Three-stage redevelopment major step approved

THE FIRST in the planned three-stage redevelopment in the Wellington Soldiers Memorial Club – council development approval – has been approved by Dubbo Regional Council.

This has enabled the club to move towards a competitive tender process for Stage 1 internal works which is an enlargement of the smoking area in the gaming room giving more privacy to players.

The second stage is a complete redesign and refit of the bar area to enable smoother customer service and better staff utilisation in the area.

The two stages are estimated to cost in the vicinity of $1.5million.

The third stage will be a brand-new kitchen and bistro style area complete with cooking at front for diners to be part of the whole food preparation and serving experience. The Menu will be enlarged to offer Australian, European and Asian cuisine.

And the kitchen upgrade will be close to $2.5million.

They are the main upgrades which will take up to two years before a focus on the downstairs area which is planned to start in the third year.

By that time the club would have saved enough funds to pay for the fourth stage which would include a synthetic bowling green with four rinks

Club General Manager Stephen Hodge said management had been investing funds each week to build-up the construction account.

“This will mean the club will not have to borrow large amounts to pay for the upgrades,” Mr Hodge said.

“With the gaming room upgrade, by giving patrons more privacy while playing, it may mean we have less gaming machines on the floor.

“But it is a priority that our customers be comfortable and more importantly feeling safe while in the room.

“Customers will also gain the benefit of staff providing a more customer-focused service out from the bar.”

Mr Hodge said redevelopment of Wellington Golf Club’s amenities and changerooms with a new golf office was close to begin construction.

“As well, plans for an external deck around the clubhouse are also in final stages, enhancing more family outdoor activities.

“Expressions of Interest are now open for the external works.”

Mr Hodge said the Soldiers Club continued to look for opportunities to enhance the accessibility and capability of the golf course and the clubhouse to support it to become one of the premium 18-hole golf courses in country NSW.

Council launches new Small Business Grant pilot program

OUR LOCAL small businesses form the heart and soul of our local shopping strip and employment opportunities in our towns, so Council has launched a pilot Small Business Grant Program to help boost economic growth and development within the region. Small businesses are eligible to apply for a grant of up to $5000 with applications supporting a range of improvements, ideas and projects for local businesses.

Some examples of projects small businesses can apply for grant funding include business frontage improvements, improve lighting, shopfront landscaping or activities that boost the night-time economy. The Dubbo Region Small Business Grant Program is a pilot designed to help local small businesses grow, create more jobs and keep more spending in the region to seeing if we can help facilitate economic growth and development which will be evaluated after the pilot round of the program. There is $30,000 in grant funding available in the pilot program, with eligible small business located within the LGA who employ up to 15 people, able to apply for a one-off grant of up to $5000.

Applications must be made via SmartyGrants and will not be accepted via paper or email. Applications open Monday 3 August 2026 and close 9am, Monday 14 September 2026. For more information visit www.dubbo.nsw.gov.au/funding ***

Apply now for Round 1 of the Community Funding Program Council is calling for submissions for the first assessment period of the 2026/2027 Community Funding Program. This program allows organisations to apply for financial assistance for events, projects, programs or activities that deliver community benefit outcomes for residents in the Dubbo Regional Local Government Area. In the first year, DRC awarded 34 community organisations with financial assistance for a variety of programs, projects and events. Some of the successful applicants include Sing Out west for the all-inclusive dementia singing out choir pilot program, Dubbo Triathlon Club for their Tri for Charity Challenge, Wellington Information Neighbourhood

Services Incorporated (WINS) for their Empowering Youth program and Bangladesh Community Orana Inc for the Eid Gala Dinner. Community groups and organisations that have projects or programs commencing from 1 November 2026 should apply. The Community Funding Program has $250,000 in funds available for the 2026/2027 program. Applications must be submitted via SmartyGrants by 5pm, 28 August 2026 to be considered for this assessment period. Applications are accepted throughout the year with two assessment periods annually. For more information about the Community Funding Program visit www.dubbo.nsw.gov.au/funding ***

Letter to Editor

I'M FREQUENTLY confronted with advice such as "if you haven't used it in three months throw it out" and "don't build it buy it" and "it's too old, replace it" and "get somebody who knows what they're doing to do it" and I wonder how many out there are experiencing the same? Looking around the home we are just personally finishing off renovating, I see the much-updated kitchen table we purchased second-hand 60 years ago to replace the wooden fruit boxes we first furnished our dining area rental at Anglo Square, Carlton in Sydney when first married. I see chests of drawers, a Credenza, a coffee table and bed that we acquired when we purchased a fully furnished home at Rosetta in Tasmania in the 1970's. I see 20-year-old Lazy Boy lifetime guaranteed recliners that Micky Di (Michael Dorin) effectively restored to new recently. I go out to the shed and see (what weren't stolen when we moved to town) Makita and other quality electrical tools I first purchased when we built our "shack" on Bruny Island Tasmania in the 1970's. Among those tools are some given to me as a birthday presents from my mum and dad when I went to Sydney to work in 1964. In Tassie we were allowed to set 30-metre fishing nets when we had the "shack" and the Aluminium dinghy we had for netting and fishing, after a number of outboard motor replacements, is now in the possession of our grandson. We still have garden and pruning tools and a perfectly functioning Rotary Hoe from 1976 when we had a hobby "small fruit" farm at Upper Plenty in The Derwent Valley in Tasmania. My 23-year-old Toyota Prado with over half-a-million kilometres on the odometer (and loose plastic panels and peeling clearcote) uses no oil and is reliable and comfortable and has towed our two "off road" vans over much of Australia. The two "off road" vans we owned were built from scratch by me, with the features we wanted, and eventually were sold, and the last one is still touring somewhere in the country. When we moved from the farm at Maryvale my son-in-law and daughter agreed for us to leave a few half-finished projects and "stuff" stored in two sheds, to see what they wanted and what we would bring to town or get rid of. One item was my home-made hydraulic log splitter and I will forever remember being told by my two sons, "you can buy one for $1400, why bugger around for four weeks building one from the old hydraulics from a no longer serviceable old tractor." The log splitter is still in use and reliable. As an active member of the Wellington Men's Shed, almost from its outset, some close members confided in me that I was absolutely crazy at 80 years of age to even think of personally renovating a 100+ year-old weatherboard home. But here we are today, as a result of early upbringing, belief, capability and a "won't be told", resistance, living very comfortably in a renovated house, originally built to last, close to all required services, and the satisfaction is immeasurable. Despite having the means to live differently, I attribute much of the way I confront life, to my early upbringing where the "after WW11 grief and recovery period" created a tough no-frills hardworking family environment where my mother reversed worn shirt collars to add to their life, whilst my father and his employees went humbly door-to-door in aged self-modified vehicles selling veggies, before he attended one of the many, many community, tennis and personal activities he was administratively involved in every evening and 11/2-day weekends.

In this early upbringing luxury things were scarce and expensive and nothing was disposed of whilst it worked, or could be revived or updated, and there was never any "keeping up with the Jones'." My wife with a similar approach to life sometimes recycles items and still makes our sauces and jams and has just finished up after 10 years volunteering with Red Cross at their Dubbo Op-Shop, and continues as a volunteer at Maranatha House. We are the outcome of our upbringing and all generations are the same. Roger Everett

Council launches new small business grants program

Dubbo Regional Council is launching a pilot Small Business Grant Program to help boost economic growth and development within the region. Small businesses are eligible to apply for a grant of up to $5000 with applications supporting a range of improvements, ideas and projects for local businesses. Some examples of projects small businesses can apply for grant funding include business frontage improvements, improve lighting, shopfront landscaping or activities that boost the night-time economy. Mayor Josh Black said the Small Business Grant Program was a pilot designed to help local small businesses grow, create more jobs and keep more spending in the region. "This program is about backing small businesses to invest in projects and improvements that invest in the growth of our small business community," Cllr Black said. "We are looking forward to seeing if this pilot grant program can help facilitate economic growth and development which will be evaluated after the pilot round of the program. "I encourage small businesses across the region to apply; the more that get behind this, the stronger our local economy will be for everyone." There is $30,000 in grant funding available in the pilot program, with eligible small business, who employ up to

Rabbitohs remember their cult heroes

Terry Fahey – a South Sydney Cult Hero

Every club has its superstars, but every club also has its Cult Heroes.

The ones whose names still echo around the Rabbitohs decades later, usually followed by a story that starts with “Remember when...”

This year, the Souths Players Association (SPA) put their cult heroes centre stage – including Wellington’s Rugby League giant, Terry Fahey.

The occasion was the 2026 SPA luncheon celebrating the club’s Cult Heroes on June 13.

Redfern Oval saw its share of superstars in the red and green jersey, but not many players took on the famous ground’s name, except for Terry Fahey - ‘The Redfern Express’.

A big winger for South Sydney in the late 1970s and early 1980s, it was a sight for sore South Sydney eyes to see The Redfern Express take to the rails, steamrolling defenders on his way to the try line.

A part of the fairytale Western Division sides of the mid-1970s, Terry played 87 games for South Sydney before going to the dark side in Bondi, then heading to the Nation’s capital to a fledgling Canberra Raiders outfit.

He also represented New South Wales in State of Origin as well as the green and gold of Australia, bringing joy to his state and country as he did his club supporters.

Wherever he went he got crowds to their feet and he brought much pleasure to the fans on the hill at the old Redfern Oval, mowing down anyone that stood in between him and the goal line.

The Redfern Express - a true cult hero!

As voted by all Rabbitohs Members, the top six voted Cult Heroes included Nathan Merritt, Issac Luke, Craig Coleman, Ziggy Niszczoł and Phil Blake.

NSW urged to register as organ donors

THE NSW Government is urging people across NSW to register as organ and tissue donors and talk to their families about their decision after DonateLife Week, which ran until Sunday, August 2.

Newcastle based heart transplant recipient Luka-Angel Cairns, is one of the main faces of this year’s national DonateLife Week campaign and is celebrating 10 years since receiving her transplant.

Luka-Angel is now encouraging the community to have the conversation about organ donation.

NSW recorded strong growth in donation and transplantation in 2025, with 160 deceased organ donors, an 18 per cent increase from the previous year, and 411 people receiving a life-saving organ transplant, a 17pc increase from the previous year.

Despite those results, registrations are falling.

Just 34,156 people in NSW joined the Australian Organ Donor Register in 2025, a 19pc decrease from the year before.

Organ donation is only possible in rare circumstances, with around 2pc of hospital deaths occurring in the specific clinical circumstances where donation can proceed.

Loved ones are always asked to support someone’s decision to be an organ donor before donation goes ahead, with eight in 10 families agreeing when they know their family member was a registered donor.

Some 1800 Australians are on the transplant waitlist, with a further 14,000 people on dialysis. Sadly, more than 50 people die each year while waiting for a life-saving organ transplant.

Throughout DonateLife Week, landmarks across NSW were illuminated in DonateLife magenta and community events were held across the state, beginning with a community walk and celebration in Sydney.

NSW Health is again partnering with Service NSW to put registration in front of people, with prompts across the MyServiceNSW app, service centre screens and Service NSW channels.

Registering takes about one minute at donatelife.gov.au with a Medicare card, or via the MyServiceNSW app.

LEO DUFF – Barber, Boxer and Bookmaker

Seeing the photo of Leo Duff in last week's 'Throwback Thursday' prompted Marie Hoffman to send this story.

BY Marie Hoffman from her Wellington Remembers collection.

“He was the only person who could cut hair, smoke, tell a good yarn and knew who was going to Court, all at the same time.” Melissa McCarney 15.3.2014

TRAVELLING BY overnight steam train from Sydney in 1947, not long after the Second World War, nineteen-year-old Leo Thomas Duff, stepped on to the grand Wellington Railway Station Platform. 6am, suitcase in hand, he was ready for a new adventure.

Leo had recently completed his barber apprenticeship in Penrith. Within two weeks he realised that Wellington was a great place for him. His two-week trial period became his home for the rest of his eventful life.

The newly qualified barber opened his Maughan Street barber's shop on 25th August, 1947. Unfortunately he found the electricity had not been connected, so he referred the queue of clients outside to one of the town's seven other barbers.

The store was a man's domain, inside and out. The window displayed one of Leo's life-long passions, boxing, featuring posters and photographs of well-known Australian Champions.

Inside were three wooden barber's chairs, two in the main shop and one in a back room. Light bulbs were suspended from the high pressed tin ceiling, shining down on a linoleum floor.

In the 1940s and 1950s barbers sold tobacco and cigarettes. Clients smoked while they waited their turn, listening to a combination of the radio and Leo's stories.

Though after being asked what he'd like that day, one client shot back "Cut them both short – the hair and the talk."

Leo met local girl Thelma Bartley and they were engaged in late 1953. Due to a housing shortage, the wedding was postponed until Sunday 3rd October, 1954.

Their wedding was conducted by Rev Father Corcoran at St Patrick's Church.

The reception for their 100 guests was held at the Golden Key Café.

Thelma was one of three daughters of Mr and Mrs T. Bartley of Simpson Street.

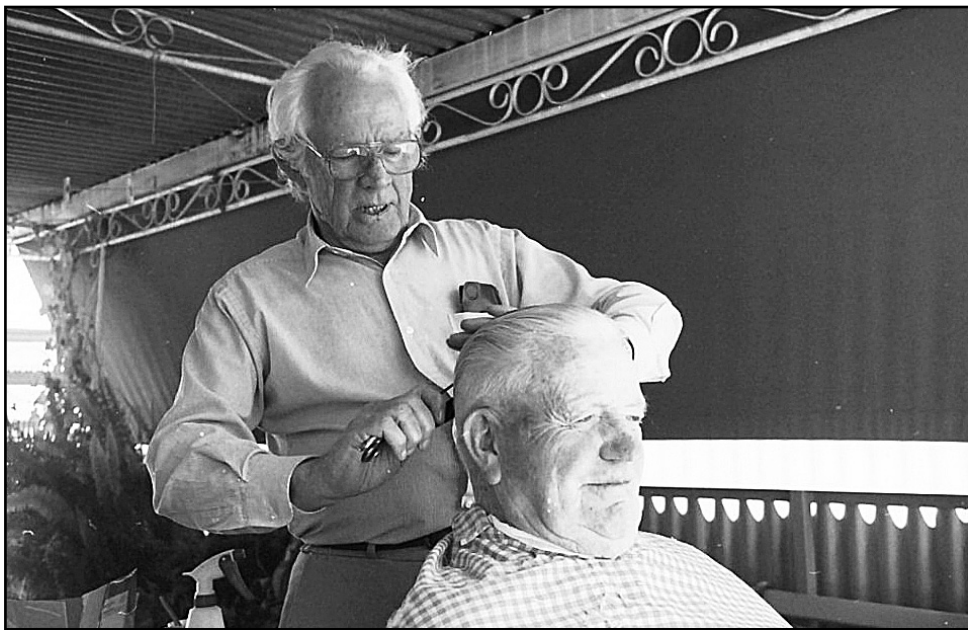

She was a book keeper and typiste at the Oxley Service Station, who nominated her for the title of "Miss Associated Garages" when the Bathing Beauty Competition was launched in 1953.

During the parade she wore a strapless lemon one-piece costume trimmed with black.

Leo was a playing member of the Wellington Tennis Club and in January 1951 The Wellington Times reported on a novice tournament where "Leo Duff proved himself a capable player and his fine service, with terrific top-spin, was causing the experienced Noel Bennison considerable embarrassment."

1954 saw Leo as the organising secretary of Wellington Amateur Athletic Club where a young Elaine Brown (now Wykes) was named the club's most outstanding athlete.

Leo was a fine cricketer and played with the Colts team for many years.

They were Premiers 1962/63 and were presented with the Bruderlin Shield. The photo of the team was proudly displayed in Leo's shop window.

Leo's passion for boxing commenced while he was living in Sydney. He was trained by 1936 Australian amateur light-weight champion Reg Lawes. Under his guidance and management, Leo never lost a fight.

He brought his talent to Wellington, assisting Eddie Donn at National Fitness to promote Boxing.

Some boxing matches had been held at the Wellington baths, where the sunken gardens are now.

Before Leo's arrival in town, local boxer Mickey Miller (Australian Bantam and Featherweight champion) met Young Gildo (the fighting Filipino) in 12 three-minute rounds in November 1939.

Leo recalled "The old baths were used one night in 1949 to stage a monster boxing tournament, the pool was emptied and the ring was erected halfway across the pool.

"It was then refilled up to the bottom of the ring. There were no seats required by the large crowd who attended as they all sat along tiered banks leading to the dressing sheds. This novel idea was a great success and little imagination is required as to the view the patrons had of looking down onto the action taking place out over the water."

On 18th September, 1948 the National Fitness ran a Boxing Tournament at the Wellington Baths to raise funds for Sports Queen entrant Daphne Gersbach.

It was announced that two brothers from Dubbo were to meet local lads Bruce Bennison and Leo Duff whose form was known. Leo Duff was the winner of the Lithgow tournament in the bantam weight division.

Before the event, The Wellington Times wrote, "Leo Duff is showing exceptional form, and his clash with Pat Ford of Orange, should be one of the highlights of the tournament. If Leo can down Ford, he will challenge Tony Fisher, of Orange for the feather-weight championship of the West." Referee Eddie Donn declared Pat Ford the victor on the night.

In 1952 Leo was secretly training former Australian bantamweight champion Mickey Miller for a fight against Western Champion Col Kirkness (at the Baby Health Centre, of all places).

The pair would jog out to the Showground early each morning, run around the track, work out on a bag and then skipping rope.

They'd box a few rounds and then jog back to town.

In December 1953 Eddie Donn called a meeting to form a Boxing Club to raise funds for a proposed youth centre by National Fitness. The meeting was held at Leo's Barber shop.

In 1993 Leo was elected President of the re-formed Wellington Souths Rugby League Club, continuing his support of the sporting community.

Leo was elected to Wellington Shire Council, serving from 1980 to 1983, representing the "E Riding" area with fellow Councillor, Robyn Quain.

It was a difficult term with fellow Councillor Wal Wykes passing away during this time.

He was an active member of the Wellington Chamber of Commerce and Business Association and on several occasions was nominated as President. He decided not to stand because of his SP betting business, reasoning that this would not be a good image.

After Colonel (Doctor) N.D. Barton officially opened Stuart Town's Memorial Gates on 11th June, 1951, a sports programme was held. Leo Duff and John Cohen ran a dead-heat in the 100-yard foot race.

This prowess was displayed in May 2000 when Leo Duff challenged another well-known local, Merv Apps to a 100-yard race held at Teamsters Park.

The hype and excitement leading up to the great event was electric.

Racing was an interest of Leo's. During a Court appearance in June 1959, William Arthur Arrowsmith was charged with using premises known as Duff's hairdressing rooms in Maughan Street for the purposes of betting.

Wellington solicitor Mr Bede McCormack said, "If the public didn't require the pleasure of S.P. betting it would not be necessary to have S.P. agents. It was a matter of supplying a demand."

As it was Mr. Arrowsmith's first offence, he was fined the sum of £10. The 22/3d from the 52 bets taken, ranging from 1/- to £1, was forfeited.

Leo became a licensed on-course book maker and travelled to race meetings while his wife Thelma became the S.P. bookmaker.

Leo was always generous and willing to share his skills with the community. Each year at the Wellington Quota Club's Melbourne Cup fund-raising event, Leo was always willing to bring his "bag" and board along to add to the atmosphere of the evening.

In 2014, Jim Stanley said, "I remember Leo Duff taking me around the Museum when I was nine, this was after he retired from his Barber's shop. He was telling us great stories about Wellington. This is one person that I remember and will always hold respect for."

Leo was a volunteer at Wellington's Oxley Museum and wrote memories of his early days in Wellington, which were included in a publication in the 1980s.

Leo was a strong supporter of the "Welcome to Wellington" Morning Tea event launched on 31st August, 1999.

This function provided a welcome voucher to each new resident, offering "Your first hair cut half price, local news, latest rumours, gossip, sports up date, jokes and arguments Free."

To raise funds for the Wellington Bindawalla Hospital, in 1999 the Wellington Times published "Wellington Naturally!"

It was a good-spirited calendar featuring local businessmen posing naked in their premises.

Leo became Mr April. The photographer was Mrs Jo Ivey and the calendar was produced by David Thomson (Wellington Times).

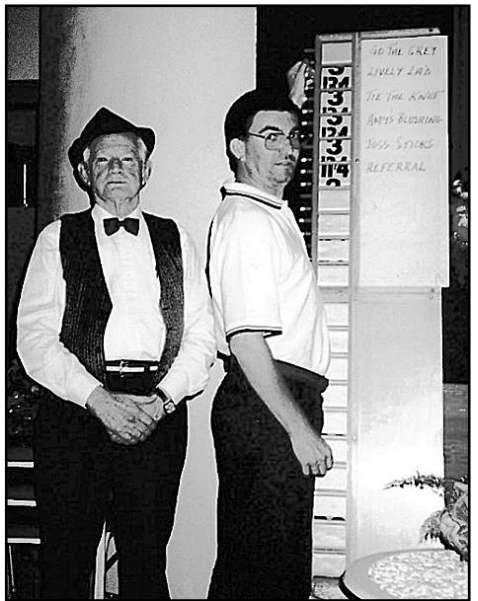

Leo passed away in 2007 survived by his wife Thelma and their four daughters, Robyn, Deborah, Kerry and Sandra.

Although small in stature, Leo was one of those larger-than-life characters around town who everyone knew and loved.

New Kidney Care Centre opens at Prince of Wales Hospital

Regional pump pain returns

PATIENTS ARE benefitting from a significant advancement in kidney healthcare following the official opening of the Prince of Wales Hospital Kidney Care Centre.

The purpose-built centre was delivered as part of refurbishment works at Prince of Wales Hospital and will establish an integrated hub for renal services in NSW.

It forms part of the NSW Government’s more than $1.5 billion investment in the Randwick Campus Redevelopment project.

The centre was designed to meet growing demand and increasingly complex patients, bringing together acute and satellite dialysis, home therapies, outpatient clinics, transplant support, vascular access management, paediatric services and multidisciplinary care in one modern, state-of-the-art facility.

As the only centre in NSW offering such a comprehensive range of services under one roof, the Kidney Care Centre enhances patient experiences, efficiency, and clinical outcomes.

From acute haemodialysis for complex cases to long-term dialysis support, the centre delivers care across every stage of the patient journey.

Patients are supported to manage their treatment at home, while expert outpatient clinics and integrated kidney transplant services ensure continuity of care.

Dedicated vascular access services and a strong multidisciplinary team further strengthen the centre’s clinical outcomes.

This innovative model also enables paediatric patients to receive specialised treatment while remaining connected to a lifelong care pathway, supporting their families and ensuring a smooth transition into adult services.

Additionally, the Kidney Care Clinic offers both a vascular clinic and vascular ultrasound imaging in the same space, as well as advanced acute dialysis with cardiac monitoring for medically complex patients, allowing safe and timely treatment outside the traditional hospital ward.

These co-located services enhance collaboration across specialist teams, helping to reduce pressure on emergency departments and inpatient services while ensuring patients receive the right care, in the right place, at the right time.

New Chapter for Wentworth Park

THE STATE Government has secured an agreement with the Greyhound Breeders, Owners and Trainers Association (GBOTA) for the final greyhound race meeting at Wentworth Park to be held in October with the Million Dollar Chase providing a fitting celebration of the venue’s 94-year racing legacy.

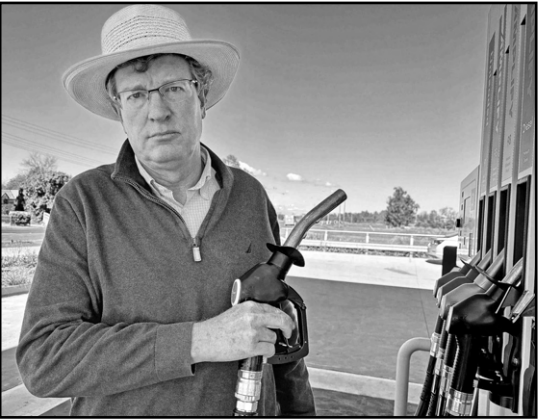

The former 3.9-hectare greyhound racing site will be transformed into new community sporting fields and public open space, expanding the existing parkland managed by the City of Sydney and creating more places for families, children and sporting clubs to enjoy.

As part of the agreement secured by the Government, GBOTA has requested an early termination of its land use licence to allow a smooth transition of operations to other venues from November 2026.

The site will be restored, racing infrastructure removed and prepared for transfer to the City of Sydney to deliver high-quality multipurpose sporting fields and public open space as part of an expanded 14-hectare Wentworth Park.

The NSW Government will work with the Greyhound industry to support the transition of greyhound racing from Wentworth Park to other racetracks, with $10 million to be allocated to the Greyhound Capital Grants Program for upgrades to ensure they meet track standards.

ESCALATIONS IN the Middle East are once again driving up global oil prices and the end of the temporary fuel excise relief is resulting in sharp rises at the bowser.

Regional families, farmers, and transport operators across the Central West are facing another brutal financial squeeze at the pump.

These price spikes highlight a massive, long-term failure: Australia’s total lack of fuel and fertiliser independence.

In recent years, our ability to source and manufacture fuel and produce fertiliser on home soil has been severely degraded.

Today, we refine less than 10% of our own petrol and diesel, relying on volatile overseas supply chains for over 90% of our fuel and 85% of our fertiliser.

These are critical national security and economic issues.

Australia cannot keep running on empty, held hostage by international conflicts and global market shocks.

The Federal Government must face reality and build genuine sovereign fuel and fertiliser capability - sourcing and refining fuel right here and manufacturing our own fertiliser in Australia.

To tackle fuel gouging head-on, I introduced my Fair Fuel Price Bill into Parliament earlier this year.

The Bill would give the Federal Government the power to set and control fuel prices at the bowser - just as was done during World War Two.

It worked then, and it can work now. Unbelievably, neither Labor, the Liberals, the Nationals, nor One Nation supported it.

This new spike in prices shows that the Government’s band-aid measures will not fix this structural crisis.

This is why I intend to reintroduce my Fair Fuel Price Bill into Parliament and will keep pushing it until the major parties see common sense.

We don’t need another round of wasteful Government advertising advising people on how to “save fuel”.

We need real solutions that control fuel prices like my Fair Fuel Price Bill.

Congratulations to the Wellington Lions Club on its outstanding contribution to the recent Back to Buckinbah Festival. Your dedication, community spirit and tireless volunteer effort helped make the event such a memorable success for locals and visitors alike. Well done to everyone involved.

Grant Opportunities

National Shed Development Programme – Round 32

The National Shed Development Programme (NSDP) Round 32 is now open, providing Australian Men’s Sheds with funding to improve facilities, purchase tools and equipment, deliver health and wellbeing activities, and enhance member safety.

Grants of up to $8000 are available across most categories, with up to $5000 for tools and equipment and up to $2250 for defibrillators.

The program is open to all eligible Men’s Sheds across Australia, regardless of Australian Men’s Shed Association membership.

Applications for Categories 1–4 close 21 August 2026, while Category 5 (Defibrillators) closes 4 September 2026.

Supporting Stronger Communities Grant Program – Round 19

Neighbourhood and Community Houses and Centres can apply for grants of up to $10,000 through the Supporting Stronger Communities Grant Program. Eligible organisations include metropolitan Neighbourhood and Community Houses and selected larger regional centres.

Applications close Monday, 24 August 2026.

I CAN picture the scene now. It’s a warm Saturday in the middle of summer. The kids have spent the day running around sporting fields, everyone is pleasantly exhausted, and we arrive home with one unanimous decision - let’s have a barbecue.

The sun is hanging low over the backyard, the smell of sausages fills the air and someone has just settled into their favourite chair on the veranda when it begins. That familiar high-pitched buzz. The mosquitoes have arrived for dinner as well.

Squashing the mozzie that has just landed on your arm is annoying, but we rarely think of these tiny insects as dangerous.

When someone asks about the world’s deadliest animal, we picture lions, crocodiles, sharks or perhaps snakes. Yet none of them comes close.

The humble mosquito is responsible for more than 600,000 deaths every year through diseases such as malaria, dengue fever and yellow fever. It’s the deadliest animal on the planet by an extraordinary margin.

For years our defence has been fairly predictable. A quick spray of insect repellent, a citronella candle, perhaps an electric bug zapper that sounds like tiny fireworks throughout the evening.

But perhaps the next generation of mosquito control won’t come from a can of insect spray at all. It may arrive as a tiny flying drone that patrols your backyard while you’re cooking dinner.

A French startup has developed a miniature autonomous drone with one mission in life - hunt mosquitoes.

It weighs only 40 grams and constantly patrols an area looking for its tiny airborne targets.

Bats find insects in the dark using sonar, emitting ultrasonic pulses and listening for the echoes.

This drone does the same thing.

It sends out ultrasonic sound waves and uses hundreds of tiny microphones to analyse the echoes bouncing back.

Here’s the really clever bit. Every insect has its own unique wingbeat pattern.

A butterfly, bee, wasp and mosquito all produce slightly different echoes.

Artificial intelligence has been trained to recognise those tiny differences, allowing the drone to identify a mosquito while ignoring beneficial insects like bees and butterflies.

Once the target is confirmed, the drone accelerates towards it and lets its spinning propellers do the rest.

It’s a fascinating combination of familiar technologies. Smartphone microphones, ultrasonic sensors, autonomous navigation and artificial intelligence have simply been combined in a completely new way.

I often marvel at the history of many devices we see and use.

Breakthrough technologies rarely seem to stay in the job they were invented for initially.

The first consumer quadcopter drones were not really designed to do anything practical beyond flying. They were simply radio-controlled aircraft for hobbyists.

That was the Draganflyer, launched commercially in 1999.

In a short period of time, drones were used for photography; surveying; mapping; infrastructure inspections; search and rescue; deliveries; light shows and so much more.

Many of these applications were never envisioned when the first consumer drones appeared, but I can absolutely guarantee an insect-killing machine wasn’t front of mind back in 1999. Yet here we are.

Yet this is often how the future arrives.

Not with giant humanoid robots suddenly marching down our streets, but with small incremental changes that seem like giant leaps when looking backwards but barely noticeable as we live through these changes.

And maybe, years from now, when you’re sitting on the veranda enjoying a summer barbecue without hearing that familiar high-pitched buzz, you won’t give a second thought to the technology making it possible.

You’ll simply enjoy the ambience.

And that’s often the sign of the very best technology - it quietly disappears into everyday life.

SOUND OF SILENCE ON GREAT WESTERN HIGHWAY CLOSURE

The sound of silence continues when it comes to the closure of the Great Western Highway.

PRAC PAYMENTS FOR ALLIED HEALTH A MASSIVE WIN, BUT DOESN'T GO FAR ENOUGH

I welcome the Prime Minister's recent announcement to expand the Commonwealth Prac Payment scheme to include 10 allied health University courses.

This is a massive win for country students, regional universities like Charles Sturt University, and Independent MPs who have been pushing the Government to deliver this support.

Under the expanded scheme, students in fields like physiotherapy, occupational therapy, speech pathology, paramedicine, and pharmacy will get $338.60 a week to help ease the crushing burden of 'placement poverty.'

In country areas, students don't just travel a suburb or two down the road. They often travel thousands of kilometres, relocate, pay extra accommodation, and give up part-time jobs for over 1,000 hours of mandatory, unpaid placements.

While this is a great start, the Government shouldn't be playing Scrooge when it comes to regional health.

Why have key courses like medicine, dentistry, optometry, and vet science been left out? Medical students face up to 3,000 hours of unpaid placements!

“Expecting them to do that for free pushes them to the brink.”

Studying for a medical degree shouldn't depend on the size of your bank balance.

The Government has taken a good first step, but the job isn't finished. They must extend these Prac Payments to all students studying these vital professions, so we can build the strong, vibrant regional workforce of tomorrow!

I'm calling on the New South Wales and Australian governments to immediately disclose the extent of federal support for rectification works on the Convict Bridge, and to deliver meaningful assistance for businesses being devastated by this ongoing crisis.

On July 1, the Federal Minister for Infrastructure indicated federal support would be forthcoming, yet since then, there has been complete silence. Our communities deserve answers. Both governments must clearly state how much funding will be committed, how it will be used, and whether it will deliver more lanes rather than simply reinstating a single lane in each direction.

Just as importantly, both governments must provide meaningful financial assistance to businesses struggling to survive.

To date, the NSW Government's response has been pathetically inadequate - a token gesture that fails to recognise the enormous economic damage being inflicted. Local enterprises are being pushed to the brink through no fault of their own, carrying the burden of successive governments' negligence.

What's been needed from the outset is the type of ongoing support provided during COVID through JobKeeper. I again call on both governments to step up before more jobs are lost, more businesses close, and more damage is inflicted on our communities.

The continuing failure of both levels of government to provide meaningful support or to accept responsibility for the consequences of their actions remains a damning indictment on them.

Food fraud on our supermarket shelves

NSW FARMERS said the recent Four Corners investigation should be a wake-up call for governments, regulators, supermarkets and food manufacturers after serious allegations of food fraud and misleading country-of-origin claims were uncovered across products sold on Australian supermarket shelves.

The investigation has exposed what farmers have feared for years – that consumers are being misled, growers are being taken for a ride, and we’re all paying the price.

Association president, Rebecca Reardon, said the investigation reinforced concerns the Association had raised for years about weaknesses in Country of Origin Labelling laws and the growing gap between the standards imposed on Australian farmers and those expected elsewhere in the food supply chain.

“The report is absolutely damning,” Ms Reardon said.

“When Australian consumers purchase a product labelled Australian-grown, they believe that’s exactly what they’re getting but the Four Corners investigation calls that assumption into question.”

“Consumers are being asked to pay a premium to back Australian farmers and if the claims on the label are not genuine, then consumers are being deceived and Australian growers are being undercut by products that are not what they claim to be.”

The Association has renewed its long-standing calls for stronger Country of Origin Labelling protections, improved verification of origin claims and tougher enforcement action where consumers are misled.

“Major retailers are quick to use their influence to take advantage of farmers at their gate, and shoppers at the checkout but it appears they are not so rigorous in ensuring accuracy in labelling of imported food,” Ms Reardon said.

NSW Farmers said Australian farmers were operating under some of the toughest production, food safety, biosecurity, chemical use and traceability requirements in the world.

“Australian supply chains are heavily monitored and growers are inspected, audited, tested, verified and scrutinised every single day with every food movement recorded and food safety requirement documented.

“Every supermarket supplier is expected to prove compliance to rigorous and often onerous standards.

“Yet the Four Corners reporting raises a serious question - who is checking whether imported products and ingredients are actually what they claim to be?”

The Association said that many growers would be furious to see allegations that imported products may have been marketed as Australian grown while local growers continue to absorb ever-increasing costs and work hard to produce high quality and sustainable produce.

“Consumers should not need forensic scientists to tell them where their food comes from,” Ms Reardon said.

“If the claims made on a package cannot be trusted, then consumer confidence in the entire food system is at risk.

“Australian farmers have spent generations building that trust and they should not be the ones paying the price when others fail to uphold it.

“Governments, regulators and retailers now have some very serious questions to answer”.

A Wonderful Start to Term 3 at St Mary's

St Mary's Catholic School has enjoyed a fantastic start to Term 3, with students returning refreshed, focused and ready to learn from day one. We are also delighted to welcome two new members to our team, Miss Parkes and Miss Goddard, and are excited to have them join the St Mary's community.

There is plenty to look forward to this term, with a full calendar of exciting events, engaging learning opportunities and celebrations planned for our students, including our much-anticipated Book Week festivities and St Mary's Showcase. Kindergarten enrolment interviews are currently being held, and families considering St Mary's for next year are warmly invited to get in touch. School tours are available for families interested in enrolling their children from Kindergarten through to Year 10. A visit is a wonderful opportunity to experience our welcoming school community, explore our learning environments and discover what makes St Mary's such a special place to learn and grow. If you are looking for a school where your child will be known, valued and supported throughout their educational journey, we would love to welcome you to St Mary's. Contact the school to arrange a tour or find out more about enrolments for 2027.

YET ANOTHER dry, cold week. This week will be much the same, no rain, cold mornings and tops of 16+ degrees. Most farmers are now looking for rain.

Donald Trump has hit Australia with a new tariff on certain goods of 12.5% on Australian exports to the US, replacing the previous 10% tariff. These tariffs came into force last Friday. This new tariff applies to many countries including China, Japan, Hong Kong, New Zealand, South Korea, Russia to name a few.

Products exempt from the new tariff for Australia include gold, beef and certain copper products, coffee and tea with an investigation whether to include Australian lamb.

Herbicides for use in Canola:- Imidazolinone - tolerant varieties only: 1. Intercept, apply at 2 to 6 leaf. 2. Sentry, 2 to 6 leaf.

T T varieties: 1. Atrazine 900 after 2 to 3 leaf; 2 Terbyne xtreme, early post emergence.

Glufosinate-ammonium tolerant varieties: only Liberty 200, 2 leaf to early stem elongation.

All canola varieties: 1. Diclofop, post emergent; 2. Elantra xtreme, post emergent; 3. Factor wg, 4 leaf to stem elongation; 4. Foragemax, 4 to 8 leaf; 5. Fusilade Forte, not after 6+ leaf; 6. Haloxypop 520, 2 to 6 leaf, not export canola; 7. Lontrel Advanced, 2 to 8 leaf; 8. Shogun, post emergent; 9. Status, before stem elongation; 10. Tenet, 1 to 3 leaf.

Always read the label before use.

Markets at a glance

WOOL.. 24th. Wool market’s final sale. Now a three-week recess. EMI fell 28c to 1873c/kg clean. Losses across all sectors, led by Merino fleece. EMI has fallen 116c over the past 10 selling days. National offering 31,751 bales, pass-in rate lifted to 15.3%. Skirtings followed fleece market. Crossbred sector also weakened. Cardings averaged a 18c decline.

CATTLE CARCOAR. 2582 head, +822. Numbers lifted and the quality was good. Weaner steers reached 641c, heifers 535c/kg. Medium and heavy feeders 10c to 12c softer, 500c to 605c, heifers slipped 5c to 10c, 440c to 545c. Heavy trade steers firm 470c and 510c/kg. Grown steers and bullocks firm 430c to 508c, heifers 426cto 460c. Cows 8c stronger, heavies 390c to 420c, leaner 2 score cows 365c to 387c/kg. The best of the heavy bulls reached 450c/kg.

SHEEP CARCOAR. 1400 sheep, 6200 lambs. Manly trade lambs. Light lambs to processors $240 to $260, stores $220 to $250/ Medium and heavy trade firm to $5 cheaper, ave 1195c to 1230c/kg cwt. Heavy trade $272 to $300. Heavy lambs $15 cheaper, $293 to $306, extra heavies $308 to $304

Tough finish heading into recess

ANY THOUGHTS of finishing sales on a positive note failed in last week’s wool market, with all sectors recording losses. All three centres operating on the opening day recorded falls ranging between 12 and 50 cents, with Merino fleece finer than 19micron under the most pressure. On Wednesday, buyers were a little more forgiving, shown by a few positive indicators recorded in the two remaining selling centres, but they couldn’t influence the EMI into the black. Demand for skirtings was better supported than fleece types, only softening on Tuesday to remain generally firm to the close. Cardings had mixed results, being cheaper in the South and West, and slightly stronger in the North, whilst crossbreds continued to fall, loosing up to 50 cents for the week. The larger volume of 31,751 bales had an increase in the passed-in rate to 15.3%. It was with great sadness early last week, we learnt of the passing of Peter Ackroyd MBE suddenly at age 76 in Bradford, England. Peter was a giant in the global wool industry with over five decades in the wool industry working across business development, research projects, textile innovation, and international promotion. He served as President of IWTO, was the current Chairman of the Campaign for Wool (of which King Charles is patron) and for many years a Global Strategic Advisor to AWI and Woolmark. He was also a great friend of our company and the wider Australian wool industry. Some will remember his visit to Louth in 2015 whilst President of IWTO meeting woolgrowers and our UK grower tour in 2018 where he opened all the doors to the mills of Bradford, Leeds and Huddersfield and entertained our group of 24 at the famous East India Club in London for dinner. His knowledge and connections in the wool industry were unparalleled and the counsel and advice he gave, as recently as a few weeks ago, was special. He was the most eloquent and witty conversationalist I have ever known and a good friend. We will miss him deeply. The market heads into a three-week recess, with sales resuming week of August 17. This is the second year of more sales in the new financial year to reduce the quantity build-up when sales recommence, hopefully repeating last year’s solid results rather than cheaper ones. The break may now allow both growers and processors time to reset and reassess positions, with quantities likely similar to this week for most of the sales until Christmas.

RICHARDSON AND SINCLAIR

Stock report by Ross Plasto

DUBBO CATTLE.. 3236 head. Fair quality yarding, large numbers of weaners, good numbers of yearlings to suit feeders. Limited numbers of grown steers and heifers, cow quality not to previous sale standard. Young trade cattle little dearer, vealers and yearlings 510c to 554c/kg. Light feeder steers and heifers firm to 5c dearer, heavier types 12c/kg cheaper. Feeder steers 470c to 618c, heifers 430c to 558c/kg. Young restocker cattle firm, young steers 448c to 638c/kg. Braford heifer weaners 800c and 815c/kg. Grown steers and heifers 8c cheaper, steers 412c to 468c/kg, heifers 454c to 487c/kg. Secondary cows to processors and restockers 2c cheaper, heavy cows 15c/kg easier. 2 and 3 score cows 300c to 405c, heavy weights 390c to 425c, ave 404c/kg. Heavy bulls to 450c/kg.

DUBBO SHEEP.. 16,855 lambs. Some outstanding heavy lambs, fair numbers of trade weights. Good numbers of secondary lambs. The few trade lambs finished firm to $5 dearer, 20kg to 24kg $230 to $300, ave 1180c and 1215c/kg cwt. Heavy lambs to 30kg firm to $5 cheaper, extra heavy $10 dearer. 24kg to 30kg $290 to $337, ave 1175c/kg cwt. Over 30kg $334 to $377. Merino lambs $8 to $15 dearer, trade weights $200 to $290, heavy Merinos to $340. Restockers and feeders very active paying from $103 to $288 for crossbreds and exotics. Feeders paid $265 to $295 for crossbreds and $275 to $298 for Merino lambs. Crossbred hoggets to $295, Merino ewe hoggets to restockers $310.

MUTTON.. 4580 head. Most grades $12 to $20 cheaper. Merino ewes $115 to $323, crossbred ewes $155 to $300. Merino wethers $143 to $240, most sheep 810c and 900c/kg cwt. Restockers paid $68 to $106 for plain conditioned Merino wethers off shears.

WOOL.. The last sale before the annual three-week recess had an increased national offering with the Western region returning to sales. Tuesday’s opening was softer and prices continued to dip lower as the day progressed. The NRI lost 22 cents for the day with individual micron indicators varying from minus 20 cents to minus 45 cents. Wednesday was more positive as prices tried to stabilise especially for the Merino types. Even though the indicator lost a further 7 cents this was driven more so by crossbred types. Movements in the Merino carding indicator last week were hard to comprehend. It was reported as down 21 cents on Tuesday and up 26 on Wednesday. The crutchings side of the equation appeared to outperform the locks. 26,900 bales sold with a passed-in rate of 15.3% which was inflated due to 25% of the Western regions offering failing to find a home. Major buyers included Tianyu, PJ Morris and Sequoia with one of the largest buyers of Merino fleece types notably absent from the top four. We now head into a three-week recess. Like for like offerings for bales compared to last season is down around 4% but the total dollar value in sales is up over 50%. It has been a bit of an indifferent start to the season, but we did commence it at historically high levels, and this remains a good wool market. Sales resume the week commencing August 17.

Racing at Coonabarabran

APPROACHING THE finish of a very successful season for Jake Pracey-Holmes, the jockey has produced a flurry of winners over the past week. Pracey-Holmes had a winning double at Carinda, Culgoa Kate and Edge Of Reward (Carinda Cup) and at Coonabarabran on Saturday his four-win haul comprised Meteor Mist, Inarticulate, Justo’s Rocket and Battle Reign.

The win by Justo’s Rocket was very popular, being trained by Wayne Martyn who shares ownership with Roger Matthews, both being from Coonabarabran.

Adding a sentimental touch to the result, the winner is named in memory of the late Justin Antaw, a young man who loved helping at stables in Coonabarabran and on race days at meetings.

Tackling the leaders soon after turning for home, Justo’s Rocket (Jake Pracey-Holmes, ($4.40) pulled away for a convincing win over Poised (Anna Weatherlake, $3.20 favourite) and Stormy Malice (Kody Nestor, $8.50) in the 1200 metres Imperial Hotel Maiden Plate.

Owned by Adam Hazelton and trained by his brother Kieren Hazelton at Gilgandra, Inarticulate at the second start since coming from Victoria won the 1600m Coonabarabran Kookas Class 1 & Maiden Plate.

Under strong riding from Jake Pracey-Homes, Inarticulate ($6) wore down the leading pair to score a half-length win over Jupiter Hills (Nick Palmer, $2.70 to $2.20 fav) and Himeros (Jasmine Urqahart-Warren, $7).

The other winners for Jake Pracey-Holmes were the Liam Ruddy, Scone trained Meteor Mist ($2.50 fav) and Battle Reign ($5.50) trained at Muswellbrook by John Collision.

Mendooran trainer Jane Clement continued a fine season with the quinella Bill Peyto and My Angel Shell in the 1600m Imperial Hotel Benchmark 50 Handicap.

Well ridden by apprentice Anna Weatherlake, Bill Peyto ($5) coming from last gained a rail’s run inside the leader My Angel Shell (Gabrielle Johnston, $5) to win by a long-neck while Aiofe (Jake Pracey-Holmes, $11) ran on nicely for third.

A regular visitor to the Central West from his Newcastle stables, Dale Wagstaff is the trainer of Ken’Ker (Serg Lisnyy, $7) all the way winner of the Coonabarabran Unicorns Rugby League Class 3 Handicap from Midnight Rabble (Leanne Boyd, $4.60) and Northern Boogie (Jake Pracey-Holmes, $4).

The Coonabarabran Cup meeting is scheduled for Sunday, October 25.

Meanwhile, Gilgandra to host the Collie Cup and Tooraweenah Cup meeting on Saturday followed by the Forbes Cup meeting on Sunday.

Syngenta’s paraquat exit shrink’s farmers toolbox

Syngenta ends paraquat sales in Australia after new restrictions imposed on controversial weed killer

NSW FARMERS has warned Syngenta’s decision to withdraw its paraquat products from the Australian market raises broader concerns about the future availability of critical crop protection tools for farmers.

NSW Farmers Vice President, Justin Everitt, said the decision would leave many farmers worried about their ability to access products for managing weeds and herbicide resistance.

“While this is ultimately a commercial decision for Syngenta, it is disappointing and is another reminder of the growing uncertainty farmers face when it comes to access to essential crop protection products,” Mr Everitt said.

“While there are a lot of generic bands available, Syngenta is a trusted manufacturer and many farmers will be disappointed to see their products leave the market.”

Mr Everitt said Syngenta’s decision also lays bar the growing fragility of farmers’ access to essential crop protection tools.

“Farmers are once again being left with more questions than answers about how they will access the tools they need to effectively manage weeds, protect crop yields and maintain sustainable farming systems.”

“This decision raises broader concerns about the future availability of critical crop protection tools for Australian farmers.”

Paraquat remains one of the most important weed management tools available to Australian agriculture, particularly in farming systems already grappling with herbicide resistance.

“Farmers need access to a diverse toolbox of chemistry to effectively manage weeds, resistance and biosecurity risks,” Mr Everitt said.

“Farmers are concerned by the growing trend of regulatory pressure and rising compliance costs — this market withdrawal by Syngenta is just another example of the reduced number of tools available to agriculture,” he said.

“Farmers are increasingly worried about whether they will continue to have reliable, affordable and practical access to the products they need in the future.”

NSW Farmers is engaging with industry stakeholders to better understand the immediate implications of Syngenta’s decision and will continue advocating to industry, representative bodies and the GRDC to ensure there is ongoing research and development investment into crop rotection products.

Funding opportunities for rural community halls across Australia

RURAL COMMUNITY organisations across Australia are invited to apply for funding to upgrade their local hall and community hub facilities through Rabobank’s Rural Community Hub Program.

The program has an overall pool of $100,000 available, providing the opportunity for 10 selected applicants to receive funding of $10,000 each to go towards improvements to their local rural hall or community hub.

The program is being funded by food and agribusiness banking specialist Rabobank’s Rabo Community Fund, which – since launching in 2021 – has invested into initiatives designed to support the vitality and sustainability of rural and regional communities.

Racing at Macquarie Picnics

AFTER SEVERAL years of no meetings held at Trangie, racing was welcomed back on Saturday. July 25 with a Dubbo trainer dominating with four winners including the Robinson Grain Trading Macquarie Picnic Cup with The Bentley.

Cooma Hut (Skye Regan, $2.20 favourite) established a seven-lengths lead but was run down and beaten a long-neck by The Bentley (Leandro Ribeiro, $2.60) while Hemsted (Amber Collins, $6) was almost six lengths away third.

Leading Picnic jockey Leandro Ribeiro also won on the Connie Greig trained Trigoso ($3) which tracked the leaders before beating Geewiz Johnny (Tamsin Gough, $13) and The Drafter (Ricky Blewitt, $15) in the 1100m Inland Petroleum Class

1 Trophy Handicap.

Amber Collins was in the saddle on the other Connie Greig winners, You Count in the 800m Elders Trangie-Aaron Pearce Transport and Seed Cleaning - Conditional Picnic Handicap and Taxonomy in the Nutrien Warren-Class B Handicap.

You Count ($3) gained an inside run to account for Western Eagle (Zara Lewis, $21) and Monkey Rat (Ashley Boyd, $6), betting prices subject to deductions for three late scratchings, while Taxonomy ($3.20) took a rail’s run to beat Bawnaglen (Ashley Boyd, $1.50 fav) and Talistiana (Ricky Blewitt, $2.80).

The seven-year-old gelding Obsessive Nature is proving one of the best weight carriers for many years in the Central West and humped a massive 76kg to win the Rebel Ag & Hilder Haulage Open Trophy Handicap.

Trained at Parkes by Sharon Jeffries, Obsessive Nature at the previous Picnic wins had carried 74 kg at Bedgerabong and 75 kg at Condobolin while between those wins was a winner in a Professional Benchmark 58 Handicap at Grenfell.

Now the winner of 10 races, Obsessive Nature (Ashley Boyd, $2.70 fav) finished gamely at Trangie to wear down the leader Mr Pointer (Tamsin Gough, $7) in the last couple of strides to win by a long-neck with Dao Sun (Skye Regan, $3.80) in third place.

Attention now focuses on Cobar on Saturday, August 22, the last meeting on the Picnic circuit where horses can earn points to qualify for the 1000 and 1400 metres $50,000 Picnic Championship Finals.

Warriors FC welcomes families back after school holidays

WELLINGTON WARRIORS Football Club was excited to welcome all of our players and families back to Pioneer Park on Saturday as local football returned after the school holiday break.

Despite the chilly winter morning, there was plenty of enthusiasm around the grounds, with even our youngest players eager to pull on their boots and get back into the swing of soccer.

Our popular Tiny Tots program, designed for children aged 3 to 5 years, continues to grow and provides a fun, welcoming introduction to the game. Through engaging activities and games, children develop fundamental soccer skills while improving their coordination, balance and fine motor skills in a supportive environment.

Led by the fantastic coaching duo Paul and Chris Campion, the program is a highlight of Saturday mornings. Their energy, patience and encouragement create an environment where every child can build confidence, make new friends and, most importantly, have fun.

Seeing the smiles on the faces of our youngest Warriors each week is a wonderful reminder of what community sport is all about.

Participating in local sport offers so much more than learning how to play a game. It helps children stay active and healthy, develop teamwork and communication skills, build confidence and resilience, and strengthen friendships both on and off the field.

It also brings families together and creates lasting connections within the local community.

Wellington Warriors are proud to provide opportunities for children of all ages and abilities to enjoy football in a safe, inclusive and family-friendly environment, and we look forward to another fantastic second half of the season and can’t wait to see the kids continue to grow and develop their skills.

Yeoval Eagles stalwart, Bill Edwards to play 300th game

FIT AND ready last Saturday for his 300th first grade game with the Yeoval Eagles rugby, veteran front rower Bill Edwards and fellow players and supporters now have to wait until this Saturday. The blow came when Coonabarabran forfeited their game.

However, Bill will now play his 300th game as Prop against the Canowindra Pythons at home in the first semi-final of the season.

Yeoval Eagles Rugby Club stalwart Bill Edwards has played Prop in every game played with the Eagles.

His contribution to the club goes far beyond what he does on the field.

He's someone who does an enormous amount behind the scenes, always willing to lend a hand and do his bit to keep the Eagles aloft.

A club spokesperson said Bill is a regular at Thursday night training and is always ready for game day, particularly if his contribution involves keeping the bench warm for as long as possible.

If Bill can get away with a solid five minutes on the field these days, he considers it a job well done.

"But when numbers are short and the Eagles need him, he'll just as happily roll up the sleeves and grind out the full 80 minutes although we're sure he'd prefer we didn't make a habit of it!"

They say the secret to a long footy career is looking after your body, and Bill may have perfected the art — 300 games, all at prop, one carefully rationed minute at a time.

But jokes aside, 300 games is an incredible achievement and a true testament to Bill's loyalty and commitment to the Yeoval Eagles.

The club is calling on all Eagles supporters to be at the 2pm kick-off this Saturday to cheer Bill and the Eagles to a semi-final victory.
