. Most age-specific marriage rates for both males and females decreased in 2025, with the largest decreases in those aged 25 to 29 and 30 to34.

No age-specific rates increased.

The median age at marriage for males in 2025 was 32.7 years, a slight decrease from the 32.8 years recorded in 2024. For females it was 31.2 years, the same as was recorded in 2023 and 2024. There were 4636 marriages registered in 2025 for couples of the same or non-binary gender, down by 2.3pc from the 4746 marriages registered in 2024. Marriage between people of the same sex or gender was legislated from December 2017.
Spring continues popular time to walk down the aisle
Saturday 25 October (25/10/25) was the most popular date to get married, with 2035marriages.

That date had around 500 more marriages than the second most popular date on Saturday 22 November (22/11/25) which had 1527 marriages.
More married couples parted in 2025
The divorce rate rose slightly to 2.2 in 2025.

However, the long-term trend is still down (in 2005, the divorce rate was 3.3). The divorce rate measures the number of divorces in the year per 1000 people aged over 16.
However, married couples are staying together longer.The median duration from marriage to separation is up to 9.4 years.

In 2005, the median duration was 8.8 years.

And one bonus fact - 10 November 2012 (10/11/12) is still the most popular date for marriages in the past 20 years with 3081 marriages. Second place – 11 November 2011 (11/11/11) – only had 2614.
Marriages by date of occurrence
Higher numbers of marriages occurred in spring and autumn, while lower numbers occurred in winter and over the Easter and Christmas periods. This is a similar pattern to previous years.
Other popular dates were:
Saturday remains the most common day in the week for marriages. Over 52,000 marriages occurred on a Saturday in 2025. Of the top 50 marriage dates, 45 of them fell on a Saturday.
Friday is the second most common day to get married, with just over 21,000 marriages occurring on this day. The most popular date to get married on a Friday was 10 October (10/10/25) with 811 marriages occurring. This was the 33rd most popular marriage date in 2025.
The only date in the top 50 marriage dates that was neither a Saturday nor a Friday was Sunday 25 May (25/05/25) with 726 marriages.

It was the 40th most popular marriage date in 2025.
Divorces
In 2025 49,158 divorces were granted in Australia, up 4.1pc from the 47,216 divorces granted in 2024. This is comparable to the number granted in 2022 (49,241 divorces).

The crude divorce rate was 2.2 divorces per 1000 people, up from 2.1 in 2024.

The median duration of marriages (from marriage to separation) increased to 9.4 years (from 9.3 years in 2024).

The median age at divorce has increased for both males and females from 2024. The median age at divorce is now 47.3 years for males and 44.4 years for females.

Age specific divorce rates have increased for all male age groups from 40 to 44 years and older and all female age groups from 35 to 39 years and older.

Divorce rates fell slightly for both sexes in the 25 to 29 and 30 to 34 year age groups.

Firearm Review

FOR MONTHS the NSW Nationals have called on the Minns Labor Government to slow down and actually listen to the people who will be most affected by its rushed firearms legislation.

In that time, we've been criticised. We've been ignored. And we've even been prevented from engaging in meaningful debate in Parliament.

But in the last few weeks, there's been a shift in how other Members of Parliament are thinking and in the last sitting week, a bill was introduced in the Legislative Council to repeal Labor's bad laws.

That bill has now been sent to a Parliamentary committee for inquiry, which means members of the public FINALLY have the chance to have their say on Labor's flawed approach to firearms.

If you're impacted by the changes to firearms legislation, have your say through a written submission or consider attending a public hearing.

A public hearing is scheduled to take place in Dubbo on Tuesday, 1 December, with location to be announced at a later date.

Submissions close Monday, 1 February 2027. To lodge a submission, or check details of upcoming public hearings, visit: parliament.nsw.gov.au/parliamentary-business/committees/inquiry-details?committeeInquiryId=3216&fbclid=IwY2xjawVNB2xleHR

Remembering Emily

In Parliament I recently had the opportunity to pay tribute to the remarkable Emily Lyons, who at the age of 103, recently died after a life filled with resilience, humour and an extraordinary gift for storytelling.

For many years, listeners across the country came to know Emily through her regular calls to the ABC's Nightlife program.

She often joined in the nightly quiz. It was never about getting the answers right, but rather the cracking yarns she told, and it was through Nightlife that she was christened the Duchess of Dubbo.

After living a largely nomadic life filled with hardship, Emily settled in Dubbo where she lived in a caravan by the river with her beloved animals.

She was a regular at Woolworths Riverdale and she was a regular caller to the local radio stations as well.

For the past six years, Emily called Maranatha House in Wellington home.

On her 100th birthday I had the privilege of visiting her at Maranatha House and hearing a few of her yarns firsthand.

Even at 100, her ability to tell a good yarn remained intact and her very unique personality and voice shone through.

Vale Emily Lyons, the Duchess of Dubbo.

Spotlight on Small Business

What a jam-packed month October was getting around to small businesses all around the Dubbo electorate for Small Business Month!

A massive THANK YOU to everyone who took time out of their day to chat with me, suggest a small business to visit or invite me to see what your business is all about.

I unfortunately didn't get to visit everyone who reached out or was suggested this month, but I'm definitely aiming to get out and see them over the next few months.

Small businesses play an important part in our community, and it's been great highlighting the incredible stories behind our local businesses and the people who run them.

Check out my Facebook and Instagram pages to see who was highlighted throughout October.

WELLINGTON COMMUNITY SPIRIT AT ITS BEST

IT WAS A BIG DAY IN WELLINGTON WITH THE MARANATHA HOUSE FETE AND ROTARY MARKETS!

A highlight was Wellington Rotary presenting a cheque to Maranatha for $12,000! That's the result of lot of hard work from this mighty service club that serves Wellington and its districts so wonderfully.

One of Rotary's newest members is Jess Redfern, a local fashion designer who has been invited to show at New York Fashion Week next year. What an incredible opportunity for someone from our region!

It was also an honour to draw the Marantha raffle!

Maranatha House is a community-run aged care facility and right next door is Maranatha Gunyah Intergenerational Learning Centre. It's a pioneering combination of aged care and early childhood education that has attached worldwide attention!

Thank you to everyone who supported the fete and raffle today! It was superb!

BOOSTING OUR LOCAL RUGBY STARS!

Fantastic to drop by the Wellington Rugby Club to present a $1,000 Volunteer Grant for the under 12s Redbacks!

I was impressed with the young players during their mini-training session with me. They were running their own drills and supporting one another, it was great to see.

This funding will help cover travel expenses so the team can compete at the TAS Rugby Carnival in Armidale.

Looking further ahead, the club is also hoping to build towards a trip to New Zealand for this team in 2028!

Huge shoutout to President Josh Bullock and Junior Vice-President Grant Spradbrow. In just the past year, the club has skyrocketed from 137 to over 200 players!

Thrilled to support grassroots sport and our amazing local volunteers keeping kids active and connected. Go the Redbacks!

HAPPY HALLOWEEN

It was a wet start to Lithgow Halloween 2026, but when the clouds cleared, a massive crowd of ghosts, superheroes, pirates, skeletons and witches came out to join the fun!

After going as The Hulk last year, I switched to an astronaut theme for 2026.

Lithgow Halloween is now one of the biggest regional Halloween events in Australia, bringing the community together for a whole lot of Halloween fun.

FLAWED GUN BUYBACK BEGINS

The state and federal gun buyback scheme is now underway, and it is an absolute insult to law-abiding gun owners across our region and the state.

Taxpayers are being slugged a billion dollars for this scheme, while law-abiding gun owners are only being paid cents on the dollar.

Meanwhile, every other state and territory knows how bad and flawed this scheme is and don't want to touch it with a barge pole - leaving the ACT as the only other place signing up for it.

Every other day we hear about another drive by in Sydney. The streets are awash with illegal guns. Go after them.

Law abiding citizens are being made scapegoats to divert from the glaring government failures around the horrific Bondi attacks.

The scheme runs for 12 months.

My advice?

Don't hand in your guns just yet.

There's a state election coming up in March, and a pretty strong political message could be sent!

In haymaking and livestock nutrition stands ME, is measured in megajoules of energy per kilogram of dry matter. It represents the actual amount of useable dietary energy available to the animal for maintenance, heat production and meat, wool, or milk production after energy losses in faeces, urine, and gasses. While ME is a critical measure of the energy value of feed, other factors count such as NDF which measures the total plant cell wall content. It is the best standard for what is the best pasture to achieve this predicting animal intake. Also look at CP (crude protein).

What is the best pasture to achieve this? There are standouts with little difference between them the No 1 is Vetch hay. It has a higher ME (10.4MJ/kg DM than lucerne (10.1MJ/Kg DM) No 2, making it highly competitive for energy-seeking livestock. Its crude protein sits right in a similar tier to lucerne.\

The drift continues

THE WOOL market continued to have a weaker tone, recording the strongest weekly adjustment of the season. New business was thin, leading to a surge in the passed-in rate of 27%. Grower resistance greatest in Western Australia, with 51.3% of offering and more than two thirds of the Merino fleece passed-in. Majority of decline felt on opening Tuesday, falling 13 to 117 cents in Merino fleece, 20 to 155 in skirtings, 3 to 18 in cardings and 20 to 63 cents in crossbreds. Wednesday falls continued, albeit not at the rate of previous day but significant enough and was kept to losses around 10 to 45 cents throughout all indicators, with plenty of gaps in the market. Feedback from buyers over the past few weeks coming out of top makers in China has been either they are waiting on retail sales of apparel to start the pull through on demand, or that spinners are unable to absorb the current price level that exists in the market. Until we see those demand signals, caution will be the dominant theme along the whole supply chain. How long this cautious approach continues is up for debate when you look at wool production forecasts and the quantity of wool that has been offered already this season, which is sitting at 13.1% lower than this time last year. How far the market can slip could be in the hands of growers and the price levels that they are willing to accept for their Merino fleece categories particularly. Woven into that is the ever-widening gap between the medium to broader Merino indicators, showing supply and demand principals at their finest. AWTA's testing data shows the increase in micron in the South Australian and Victorian flocks since the good season has returned and increased the volume of 20 micron and broader, which has softened the price quite dramatically over the past couple of months, and has created a large price spread of 429 cents between the 19 and 21-micron indicators. This is now larger than the 17 to 19-micron gap, which is quite unusual as we normally see those finer microns push away from the medium types when supply starts having an influence on price in the way we are seeing. Sales this week will be held on Wednesday/Thursday due to the public holiday for the Melbourne Cup in Victoria, with 28,422 bales. Macwool and Carmichael wool will offer 888 bales today, (Thursday), with BWS returning next week.

DUBBO CATTLE.. 6700 head. Large numbers of yearlings for feeders and backgrounders. Also 180 calves selling to $1150. Young trade cattle firm, vealers and yearlings 488c to 524c/kg. Feeder steers and heifers 8c to 15c dearer, steers 498c to 598c/kg, heifers 455c to 543c/kg. Young cattle to restockers firm, steers to 676c, heifers to 568c/kg. Grown steers and heifers 10c to 20c cheaper, steers 430c to 500c/kg, heifers 446c to 495c/kg. Cows 5c dearer, 3-scores to processors 366c to 405c, heavy cows 400c to 418c, ave 410c/kg. Cows to restockers 355c to 421c/kg. Heavy bulls 20c dearer to 462c/kg.
DUBBO SHEEP.. 17,170 lambs. Good runs of well finished trade new season lambs, odd pens of heavy weights. Large numbers of secondary Merino lambs and hoggets. New start time of 10am worked well with a full field of buyers competing strongly from the start. Better finished trade new season lambs firm, $211 to $294, ave 1115c to 1175c/kg cwt. 20kg to 24kg $200 to $288. Heavy lambs firm to $8 cheaper, new season over 24kg $272 to $345, ave 1155c to 1190c/kg cwt. Heavy old lambs to $390. Best of Merino lambs firm, secondary types $10 cheaper. Trade Merinos $171 to $274, heavy Merinos to $317. Lambs to restockers and feeders firm, $150 to $264 for crossbreds, feeders paid to $285. Hoggets to $302.
MUTTON.. 7075 head. Plainer yarding, most grades $8 to $10 cheaper. Merino ewes $148 to $318, crossbred ewes $186 to $300. Merino wethers $138 to $260, heavy crossbred wethers to $340. Mixed age Suffolk ewes to restockers $220 to $250, large line of two-year-old Merino ewes sold to restockers for $298.
WOOL.. The correction in the market intensified last week with falls recorded on both selling days. In the Northern region all types immediately came under pressure when the market opened and tracked downward as the day progressed, resulting in a 32-cent fall in the NRI. Things started off in a similar pattern on Wednesday however a firming tone was notable, and competition remained robust especially amongst the better specified wool. A further 24-cents was lost from the indicator however larger losses in the crossbred sector and the Merino carding indicator made up a substantial amount of these falls. The broader crossbred types finished the week up to 10% cheaper. The headline market indicators closed the week at their lowest levels since March and are now around 250 cents below their respective current peaks. The market produced some large grower resistance to the falls with 26% of the national offering passed-in, with more than 50% of the Western region's offering remaining unsold. 19,693 bales were sold. Major buyers included Techwool, PJ Morris and Sequoia. This week's sales will be conducted on Wednesday and Thursday due to the public holiday in Victoria on Tuesday with 28,422 bales expected to be on offered.

Racing at Dubbo

WASHED OUT last week and transferred to Dubbo on Saturday, the $75,000 Imperial Hotel Coonabarabran Cup was a thriller with a neck margin separating the first four across the finish line.

Reece Jones would have ridden Hammoon Sensation at Coonabarabran, however, booked for rides at Randwick on Saturday, he was replaced by Kody Nestor at Dubbo.

Wearing the gold with black Maltese cross colours of prominent owners Paul and Bindi Frampton from Merriwa, Kody Nestor gave the Rod Northam, Scone trained Hammoon Sensation a good run parked behind the leaders in the 1600 metres Cup run in front of a huge crowd.

Over the frantic, final strides, Hammoon Sensation ($2.35 favourite) edged to the front and won by a half-neck from Egyptologist (Jake Pracey-Holmes, $14) with a head to Talkachino (Jacob Stiff, $15) while Micro Mikki was a very close fourth. The 1100m North West Equestrian Showcase Sprint was also washed out at Coonabarabran and at Dubbo was won by the highly consistent five-year-old mare Crook from the Clint Lundholm stable at Dubbo.

Non-claiming apprentice Zoe Hunt is riding in top form and she brought Crook ($2.45 fav) from back in the field with a rails run to beat Castlebar Road (Gabrielle Johnston, $8.50) and How's It Kev (Glenn Cahill. $12).

Last start Forbes winner Quasimoto gave Clint Lundholm and Zoe Hunt a Dubbo double when winning the 1300m Hello Sport Benchmark 58 Handicap. Close to the lead at the top of the straight, Quasimoto ($4.60 to $4.20) won by a half-length from the fast-finishing Divine Conclusion (Jasmine Urqahart-Warren, $18) and Onyspeed (Clayton Gallagher, $3.30 fav).

Another Dubbo trainer having a successful run is Paul Clisby who landed a winning double with Sleek 'N ' Style and Supreme Style, both being ridden by leading apprentice Jacob Stiff.

Fast away from the outside barrier, Sleek 'N'Style ($10) made it two wins in succession when leading throughout to beat Marinera (Clayton Gallagher, $4 fav) and Penciller (Liberty Smyth, $7) in the 1200m Tracserv Class 1 Handicap while Supreme Style ($2.90 fav) led for home when winning the 1000m Inland Petroleum Benchmark 66 Handicap from Miss Capricorn (Clayton Gallagher, $15) and Keadool (Gabrielle Johnston, $6).

Godwits, winner of the opening race, is an older half-brother to Skua which later in the day was unplaced in the Victoria Derby at Flemington after finishing second in a Group2 race the previous week.

Skua is trained by Ciaron Maher at Cranbourne while Godwits is from the Todd Smith stable at Dubbo and has won several races this campaign.

Presented by Todd Smith as a very fit stayer for the 2200m Burgun & Williams Benchmark 66 Handicap, Godwits (Jake Pracey-Holmes, $4.40 to $4) took the lead nearing the home turn and raced to an over four lengths win from D'Oro Choice (Liberty Smyth, $3.10 fav) and Tavijewel (Jacob Stiff, $4.40).

Racing in the red and black stripes colours of the Gooree Stud, the David Smith, Mudgee trained Beyond Perfection (Clayton Gallagher, $2.90 to $2.25 fav) landed some big bets and was impressive when coming from back in the field to win the 1000m Callaway Roofing & Construction Maiden Handicap.

The other winners were the Brett & Georgie Cavanough, Scone trained Big Brad (Liberty Smyth, $4.80 equal fav) and Smart Scud (Jasmine Urqahart-Warren, $3.40 fav) trained at Scone by Rod Northam.

The inaugural Harry 'Mab' Fuller Memorial Cup to be run at the Warren Cotton Cup meeting on Sunday will honour the highly respected and popular jockey who retired in 1981 after a successful career.

Originally from Gulargambone before a move to Warren, highlights of his career included an incredible 30 wins on Border Ghost and 13 wins on Skipper King.

'Mab' Fuller also won a race on Kisses For Kathy before the Bob Jackson, Bourke trained filly won the Silver Slipper at Rosehill when ridden by Neil Paine.

Learning, Exploring & Growing in Stage 2

In Stage 2, children are displaying an impressive effort as they tackle new learning challenges across different subjects. In mathematics, Year 3 are exploring the concept of volume, using hands-on activities and problem-solving to deepen their understanding of how objects occupy space. Year 4 are tackling fractions and decimals.

Meanwhile, in English, students are reading and discussing "Piano Fingers," a beautiful text full of figurative language and imagery. They are engaging with the story through creative responses, both verbal and written. Their dedication and enthusiasm are evident, as they actively participate in lessons, ask insightful questions, and demonstrate growth in both their mathematical and literacy skills.

Sunday, November 15 races dedicated to members

BACKBONE OF any club is its members – and Wellington Race Club will be recognising all of its members on Sunday, November 15 at the Wellington 'Members' race day.

Wellington Race Club president Peter Barton said that without members there would be a club.

"The committee was determined to acknowledge each member of the club by devoting the Sunday meeting to members," he said.

Importantly, it's not too late to become a member.

Just $66 and you and a friend can enjoy free entry to all race meeting including the big Boxing Day races, and the incredible Wellington Boot two-day carnival.

On the 15th, members will enjoy receiving six free drink tickets as a bonus.

"It will be a great day of racing for members and their families and friends," Peter Bartob said.

"Make it date, and we'll see you on course."

Membership enquires can be made by phoning 0437 778 451 or email: wellingtonboot@wellingtonraceclub.net

Declutter, cash in, and grab a bargain during garage sale trail

THE REGION'S Garage Sale Trail is back, running over two weekends – November 7-8 and November 14-15.

The annual sustainability event aims to reduce the volume of usable items ending up in landfill while also providing a fun and social way for residents to make and/or save some money.

Mayor Josh Black said the weekends were great opportunities for anyone to take part and contribute to sustainability in our region.

"These weekends are a great way for us in Dubbo, Wellington and the villages to come together, declutter, raise money and keep a whole heap of good stuff away from landfill," he said.

"With cost-of-living prices forcing everyone to make things tighter at the hip pocket, this is a great opportunity to find a pre-loved item and save yourself some money, or if you have quality items you don't need any more, make a little money rather than throwing it in the bin.'

Registration is free and open to households, schools and community groups.

Registered households taking part receive free advice, tools and promotional materials to help assist them with their garage sale.

Council encourages residents to get together with their friends and neighbours to host a sale or join in with a school group to fundraise.

Council has a number of programs in place already to assist residents in diverting items from landfill including a textile recycling program, polystyrene recycling program, Community Recycling Centres and the green-lid FOGO service.

Save the dates and sign up to host your own Garage Sale during the event, on either weekend.

Waste to energy inquiry calls 'double standard'

PRIMARY AMONG the 22 recommendations from the inquiry into regional waste-to-energy facilities are that the facilities proposed for Parkes and Tarago near Goulburn, not be approved in the absence of conclusive social licence from the potential host communities, says inquiry chair Nichole Overall.

The report also calls for a moratorium to allow for an independent review of the sites which are specifically restricted to regional locations.

"The most significant outcome of this extensive inquiry is the double standard where the government claims the technology is safe and yet it's only regional communities that will be forced to host the facilities," Mrs Overall said. "It's also unfair to expect the regions to deal with the burden of Greater Sydney's waste yet not even be given the genuine opportunity to have a say on what's to happen in their own backyard, let alone any guaranteed benefit. "Regulatory approval does not automatically confer social licence - that has to be earned, and in the current circumstances, it's simply not there." The current framework being advanced under the NSW Government would see more than a million tonnes of Sydney's rubbish undergo thermal treatment processes at the two proposed sites. Two other regional locations have also been added to the list for consideration at West Lithgow and Tomago.

Labor rushes Buyback without regulations

The MINNS Labor Government has rushed out details of their uncosted, unfair, and unworkable buyback scheme before the regulations have been introduced to parliament, according to NSW Nationals Leader Gurmesh Singh.

"Speaking to media in Sydney, Police Minister Yasmin Catley revealed that despite working through regulations for "almost two years" – well before the terror attack in Bondi – the Government won't bring them to Parliament until next year," Mr Singh said.

"Labor is rushing through a buyback that won't take a single illegal gun off our streets, and has no regulations.

"Why would anyone participate in the buyback before seeing the regulations or list of exemptions.

"If you weren't convinced after Labor gagged regional MPs from speaking on the flawed buyback in Parliament, this is further proof that Labor has abandoned regional communities and law-abiding firearms owners."

Deputy Leader of the NSW Nationals Kevin Anderson said its unworkable for the buyback to commence during the Tamworth Country Music Festival.

"It's clear no consultation was done. Local police need to be on the streets keeping us safe during our busiest time of the year.

I'll be calling on the Minns Labor Government to change this immediately," Mr Anderson said.

In the federal sphere Member for Calare Andrew Gee said the scheme was an absolute insult to law-abiding gun owners across the state.

"Taxpayers are being slugged a billion dollars for this scheme, while law-abiding gun owners are only being paid cents on the dollar," he said.

"Meanwhile, every other state and territory knows how bad and flawed this scheme is and don't want to touch it with a barge pole.

"Every other day we hear of another drive by in Sydney. The streets are awash with illegal guns."

Little Athletics - Jo Ivey photos

Monday nights are busy again at Rygate Park

Every Monday afternoon during school term, Rygate Park fills with kids in maroon and white.

Wellington Little Athletics is six weeks into its 2026/27 season, and the club says it is one of the strongest starts it has had.

More than 86 athletes aged three to seventeen have registered this season, up from 84 across the whole of last season.

The biggest change is at the youngest end. Sixteen three and four-year-olds have joined the club's Tiny Tots program, which runs its own games and activity stations while the older age groups compete on the track and in the field.

Monday 26 October was high jump night, one of the biggear events the club rotates through its four-week program.

Across the evening every age group from U6 to the combined 13 years and over group took on four events, with sprints, distance runs, jumps and throws all run by volunteer age managers.

The club is the only athletics program in Wellington, with the nearest alternative 50 kilometres away in Dubbo.

President Abe Dearmer said that made Monday nights matter for more than the results.

"Little Athletics is where a lot of our kids first find out they can run, jump or throw," Mr Dearmer said.

"Last season our athletes recorded 547 personal bests. That is 547 moments where a child did something they had never done before, and a parent on the sideline saw it."

Those results feed a representative pathway. Twelve Wellington athletes qualified for the Region 3 Championships in Dubbo earlier this year, bringing home a gold, two silvers and a bronze, and two went on to the NSW Junior Championships at Sydney Olympic Park.

The club's next tests were the Western Plains Zone Championships in Parkes on October 31 and November 1.

Local businesses have thrown their weight behind the season in a way the club has not seen before. This support keeps fees low, puts equipment on the track and means every child who turns up on a Monday gets the same chance to compete.

Each Monday night there are weekly awards for a girl and boy, also a best listener award.

"The awards have changed the feel of Monday nights," Mr Dearmer said.

"Kids who will never win a race are getting their name read out, a certificate."

The club has also taken delivery of a new electronic timing system, bought through a Central-West Orana REZ community grant from ACEREZ, which will give athletes accurate times for zone, region and state seeding.

There is plenty still to come. Competition runs every Monday of school term until December 7, with the club's Fly Championship and Christmas Party at Rygate Park on Sunday, December 13.

The season returns on February 8, 2027 and runs through to the final night on March 8, with Presentation Night in April.

It is not too late to join in. Registrations stay open all season, so new athletes are welcome any Monday, from Tiny Tots through to U20, and a child who starts now still gets a full run of events before Christmas.

Families can register at https://www.revolutionise.com.au/wellingtonlac/registration or come down to Rygate Park at 5:30pm on a Monday and see the committee at the desk.

Imogen breaks Butterfly record by nearly three seconds

WELLINGTON'S SWIMMING pool continues to produce local champions and one to keep an eye on is Imogen Jones, who recently broke the Wellington Amateur Swimming Club record for the 12 Years 33m Butterfly.

Imogen's swim record of 20.47 seconds was nearly three second quicker than the previous record of 23.20 seconds, held by Kyla Tasker since 2017.

No doubt as the season continues there will be other records slashed by local swimmers in their local pool.
