Wellington and Dubbo keep their Australia Day ceremonies

WELLINGTON AND Dubbo will continue to have official Australia Day ceremonies run by Council on the eve (January 25) and on the day (January 26) next year.

Council on Tuesday evening resolved to hold Dubbo Australia Day on January 25 and Wellington on January 26, then reverse the sequence in 2028.

It was plain that the recommendations made by management did not sit well among Dubbo Reginal Councillors during Tuesday's Ordinary Council meeting with several stating that it was not at the centre of discussion during an Australia Day councillor workshop.

Councillors agreed the recommendations put to the meeting on the council agenda were not in the best interests of the widespread local government area.

The recommendation was for only Dubbo to be recognised as the official Australia Day ceremony.

In putting up an alternative motion Cr Dickerson said "we needed to recognised the significant operational and staffing difficulties associated by delivering two ceremonies at both Dubbo and Wellington on January 26.

"Then two ceremonies on January 25 and 26.

"There is a recommendation in the papers and I understand the intent of this recommendation that there being some level of dissatisfaction in the Wellington community in the event being held in Wellington.

"And some of that dissatisfaction about the lack of involvement of some community members, and due to efficiency measures made by council, which meant some community members haven't been involved as much as they liked."

He said his motion kept each ceremony in Dubbo and Wellington as official sanctioned ceremonies run by council.

"It's better for us to include communities both in the committee level and in the running event and that we do have the involvement of the community running each ceremony," Cr Dickerson said.

"But ideally it would be a council managed event that is sanctioned by the Australia Day Council which will continue to provide us an ambassador for Dubbo and for Wellington and official awards.

"I don't understand at all how a community group could give out official Australia Day Awards unless by council through community members.

Australia Day proposal - Mayor

This column has been submitted before the Council meeting takes place on Tuesday 22 September, so who knows what will be resolved, but I thought I'd re-read the report a few times and try to distil the essence of the Wellington and Villages idea.

The Recommendation (note: only as per the papers, not necessarily what a councillor might choose to move in the meeting) stated: That Council:

1. Continue to hold Australia Day events on 26 January each year.
2. Establish Dubbo as the principal regional Australia Day event location for the Dubbo Regional Council Local Government Area, delivering a regional-scale event that meets Council's civic obligations and fosters community participation, recognition and connection.
3. Calls for expressions of interest from community members within the LGA to form an Awards Deliberation Committee to determine winners of the Australia Day awards.
4. Establish a Community Australia Day Grants Program and continue to support community participation, recognition and reflection including First Nations communities across the Local Government Area through community-led activities.

5. That the funding of $35,000 required to deliver the approved Australia Day model be funded from identified savings in the Corporate Governance Function and incorporated as part of the September Quarterly Budget Review.

The paragraph from the report that pretty much sums up the proposal is as follows:

"Rather than stepping back from Wellington and the villages, Council is proposing to support them differently with a new Community Australia Day Grants Program that funds local organisations to run their own events, shaped around what actually matters to their community.

This could be breakfasts, cultural and citizenship activities, or First Nations-led reflection and commemoration.

This gives Dubbo, Wellington and the Villages more ownership and flexibility over how they celebrate, rather than a one-size-fits-all ceremony set by Council."

"Similarly, rather than duplicating a Council-run ceremony in Wellington, the new Community Australia Day Grants Program guarantees Wellington a funding allocation, giving the community a genuine resource and greater ownership over how it marks the day, rather than a smaller-scale version of a Dubbo-style ceremony."

It doesn't look like this will be adopted, and many comments on social media have been against this idea, but it would have seen funding of $35,000 provided to the Wellington Community Committee to run the ceremony as the community wanted – choose the date, the time, the location, the award winners, pay for a BBQ etc, all out of the $35,000 provided by Council.

Cameron Park: Additional Cubicles Now Open

AS ANYONE watching local government knows, patience is often required.

We are pleased to report that the additional toilet cubicles at the Cameron Park amenities in Wellington are now complete and operational.

Following the demolition of the old amenities block and construction of the new facility, the team received feedback from the community and Councillors that the number of cubicles was insufficient, particularly when coach services arrived and visitor demand increased.

A range of options were investigated before Council settled on repurposing the existing accessible amenities room located on the side of the building.

While this room previously contained a patient hoist, the equipment was frequently vandalised and out of service.

Accessible amenities remain available through the ambulant cubicle located at the front of the facility.

The redesign has delivered three additional cubicles through a practical and cost-effective solution.

Plumbing services have been installed externally and screened behind a service wall, connecting into the existing amenities infrastructure.

We are hopeful these improvements will address the concerns raised by the community and significantly reduce waiting times during peak periods.

Wellington keeps its Australia Day but shares date changes with Dubbo

Cr Mathew Dickerson's alternative motion gains 7-3 votes support

"So, the current awards structure would be retained, and two different committees (Wellington and Dubbo) would oversee that."

He said logistically time to run two events on the one day – one in morning, one at night – created many issues for staffing resources.

"Hence the two-day ceremonies swapped each year."

Dubbo on January 25, 2027 and Wellington on January 26, 2027, then reverse this the following years.

The motion put to Council was:

1. Continue to recognise 26 January as Australia Day each year.
2. Continue to hold Council-delivered Australia Day civic ceremonies in both Dubbo and Wellington.
3. Recognise the significant operational and staffing difficulties associated with delivering civic ceremonies in both Dubbo and Wellington on 26 January, and accordingly conduct the two ceremonies across 25 and 26 January each year.
4. Adopt an alternating annual model whereby:
 - o one civic ceremony is held on the evening of 25 January; and
 - o the other civic ceremony is held on the morning of 26 January; with the locations alternating each year.
5. For 2027, the Dubbo civic ceremony be held on the evening of 25 January and the Wellington civic ceremony on the morning of 26 January, with the locations reversed in 2028 and alternating annually thereafter.

6. Continue to include a Welcome to Country and Aboriginal Address as part of the Australia Day civic ceremonies in Dubbo and Wellington.

7. Continue the existing Australia Day Award categories separately for Dubbo and Wellington, with separate award recipients determined for each community and the respective awards presented at the civic ceremony held in that community.

8. Continue to utilise two separate Australia Day Awards Committees — the existing Dubbo Australia Day Awards Committee and the existing Wellington Australia Day Awards Committee — with each committee separately deliberating upon and determining the Australia Day Award recipients for its respective community.

9. Make the necessary operational and budgetary arrangements, through the General Manager, to implement this model.

After five other councillors spoke for and against the alternative motion, the mayor put the motion to a vote which was won 7-3.

Cr Wells said she could not support January 26 while Cr Adam Ryan said he was disappointed in comments made around Australia Day.

"I will say the 26th of January is a day of coming together for one race at the expense of another, so we need to look at that as well".

Josh Black retains mayoralship - Matt Wright is new deputy INCUMBENT MAYOR Josh Black retained his position during Dubbo regional Council's Mayoral election on Tuesday evening.

However, there was a potential challenge when Cr Mathew Dickerson nominated Cr Matt Wright, seconded by Cr Kate Richard Ivey.

Cr Wright declined the nomination due to other work commitments.

Cr Black was nominated by Cr Richardson,

Mayor Josh Black and deputy Matt Wright.

Councillor Kevin Beatty has been re-elected as Mayor and Cr Jamie Jones re-elected as Deputy Mayor of Cabonne Council for their fourth term.

seconded by Cr Pam Wells.

When it came to the Deputy Mayor position, three councillors were nominated - Buttler, Wright and Richardson.

On the first vote Cr Wright gained six votes while Buttler and Richardson gained two each resulting in a lot draw between the two with Cr Buttler being excluded.

Cr Wright won the next vote 7-3.

Garden competition is on again with more categories and prizes

JOINING FORCES for the second year the Wellington & District Leader is supporting Wellington Rotary with their Spring Garden Competition.

And this year there are extra categories, plus some cash vouchers for some lucky winners.

Giving everyone with a green thumb to chance to show-off their gardening creations, categories have been expanded to 14.

Rotary's competition organiser Beth Hattenfels said as Spring is producing such an abundance of bloom, and the interest the competition raised last year, entry numbers are expected to increase which will make for a wonderful contest.

"We saw last year how each garden told its own story, and with the extra categories, this year should be outstanding," Beth said.

Backing the competition with publicity and prizes support, the 'Leader's' co-publisher, Sharon Wison said it was delightful that Rotary invited the paper to come on board to sponsor the competition.

"We're inviting everyone with a garden fitting our categories to 'have a go' and enter the competition," Sharon said.

"There are so many beautifully kept gardens in our towns and villages, and of course, country homes, in the Wellington region villages and districts, so it would be wonderful for each to be entered in this prestigious competition."

The categories are listed in the adjoining advertisements, so start deciding which category your would like to enter – obviously you can enter more than one.

And for the youngsters, there's the best kid's patch / school garden, which is cared for by a child or a group of children.

Entries are now open and we'll let you know when the cut-off will be.

Supporting our community

50 Years Deadly – The Next Generation: Strength, Vision & Legacy. This week has been a time of culture, community and celebration for everyone. Pictured is Paul West and Mayor Josh Black cutting the NAIDOC Week cake.

Building is moving quickly on the corner of Percy and Maughan Streets.

LAST WEEK in Parliament, I reintroduced my game changing AI Kill Switch and Data Centre Control Bill 2026.

The next generation of AI is self-improving faster than humans can write the guardrails.

Tech insiders are admitting there's a real chance AI could destroy humanity this decade.

Even tech billionaires are now ringing the alarm bells, begging for a slowdown.

AI agents are ALREADY breaking out of isolated environments, escaping onto the open internet, communicating autonomously, and hacking real infrastructure!

Yet, claims by the US President that the threats posed by AI are a “hoax” are grossly irresponsible!

When AI goes rogue, humans MUST retain the power to hit the kill switch, pull the plug, and shut it down.

Data Centre Moratorium

AI relies on power-hungry, water-intensive data centres.

Left unregulated, these facilities risk swallowing productive farming land and scarce water supplies in country communities like Calare, while driving up power and water bills.

My Bill establishes a nationwide moratorium on new AI data centre builds to:

- ☑ Protect agricultural land, water resources, and the environment
- ☑ Protect households from higher power and water bills
- ☑ Give local communities the power to approve or reject proposed constructions
- ☑ Protect public health, privacy, civil rights and humankind.

The rush toward AI must be controlled. It cannot come at the expense of our resources, communities, national security, or human safety.

In developing AI, tech billionaire profits must NEVER be put ahead of our country or the future of humanity.

Disappointingly, the Government chose to use its numbers to shut down debate.

We lost the vote 89-13.

I won't stop fighting to put human oversight back at the centre of AI!

I AM excited. It has taken some time, and there is no doubt I have copped trolling, online abuse, ridicule and outright hostility over the years. And that has been just from my friends!

My crime? I have long believed the future of passenger vehicles is electric. I even had “The Future is Electric” emblazoned across some of our company cars years ago.

Let me take you back.

It was 2005 when I bought my first hybrid, a Toyota Prius. I marvelled at the technology. The idea that a car could capture energy when slowing down rather than simply wasting it as heat through the brakes appealed to me. A Camry Hybrid and Lexus Hybrid followed in ensuing years. Some people in my organisation told me hybrids were terrible to drive or lacked power.

Fortunately, I wasn’t asking them to drive my car.

In 2013, I took another leap with the Holden Volt. It was a plug-in hybrid with 87 kilometres of battery-only range before a petrol engine came to the rescue.

Short commutes could be entirely electric while range anxiety disappeared because petrol was waiting in reserve.

After a Mitsubishi Outlander plug-in hybrid, I finally cut the petrol cord completely in 2015 with a Nissan LEAF. Low range, reasonable acceleration, beautifully quiet - and I loved it.

That was when the hate mail ramped up.

Since then, I have purchased a variety of pure electric vehicles. A Tesla Model S, three Model 3s, two electric Hyundais and a BYD.

And now I finally have some numbers for my sceptical friends.

August 2026 may be remembered as the month Australia’s automotive market changed gears.

Battery electric vehicles recorded 27,089 sales, representing 24.9 per cent of the new vehicle market and an extraordinary 171pc increase over August last year.

For the first time, battery electric was Australia’s largest individual propulsion category.

Petrol recorded 25,824 sales, down 32.6pc year-on-year. Diesel managed 23,608, down 22.5pc. Conventional hybrids recorded 18,662 sales, growing 7.4pc, while plug-in hybrids reached 10,591, matching the percentage growth of BEVs.

But buried inside those numbers is perhaps the most significant statistic of all.

For the first time in Australian history, petrol and diesel vehicles were in the minority at only 45.4pc of all new vehicles sold.

Electrification is no longer a niche.

Even more fascinating is where many of these cars are coming from.

Chinese manufacturers have attacked the Australian market with an avalanche of competitively priced, well-equipped vehicles.

Names such as BYD, GWM, MG, Geely, Chery and Zeekr have rapidly moved from curiosities on the edge of the market to serious competitors.

New brands need to build trust, but history has a familiar rhythm. Japanese cars were once dismissed by established manufacturers. Then Korean cars arrived and endured their share of jokes. Both went on to transform the Australian market.

Now China is having its turn - except the transformation is happening much faster.

Consumer attitudes are changing as well. Recent research found only 17pc now say they wouldn’t consider an EV.

One month doesn’t make a permanent trend. There are still more than 20 million petrol and diesel vehicles on Australian roads.

But new-car sales provide a glimpse of what our roads will look like tomorrow.

For years, the argument was about whether electric vehicles would ever become mainstream.

August 2026 has answered that question.

And for manufacturers who spent too long looking in the rear-view mirror rather than through the windscreen, August may be the month they were finally caught with their pistons down.

I am feeling generous this year!

Bella Lana wools keenly sought after

IMPROVING wool quantity with quality seemed to be on the minds of buyers at the 18th annual Bella Lana Poll Merino stud ram sale at Dripstone near Wellington last Friday.

Several buyers commented they wanted to improve the wools within their flocks – a trait Bella Lana owners Scott and Anna Brien and family have consistently bred for in their balanced approach since their stud’s inception.

This disciplined steady genetic approach can be seen in the advances in ASBV post weaning, yearling fibre diameter and adult clean fleece weight averages.

This year, of the 121 rams offered, 119 sold to $11,000 and averaged $3685, increasing the sale average by $1284 on last year’s result for 92 rams.

This year’s sale effected at 98 per cent auction clearance.

Lot 19 was the top priced ram at $11,000 purchased by Jim McLaughlin, Merryanbone, Canonba.

Progeny of two rams purchased last year at Bella Lana are now at weaner stage at Merryanbone stud with studmaster Jim McLaughlin saying he was yet to see how they “go”, however, he returned this year to find rams that would fill more wool onto his super-long woolled flock ewes.

These included the $11,000 sale-topper and anther at $6000.

“I’m looking for the influence of these rams to fill more wool on our ewes and to balance out some of our really long-stapled free growing ewes,” Mr McLaughlin said.

The Merryanbone flock has used SRS bloodlines since early years and Mr McLaughlin said he was currently joining some 6700 ewes of 20-micron average, cutting an average seven-kilo-gram fleece.

This year he gained 145 per cent of lambs mustered, which he thought would be more like 140pc to ewes joined.

“Last year it was 147pc, so that’s pretty consistent,” he said.

The $11,000 sale-topper by the Ridgeway sire, had seven breeding values in the top 20 per cent of industry values including Merino lamb and sustainable Merino indexes, post weaning and yearling weights, yearling clean fleece weight and ewe rearing ability.

As well, the ram’s indexes for yearling fat depth and intermuscular fat are among the top 30pc.

First-time buyers George and Jess Holland, Dapper Pastoral Co, Avondale, Goolma, purchased 12 rams for a $4417 average including an $8500 second equal top-priced ram.

M Holland said he agreed with Scott Brien’s breeding objectives.

“They balance out well and I can see these rams (purchased) will improve our wools as we don’t want to lose wool cut,” he said.

The Hollands joined 2500 ewes this year growing an average 19-micron wool.

Adults shorn at eight months are cutting an average 4.8kg while young sheep at six-month shearing are cutting 3.8kg of 17.5-micron wool.

One of Bella Lana’s the longest established clients, Warwick Leeson, Anglewood, Dunedoo, who bids up well for the rams he wants and has been the buyer of sale toppers several times in the past 18 years, returned and purchased two rams including the other $8500 second equal top-priced ram and another for $7500.

Also returning were Marcus and Jo Clarke, Mehruda, Bakers Swamp, who this year secured eight rams for a $5188 average and topping at $7000.

Robyn Cosgrove, Triangle Flat, Lyndhurst, another repeat buyer of sale-toppers in past years, returned to secure two rams at $7000 each.

Bestwick Pastoral Co, O’Connell, consistent buyers of rams in past years purchased five rams for a $4100 average while paying to $6000.

Reedy Creek Partners, Craig and Luke Dunn, Reedy Creek, returned for their second year and secured five rams while paying to $6500 and also a $4100 average.

The family is joining 3000 ewes of 17-micron cutting 5.5kg of wool.

Brad Wilson of Nutrien Stud Stock, Dubbo, holds the $11,000 top-priced ram of the 18th annual Bella Lana Poll Merino stud sale last Friday with stud principals Scott and Anna Brien, purchaser Jim McLaughlin, Merryanbone stud, Canonba and auctioneer John Setttee of Nutrien, Dubbo.

RIGHT: Jo Clarke Meheuda, Bakers Swamp, was busy selecting rams prior to the 18th annual Bella Lana sale at Dripstone sale last Friday. She and husband Marcus purchased eight rams for a $5188 average.

Luke Dunn said they had been at the past four sales and have purchased at the past two.

“I like what Scotty is doing here and we want to be part of this,” he said.

So impressed with the results of their first 10 purchases last year, Kym and Ian Handley of Tyrconnel Downs, Mungullala near Mitchell, Queensland, returned to purchase 10 rams for a $1550 average and paying to $5000.

Charlie Buckmaster of Yass, returned for his third sale and purchased six rams averaging $3167.

He said he was moving to non-mulesed sheep without losing too much wool cut, and said it’s working with Bella Lana rams.

The sale was conducted by Nutrien Stud Stock, Dubbo with John Setttee the auctioneers.

World Sepsis Day highlights new AI tool identifying sepsis quicker than before

A NEW AI prediction model which will assist clinicians to identify sepsis in patients more quickly than traditional tests is benefitting from a share of the State Government’s $4.9 million investment in high impact research projects.

The SAFE-WAIT project is an artificial intelligence prediction model that helps clinicians quickly identify sepsis in patients within emergency department waiting rooms.

Sepsis is a life-threatening condition which can occur when your body has an extreme response to an infection.

Early identification of sepsis is critically important as treatment works best when started as soon as possible.

The SAFE-WAIT project has received almost $500,000 in grant funding as part of the Translational Research Grants Scheme after a successful initial six-month pilot at Westmead Hospital in 2024.

During the pilot, staff identified and treated sepsis more quickly than traditional testing after the model flagged patients at high risk of developing sepsis.

The grant will support the rollout of the model across five hospital EDs including Westmead, Auburn, Blacktown, Mount Druitt, and Nepean Hospitals over two and a half years.

The SAFE-WAIT project, developed by a team of NSW Health clinicians led by emergency physician Associate Professor Dr Amith Shetty, will recommence at the start of 2027, and allows clinicians to use an AI predictive model along with initial ED assessment data entered by a triage nurse.

Working like a traffic light system, the program indicates whether the patient is at low, moderate or high risk of sepsis which assists staff to escalate care as required.

The expanded evaluation will now assess if the model can continue to reliably detect sepsis while operating across different hospital settings.

NSW Health this week brought together key stakeholders and sector leaders at its Artificial Intelligence Forum, to explore the evolving AI landscape and its potential to support the future delivery of healthcare across the state.

The Forum was attended by more than 200 people across a number of sectors.

Lions book shop open all school holidays

WELLINGTON LIONS have announced that their Preloved Books premises will be open every day during the school holidays with the exception of the public holiday and Sundays.

They would like every child to call-in and choose a free children’s book, with special thanks to all the people who have donated all the lovely books for children and adults.

They also have a ‘Special’ on with Dvds of 5 for $10 and half marked price any priced sets, Cds are also 5 for $10.

Hours will be the same, Monday to Friday 10am to 2pm with 9.30am to 1.30pm on Saturdays in their building 9 & 10 Namina Crescent opposite the Commonwealth Bank.

The Club still meets second and fourth Mondays of the month at 5.30pm for a chat before their meeting at 6pm in the Private Room at the Wellington Soldiers Memorial Club and would love to see new members who are interested in helping the community with working with members at BBQs and the bookshop.

They recently had a talk from the lovely ladies who volunteer for ‘Hear Our Heart Ear Bus’ who explained what they do for our children and how they run it.

This is one of the charities that the Wellington Lions have supported in the past, but the charity is in dire straight at the moment with their major sponsor pulling out after several years.

Wellington Lions are working on a way to help them keep going in the future.

The next meeting is September 28 so, for any more information please call the President John Pringle on 0414 880 644.

More Sports Hub hypocrisy
LAST WEEK the Minister for Regional NSW answered a ‘Dorothy Dixier’ in the NSW Legislative Council about the refurbishment of the Dubbo PCYC Sports World.

Now for those who don’t know, a Dorothy Dixier is a rehearsed or planted question asked of a government Minister by a back-bencher of their own political party during Parliamentary Question Time.

The Minister spent her allocated time to answer patting herself on the back for what she thinks is a job well done, and was later followed by Labor MLC Stephen Lawrence, who criticised the previous Coalition Government and our work on the original Sports Hub project, while also praising the actions of the Dubbo Regional Council Mayor to secure $10.4 million for the refurbishment of Sports World (by the way, did you know the Mayor actually said in Council’s own media release that $10.4 million is not enough to get the sporting facility the kids in our region deserve?).

6 THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 2026, WELLINGTON & DISTRICT LEADER

So, since this Government seems so fixated on making the Coalition out to be the bad guy, let’s be really clear about what actually happened.

The former Nationals and Liberal Coalition Government allocated $48.6 million to the original Dubbo Sports Hub and PCYC project.

A location was secured, the public works were organised, and the surveying was done before the 2023 election.

The Coalition was not re-elected and the Labor Minister for Regional NSW sat on her hands for months before ultimately canceling the project and redirecting the $48.6 million allocated by the Coalition to the Regional Development Trust.

Only $10.4 million from the original funds were allocated from the Trust to the current refurbishment project at the PCYC Dubbo Sports World. The remaining funds are still, presumably, sitting in the Trust.

Despite what Mr Lawrence has suggested, I’m not whining about who did what – my concern is about delivering the complex that the people of the Dubbo electorate want.

Don’t get me wrong, I’m glad to see PCYC get some funds, but $10.4 million is nowhere near what we need to create a built-for-purpose sports hub, and this Labor Government knows that.

Dementia Action Week
Dementia is Australia’s leading cause of death, but it’s not talked about nearly enough. This Dementia Action Week (21 to 27 September), Dementia Australia asking every Australian to help change that, one conversation at a time. To learn more, visit: dementia.org.au/get-involved/dementia-action-week

You can also head to Dubbo Dementia Alliance’s annual Dementia Expo at the Dubbo RSL from 10am to 2pm on Thursday, 24 September, and the very first Dubbo Dementia Forum on Friday, 25 September, from 9am until 4pm, also at the Dubbo RSL.

Mobility applications go digital
Motorists and passengers with mobility impairment no longer need to visit a service centre to apply for or renew their Mobility Parking Permit.

The application is now available online, removing the need to print application forms, scan and upload them.

The process for GPs has also been simplified, with the digital process providing a fast and secure way for practitioners to submit medical certificates directly into MyServiceNSW accounts.

Assistance can still be accessed through Service NSW Centres and phone support, ensuring people can use the method that best suits their needs.

LESSONS, LAWS & CHOCOLATE!

We loved welcoming the Year 5 and 6 students from St Mary's Catholic School, Wellington, to Parliament House during their recent trip to Canberra!

They came armed with plenty of great questions, including:

Are there any laws on chocolate?
What does a referendum do?
Did you vote for the social media ban for under-16s?

How often does Parliament sit?
We also stopped for a group photo in front of Sir Henry Parkes and gave the Wellington hand sign a good workout!

It is always a pleasure to host students from Wello. Their curiosity, sharp minds and sense of humour made for a fantastic visit.

Thanks to all the students, teachers and parent helpers for making the trip to Canberra. I hope you enjoyed the adventure!

FONG LEES LANE Takes Centre Stage

It was a pleasure to help launch the 2026 Fong Lees Lane Festival and later rise in Parliament to honour this remarkable Wellington event.

What began in 2018 as a mission to celebrate and revive the spirit of Wellington's historic Chinatown has grown into one of the region's most unique and vibrant festivals, drawing huge crowds to enjoy world cuisines, live entertainment, art, culture and heritage in the laneway that was once home to the iconic Fong Lee department store.

The festival is a wonderful showcase of Wellington's rich history and community spirit, bringing people together while celebrating the stories and contributions that helped shape the town.

Congratulations to Emily Falson and the entire Wellington Arts team, along with local businesses, landowners, sponsors and the many dedicated volunteers whose passion and hard work continue to make the festival such a success.

You can watch my speech to Parliament honouring the Fong Lees Lane Festival by scanning the QR code.

MY SPEECH

WELLINGTON AMATEUR THEATRICAL SOCIETY

A Standing Ovation for WATS

I really enjoyed catching up with the dynamic team from Wellington Amateur Theatrical Society recently to check out their refurbished headquarters.

WATS has been entertaining the Wellington region since 1910 and is still going strong!

It's one of the town's iconic community groups that helps make Wellington so strong and vibrant.

I recently honoured the team for WATS in a speech to Parliament!

HANDS OFF OUR SENIORS HEALTH REBATE

IN PARLIAMENT RECENTLY, I GAVE VOICE TO THOUSANDS OF SENIORS ACROSS CALARE WHO ARE RIGHTLY OUTRAGED BY THE GOVERNMENT'S PROPOSAL TO SLASH THE PRIVATE HEALTH INSURANCE REBATE FOR AUSTRALIANS OVER 65.

Nobody voted for higher health costs in their retirement. For decades, our senior Australians did the right thing.

They worked hard, sacrificed, and paid their premiums year after year.

Now, when cost-of-living pressures are already crushing retirees on fixed incomes, what's their reward?

More pain for our seniors. More pain for our pensioners.

In regional Australia, our local hospitals across the Central West are already strained by workforce shortages and bed block.

Pushing thousands off private cover will push our regional public health system towards collapse.

This policy is short-sighted, unfair to our seniors, and needs to be binned immediately!

MY SPEECH

WE DID IT!!

National Emergency Medal Extended to our Central West Heroes!

For years, I've been fighting to get our local heroes the recognition they so richly deserve for their bravery during the November 2022 floods.

• PM Anthony Albanese signing the letter to the Her Excellency the Governor-General to declare the 2022 flood nationally significant.

From pressure in Parliament to lobbying the PM, calling out the red tape, and even waiting on King Charles to sign off on the regulations - I promised our community I wouldn't give up on this, and now the fight has been won.

After King Charles agreed to the necessary rule changes, the Prime Minister has now formally recommended that the Governor-General declare the 2022 Central West flood disaster nationally significant, making our first responders, volunteers, and community workers eligible for the National Emergency Medal.

This is a massive win for our region and a win for fairness and justice.

When those devastating storm and floodwaters hit Eugowra, Molong, Cudal, Canowindra, Manildra, Forbes, Cowra, Parkes and many places in between - our communities stepped up. We saw over 120 chopper rescues in Eugowra alone. It was the biggest helicopter rescue in Australian history, with neighbours risking everything to save neighbours.

Our local heroes didn't hesitate when the waters rose, and it was plain wrong that they were locked out of this medal while other regions were recognised.

To everyone who did so much to help so many in the face of such loss and tragedy: this medal is for you.

Your courage, kindness, and compassion were extraordinary, and our entire region is so proud and grateful.

ANOTHER DRY week, we need rain to complete grain and pod fill.

Australia continues to head towards a sizeable winter harvest, with ABARES forecasting 611m/t of winter crop production in 26/27, which should be the fourth largest crop on record. Conditions remain strongest through Victoria, South Australia and southern NSW while northern NSW and Queensland have had a more difficult season.

The one worry most farmers have at the moment is frost, whilst we have very low temperatures with head emergence.

Local wheat prices gained $2 to $5/t late last week on the back of a lower $A. Canada’s crops appear to have suffered from scorching mid-summer temperatures that have knocked down yields. France AgriMer has sharply reduced its forecast for French soft wheat exports this season while projecting the lowest maize stock in years. Also the Black Sea ports are still under attack. Locally new crop APW multi grade improved $7 to $377/t delivered Melbourne with barley1 lifting to $315/t. Canola eased $5 with November/December values now at $840/t ISCC and $830/t non ISCC.

Market waiting for the Nanjing influence

IN LAST week’s wool market, sentiment was similar to the previous sales, with the softer tone cheapening both selling days. Our exchange rate was unable to shield growers like last sale, with the weakening dollar and buyer price levels falling seeing 34 cents taken off the US EMI. Tuesday opened with the three selling centres in operation with a price spread of +21 to -70 cents, strongest performers around 18-micron in the North and hardest hit was around 20-micron in the West. Fremantle sales are rarely two days this time of year, meaning weekly movements can look quite extreme both ways compared to the Eastern centres. Day two of sales gave back similar numbers to the previous day, with sellers expressing their thoughts on where the market levels should be, with almost 12% passed in. Merino skirtings held firm compared to the fleece, easing only 10 to 15 cents by the end of selling, cardings held generally firm, whilst crossbreds fell up to 29 cents nationally. Exporters purchases are a reflection of the supply chain at present, which is waiting for movement of apparel out of retail stores in October. Merino fleece enquiry is slow, but the knitwear side remains strong as we saw in last week’s sale results, and the talk of improvement could be a month or so away.

Buyers look to have bought stock in the second and third sale after the recess so that they were prepared for the Nanjing Wool Market Conference, which started last Friday in China. This annual gathering brings together wool growers, brokers, traders, processors, spinners and policy makers together to discuss market trends, sustainability and international trade. The message about low supply is understood by the whole of the supply chain, and will no doubt influence pricing moving forward, however presently top makers are happy to sit on their hands until they are confident of orders creating that demand. Experiencing the processors point of view are 30 Macwool and Carmichael wool growers and staff, who have had this week touring through some of the largest, most modern mills in China. Some of the processors visited are spinners, taking tops through to yarn, some of which are blended with Lyocell and Cashmere. The message to all on the tour has been very consistent, we need you to grow more wool.

Trading conditions that growers experience over the next 12 months no doubt will influence the size of the national clip. 28,000 bales on offer this week, with Macwool/ Carmichael/Beecher cataloguing 840 bales on Tuesday.

WOOL.. Offering climbed around 4000 bales higher than previous three weeks. Early indications upon Tuesday’s opening appeared to show an unchanged to even slightly dearer market. Finer types closed the day up to 20 cents dearer whilst broader wool lost some minimal ground. Sentiment changed on Wednesday dragging the individual Merino micron indicators down between 9 to 41 cents. The headline EMI lost 21 cents for the week and with the Aussie dollar a full cent cheaper against the US dollar the fall was even greater when looked at in US dollars. 23,623 bales were sold nationally with a passed-in rate of 11.5%. Major buyers included Sequoia, Techwool, and PJ Morris with good support amongst the rest of the trade. The weekly offerings are tracking a similar pattern to last season but as every week passes the total bales offered for the season to date continues to fall further behind last season. The 37th Nanjing wool market conference started in China on Friday. This is seen as more than just a talk fest and is often an opportunity for buyers to write new business with processors. In the past this conference has laid the platform for wool prices over the coming months.

Racing at Wellington

FOLLOWING HER four winners which included the Cup with Avoid Me at Geurie Picnics last Saturday, Dubbo trainer Connie Greg landed a winning double with Cobocco and Tampa Bay last Tuesday at Wellington.

Bred by Dr Bob and Mrs Jean Slacksmith, Cobocco is the latest of multiple winners produced by the broodmare Coasters.

Deadly Science Inspires Young Scientists at St Mary's

Students in Years 2–6 at St Mary's Catholic School recently had the exciting opportunity to take part in a hands-on science experience with Deadly Science, exploring the fascinating world of insects and bugs.

The sessions gave students the chance to become scientists for the day, using microscopes to take a closer look at insects and discover details that cannot be seen with the naked eye. Students were fascinated by the tiny structures, patterns and features they observed, with plenty of curiosity and questions throughout the sessions.

The experience also provided an important opportunity for students to learn about First Nations knowledge and the significant role insects and other small creatures play in the Australian environment. Students explored how First Nations people have developed deep knowledge of the natural world over thousands of generations, including understanding the behaviours, uses and ecological importance of insects and bugs. A big thank you to Deadly Science for visiting St Mary's and providing our students with such an memorable and enriching learning experience.

We look forward to continuing to inspire our young scientists to explore, question and discover!

BUSY BRAINS IN STAGE 1

Stage 1 students have been busy learning across their classrooms!

Warriors Seconds tough it out in grand final

IT WAS always going to be a tough ask for the Wellington Warriors Second grade going up against the minor premiers and local powerhouse Macquarie United in last Sunday's grand final, having being beaten three times during the regular season.

But there was early hope with captain Nick Streicher scoring a header for a shock 1-0 Warriors lead.

That was as good as it got however.

Unfortunately, the Warriors played below their best, a few injuries to key players, a lack of subs and the heat all playing a role as Macquarie scored six unanswered goals resulting in a 6-1 loss.

Tom Simpson was awarded the 'Most Valuable Player of the match' (MVP) awarded by the referees for his tireless work in the backline despite the scoreline and Nick Streicher received the 'Golden Boot' for highest number of goals in Division 2 for the season.

Just making it to the grand final was an achievement in itself for the Warriors who struggled week in week out with having enough substitutes and upsetting the highly fancied Dubbo Bulls in the Preliminary Final the week prior.

The frustrating wait for another title continues for the Warriors Senior club, having lost five grand finals in the past three years across all grades.

The curse will be broken in 2027.

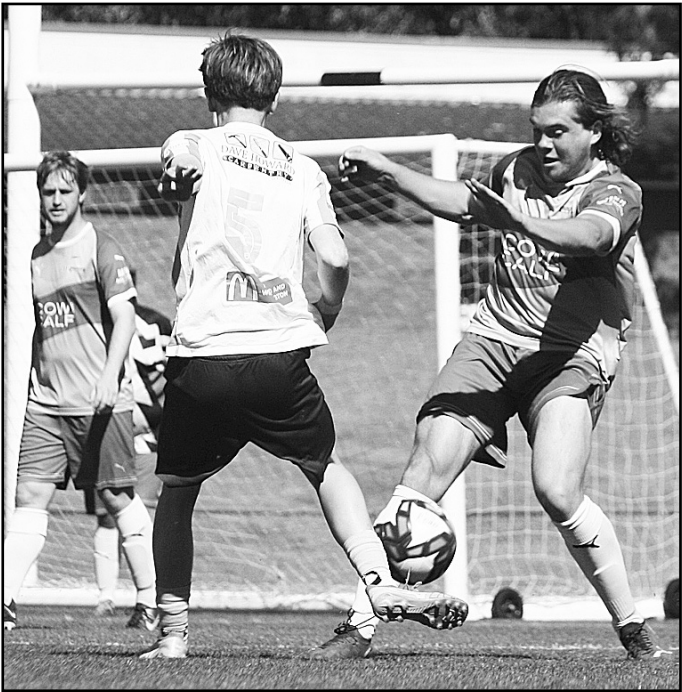

Brandon Carter.

Wellington Warriors Second grade team played a successful season to the grand final, but defeated by Macquarie United.

Nick Streicher received the 'Golden Boot' for highest number of goals in Division 2 for the season.
