Tinsel takeover at hospital

WE TEND to only think of hospital when we feel ill or involved in an accident.

But as we get closer to Christmas, the whole atmosphere within Wellington hospital changes to an incredible festive season celebration.

Just call in and you'll see and feel the giving nature among the staff that Christmas brings.

And this year is no different to any other.

Except, this year hospital staff have been working twice as hard decorating every room, hallway and ward so Wellington can regain the coveted Christmas Decoration Competition accolade won by Dubbo hospital last year.

The Christmas decorations theme this year is "Make a Wish" and school students have also been busy helping by making their own decorations within the hospital departments.

Wellington District Hospital staff members share the tinsel as they prepare the hospital wards for the annual Christmas decoration competition against Dubbo Base Hospital. Joining in is Libby Averill, Kane Valiukas, Charmaine Cohen, Lisa Hodges, Tracey Glawson, Amy Myott, Michelle Lang and Shirley Campbell.

As it is said, Christmas is the time for giving, and this year is no exception at the hospital which is again, combining with all other Western Area Health District hospitals to conduct the KISS program –

Kids in need of Santa Sacks.

"We're all contributing to the Jason Owen's Doin it for Rural Aussie Kids foundation, says Physiotherapy department head, Lisa Hodges.

Struggling rural families are identified by health professionals in each hospital as being from struggling rural families who need a helping hand at Christmas.

Ms Hodges said Wellington Soldiers Memorial Club has come on board this year to promote the program.

All we ask is for people who care about rural kids whose families may be struggling, to donate a present or two," she said.

"Presents can be left at either the Soldiers Club or here at the hospital, and we will wrap them and fill Santa Sacks for distribution closer to Christmas."

Last year hundreds of presents were donated which filled 28 Santa Sacks.

"We hope we can get close to double that this year with everyone's help."

Council votes to oppose Hampton Park Solar Farm proposal

COUNCIL RESOLVED to recommend to the Department of Housing, Planning and Infrastructure that the proposed Hampton Park Solar Farm project not be progressed further, with an accompanying document to be sent outlining why Council considers the Hampton Park site to be inappropriate.

Council will also write to the Minister for Planning and Public Spaces raising concerns of the compatibility of the solar farm and storage system with adjoining and adjacent properties including visual amenity, social and bushfire impacts.

It will also highlight the Regional Housing strategy which may include provision of land for such projects.

This is project specific and not a blanket opposition to all proposed renewable energy projects in our LGA.

The reality is that this will probably have little impact on the decision by the NSW Government as they determine if it proceeds or not.

Record cattle yarding at Dubbo Regional Saleyard

The Dubbo Regional Livestock Markets set a new record of 10,180 cattle yarded at the Fat/Prime sale on Thursday, November 20.

It’s been well over a dozen years since those sort of numbers have been seen at Dubbo.

Previously the highest yarding recorded was over 9000 head of cattle recorded in September 2013.

This is obviously due to a range of factors including the drying season, amazingly high prices being achieved, the position of Dubbo as the premier eastern seaboard selling centre that attracts stock from both the north and the south, and the confidence producers have that Dubbo attracts the buyers to compete.

Dubbo Saleyards plays a vital role in supporting local jobs and injecting millions into our economy and we are proud to see this facility continue to deliver outstanding results for producers and buyers.

Shop Local this Christmas

Every dollar spent locally is the gift that keeps on giving.

If you spend $100 on a gift at a business that is owned and operated by a local resident then $71 remains right here in the local economy.

If you shop at a locally operated franchise, then $52 remains in the community.

But only $4 out of your $100 online spending will remain in our community when you shop at an online business.

That is a big loss for your friends, family and our region.

To make your present gifting even easier, you can purchase a My Dubbo Region Gift

Card, allowing the recipient to choose what they want from over 150 participating local businesses.

Shopping local this season keeps our towns and city vibrant, our business thriving and our community connected.

This season the popular spend local prize draw is also back, allowing you to win a share of $5000 just by spending $30 at a local store.

It’s really simple to take part in.

All you have to do is look out for the sign at participating stores, scan the QR code and fill in the details.

It’s a great opportunity for a chance to win something back when you shop local.

The Dubbo Region events calendar also boasts numerous activities that you can get involved in as well as highlighting some great ideas to keep the children entertained while we all celebrate together.

Renewable energy - climate change needs separation for meaningful debate

WE CAN only hope that recent political developments, involving the Renewable Energy Debate result in the separation of “Emissions Reduction” from “Climate Change” to enable meaningful debate.

Emissions Reduction is a quantifiable thing whereas Climate Change is opinionated and speculative (other than our planet’s history telling us of the non-human extreme climate changes over millions of years.)

Until now individuals who raise any reasonable concerns in respect to Renewables development specifics are invariably attacked as “Climate Deniers” and any chance of factual debate is shut down.

It’s not completely unlike, when as kids our mother demanded we do something and we asked why, and she replied “Because I Said So”

Debate ended!

As a background, on leaving school in 1963, I worked for an Engineering Company with a Pollution and Dust Control Division, and this gave me an initial insight into, particularly Industrial Emissions and their environmental and human consequences and this has stayed with me.

With this background and living in a Renewable Energy Zone, having our view of the landscape covered in Solar Panels, and being asked for permission to run ugly transmission lines, personally involves me, and knowing Political Influence and not current technology availability, to make much of this eyesore unnecessary, annoys me.

Prior to the present Federal Government we had the highest application of Roof Top Solar in the world and 40 per cent lower electricity cost and with a current Electricity Availability Charge of $1.96 day and a usage cost of 43.38cents per KWh who knows where this will end up when the monstrosity is completed (and most likely obsolete).

Fortunately, those with well-designed Roof Top Solar/Battery installations, can minimise their end of quarter bill at present.

As an example, we installed a system designed by Will Redfern from Redfern Country Solar, when we moved to town, and with a feed in tariff of just - cents/KWh we are offsetting our bill by around $120/day and our FIRST end of quarter bill is projected to be around $70 according to our Origin Energy apps.

Such is life.

Gee’s historic Bill to protect prime agricultural land

The first Bill of its kind in Australia’s history to preserve and protect Australia’s most productive farmland was introduced to Federal Parliament on Monday by Independent Federal Member for Calare Andrew Gee.

The Protecting Australia’s Prime Agricultural Land Bill 2025 aims to protect prime agricultural land for its vital purpose of agricultural production.

“It’s hard to believe that a country which relies so much on agriculture to sustain it, has never before passed legislation to protect the land that is the source of such bounty and prosperity,” Mr Gee told the House of Representatives.

“This Bill will protect prime agricultural land, safeguarding our nation’s food security.

“It will make prime agricultural land ‘off limits’ to housing and industrial developments, and urban sprawl, which are encroaching onto some of our finest farmlands and jeopardising our food security as well as our regional and national economies.

“The Bill requires that prime agricultural land must be used for agriculture.

“Food and fibre production is vital for the ongoing success and prosperity of our country, and its importance will only increase as our population continues to grow.

“The value of agricultural exports surged to $77.2 billion, or 15.1 per cent of Australia’s total exported goods, in 2024-2025,” Mr Gee said.

New Report warns the wellbeing of Australian children is at a Crossroads, and country kids are most at risk

WHILE MANY children experience positive outcomes in some areas of wellbeing, the new report warns of rising developmental vulnerability, escalating mental health distress and entrenched inequities for children – particularly those living in regional, rural and remote communities.

The State of Australia's Children released on Tuesday by UNICEF Australia and ARACY, with support by Minderoo Foundation, makes it clear that where a child lives shapes their chances to thrive, says Royal far West CEO Jacqui Emery.

“Country children face barriers to health education and safety and we cannot accept this reality as inevitable,” she said as Royal Far West supports the report.

“Government initiatives such as Thriving Kids must continue to focus on the most disadvantaged communities to ensure inequity does not deepen for marginalised groups.”

The State of Australia's Children report paints a stark picture:

- * Developmental delays are increasing, with nearly one in four children (23.5per cent) starting school developmentally vulnerable-a trend that is worse in rural and remote areas.

- * Mental health concerns are surging, with one in five young Australians reporting high psychological distress.

- * Disadvantage is entrenched, with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander children – many living in remote communities – making up 41pc of children in out-of-home care and 59pc of those in detention, despite representing just 5.7pc of the population aged 10-17.

- * Material hardship persists, with children in remote communities more likely to lack school supplies, internet access and safe housing.

The report calls for urgent investment in prevention, early intervention and community-led solutions to ensure every child has the opportunity to thrive.

“Australia has the means to ensure every child grows up safe, healthy and supported,” Ms Emery said.

“When we invest early and locally, we strengthen families and create the conditions for children to flourish – no matter their postcode.

“This report is a call to put children at the centre of policy and investment, and to make sure rural voices are heard in that process.”

Royal Far West joins UNICEF Australia and ARACY in urging governments to adopt a national strategy that places children's rights and wellbeing at the heart of policy, including:

- * A National Children's Data Strategy to close gaps and ensure accountability.

- * A National Early Childhood Commission to drive cohesive reform.

- * Increased investment in mental health and wellbeing professionals in schools and early learning settings.

Help Mid Macquarie Landcare control Mynas

INDIAN MYNAS are a pest bird species and an increasingly common sight in our urban and rural landscapes.

They are listed by the World Conservation Union as among 100 of the world's worst invasive species.

Mid Macquarie Landcare is helping to combat the Indian Myna Bird invasion in the Wellington region.

If you have seen Indian Mynas on your street/property, you can either purchase a small portable pee gee trap from Landcare for $60 or Wellington Landcare members can also apply to host the group's aviary trailer trap to carry out trapping on your property.

Indian Mynas were first released in Australia in the 1860s to control pests in market gardens around Melbourne. This goal was not achieved, but the Indian Myna quickly adapted to local conditions.

They form pairs for breeding from September to March raising 4-6 chicks multiple times a year, so it's important to address local infestations quickly as their numbers can increase rapidly.

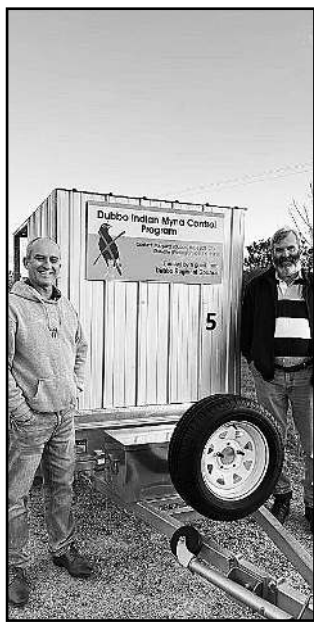

Indian Mynas will occupy and defend multiple nesting hollows, preventing native species such as parrots, possums and sugar gliders from using them for breeding and in agricultural settings they can cause contamination of stockfeed and pollute stock water troughs.

Aside from trapping, a variety of control strategies can be adopted.

Planting native vegetation with understory species helps as Mynas prefer areas of clear understory.

Other strategies include removing exotic palms which provide food and shelter, limiting access to pet food and stock feed, and reducing nesting sites by blocking access to gutters and removing nests and eggs.

For trailer and trap enquiries please contact Mid Macquarie Landcare on info@mml.org.au or 0457 115 525.

Grant Roberts and Jim Dutton were the first people to host the new Wellington Aviary Trap

Kate Charlton with her personal PeeGee trap to address the Montefiores population.

Historic Bill to protect prime agricultural land will lead fight

IN PARLIAMENT this week I introduced the first Bill of its kind in Australia’s history to preserve and protect our most productive farmland for its vital purpose of agricultural production.

The Protecting Australia’s Prime Agricultural Land Bill 2025 requires that prime agricultural land must be used for agriculture.

It’s hard to believe that a country which relies so much on agriculture to sustain it, has never before passed legislation to protect the land that is the source of such bounty and prosperity.

The Member for Kennedy, Bob Katter, and I committed to bringing this legislation before the Parliament because this matter is urgent.

Our prime agricultural land is at serious risk.

This Bill will protect prime agricultural land, safeguarding our nation’s food security.

It will make prime agricultural land ‘off limits’ to housing sprawl and industrial developments like renewable energy projects, which are jeopardising our food security, as well as our regional and national economies.

Food and fibre production is vital for the ongoing success and prosperity of our country, and its importance will only increase as our population continues to grow.

Australian farmers are the best in the world.

The value of agricultural exports surged to $77.2 billion, or 15.1 percent of Australia’s total exported goods, in 2024-2025.

The social, economic and strategic importance of our food, fibre and water cannot be underestimated. So, this being the case, why hasn’t anyone made any effort to safeguard our prime agricultural land?

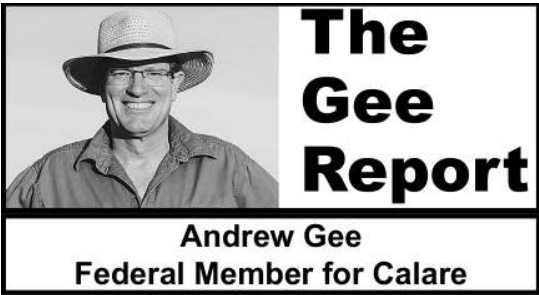

It’s not just housing developments that are the issue. Across regional Australia, foreign corporations are rolling out renewable energy projects, some of which are on prime agricultural land.

To be clear, we should not have foreign corporations or anyone else deciding how our prime agricultural land is used.

I’m not against renewable energy, but at some point our national interest has to be the paramount consideration.

A nation that can’t feed itself is a vulnerable one. Australian farmers are the best in the world, and our prime agricultural land is a precious gift that must be protected.

It defies belief that we continue to build houses, parking lots and industrial developments on prime agricultural land. It’s an epic fail.

The Bill was seconded by the Federal Member for Mayo, Rebekha Sharkie, who said our farmland is a finite resource that belongs to all Australians.

“God is not making any more land, but in Australia, we act as though he is.

We continue to concrete over the best farmland in our nation.

“Prime farmland is under threat from the expansion of housing and continued urban sprawl.

I fear we will get to the stage where we have nowhere to farm and nowhere to grow our own food – and where does that leave us,” Ms Sharkie asked.

I called on the House of Representatives to urgently consider and pass the Bill because our prime agricultural land is under threat and can’t be taken for granted.

Disappointingly, when it was put to a vote, only one Liberal and one National Party member joined the crossbench to support it. The major parties all squibbed it.

Besides those two members and the crossbench, all the major parties refused to back it in, which is very disappointing and a sad indictment on them and the state of politics in Australia.

Rest assured that the Parliament has not heard the last of the Protecting Australia’s Prime Agricultural Land Bill.

There’s too much at stake and this fight is only just beginning.

ONCE UPON a time, clothing sizes had at least a passing relationship with reality.

For men, a size 30 waist literally meant 30 inches.

Shirts drifted into the vague realm of M and L, but trousers were comfortably mathematical.

Women’s sizing was always more complex.

Early ready-to-wear systems tried to calculate dress size using bust measurement minus a constant - a crude and very outdated approach.

Australia later attempted to bring order to the chaos with AS 1344-1997, a formal national standard intended to standardise women’s clothing sizes.

It was thoughtful, surprisingly technical... and completely ignored by manufacturers, who preferred the freedom to create their own ecosystem of sizing.

What filled the vacuum wasn’t logic; it was ego. And it’s powerful.

Buy a pair of jeans today that say 32 but feel like your usual 34 and suddenly you walk a little taller. It’s human nature: smaller number equals a small boost in pride. Women’s fashion has leaned into this even more.

If you’ve been a size 10 for years but a generous brand labels you a comfortable 8, you’re far more likely to reward them with your loyalty.

“Vanity sizing” isn’t a cynical rumour - it’s a deliberate psychological strategy.

Once a brand relaxes its measurements to flatter its customers, it tends to hold that system season after season, creating its own internal mini-universe of sizing.

This inconsistency has fuelled a shopping behaviour that my daughters have perfected: order now, decide later.

Instead of heading to the shops, they scroll through endless online options, pick a style they like, and - because no one knows what a size means anymore - order a cluster of sizes around what might be right.

The parcel arrives, the bedroom turns into a change room and a few items survive the judging, and the rest are shipped straight back. Sometimes none survive at all.

Buy, try, return, repeat.

Retailers feel the sting but the reality is that the costs are passed on to consumers.

So the question is: can technology restore sanity?

There is genuine hope that it can.

Modern smartphone cameras are capable of creating accurate 3D body scans using just a few photos.

Tools such as 3DLook, True Fit and Easy-Size use this capability to build a digital model of your shape and recommend the correct size for each specific brand.

Personalised sizing rather than guesswork. Virtual try-on technology is advancing quickly too. Platforms such as Google’s virtual try-on, Doji, WEARFITS and DRESSX Agent allow shoppers to dress a digital avatar of themselves in different garments to see how the fabric drapes or clings.

It’s not identical to a fitting room - no questionable lighting or flimsy curtains - but it inspires confidence.

A new wave of AI shopping assistants like Daydream, OneOff and Phia act like digital stylists. They analyse trends, body data, customer reviews and brand quirks to predict what will fit and how it will look.

Some scan thousands of websites to reveal early “size insights.”

But perhaps the most promising advances are happening before clothes reach the shelves.

Start-ups like Fit Collective in the UK use machine learning to analyse returns, customer emails, pattern data and production specs to pinpoint exactly where garments are going wrong.

Designers then adjust lengths, widths or materials before manufacturing.

Will technology finally give us consistent sizing? Maybe not perfectly.

Bodies come in endless variations, and personal preferences are just as diverse.

But I hold out hope that one day we might return to a world where a number on a tag tells the truth.

Even if we don’t like hearing it!

Dementia is Australia's leading cause of death

DEMENTIA, including Alzheimer's disease, accounted for over 17,500 deaths in 2024 and is now the nation's leading cause of death, overtaking ischaemic heart diseases, according to data released by the Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS).

Lauren Moran, ABS head of mortality statistics, said the number of deaths caused by dementia has risen by 39 per cent over the past decade.

"The leading causes of death in 2024 aligned with Australia's ageing population.

"Over two-thirds (68.2pc) of deaths are people aged over 75 years, compared to 66.1pc 10 years ago and 63.3pc 20 years ago," she said.

"People are now more likely to live to an age where they have a higher risk of developing

"This is especially true for women who have longer life expectancies."

Data shows that 62.4pc of people who died from dementia were women.

"We've also seen that dementia has been the leading cause of death for women since 2016," Ms Morgan said.

The gap between dementia and ischaemic heart disease had been narrowing over time.

Dementia accounted for 9.1pc of total deaths while heart disease accounted for 9.3pc in 2023.

In 2024, dementia accounted for 9.4pc of total deaths, and ischaemic heart diseases 8.7pc.

Mortality rates due to coronary heart diseases have dropped by nearly 90pc since they peaked in 1968.

"However, coronary heart disease remains the leading cause of death for men, causing 10,153 deaths in 2024," Ms Moran said.

"It was also the leading cause of death for people living in outer regional, remote, and very remote Australia."

Coronary heart disease is the second leading cause of premature death, after suicide.

Chronic lower respiratory diseases (which include emphysema and bronchitis) caused just over 9000 deaths. This became the third leading cause of death in 2024.

"Overall deaths caused by respiratory diseases (excluding COVID-19) were at a record low during the first few years of the COVID-19 pandemic, but we're now seeing a return to numbers recorded before the pandemic," Ms Morgan said.

"This includes the flu, which caused 827 deaths in 2024."

Suicide was the leading cause of premature death.

People who died by suicide had a median age of 46 years. There were 3307 people who died by suicide in 2024. This is 12.2 deaths per 100,000 people. Men accounted for just over three quarters of those deaths.

Minns stays soft on crime
LAST FRIDAY night the Minns Labor Government voted down NSW Nationals amendments to strengthen laws for repeat youth offenders.
While the Government’s Bill essentially adopts the Victorian position, our amendment would’ve seen NSW adopt the Queensland position that has been in place since 1899.
In Queensland, conviction rates for young offenders aged 10-13 held steady between 2016 and 2023.
This law is tested, effective and proven. Over the same time, conviction rates for young offenders aged 10-13 in Victoria dropped from 77% to 7%. This means more offenders back on our streets.
The Minns Labor Government’s bill protects the legal system instead of our community. When the law stops holding repeat young offenders to account, they stop fearing the law.
If we remove consequences, we remove any incentive for a repeat young offender to turn things around.

The Government’s Bill also takes away the ability for courts to order a maximum of a possible 250 hours community service for youth offenders – reducing the maximum to 35 hours.
This reduction is not justified and ignores the benefits of community service to preventing future crimes by young offenders.
The NSW Opposition will again introduce its own Bill early next year to better protect our regional communities from repeat youth offenders and this city-centric government.

Mosquito warning
With the mosquito-borne Japanese encephalitis virus (JEV) recently detected in the feral pig population near Narromine, now is a timely reminder to take care this mosquito season.
* Apply repellent to exposed skin and reapply regularly; * Cover up with light, loose-fitting clothes; * Avoid outdoor activities at dusk and dawn; * Ensure windows and doors are covered with insect screens; * Remove stagnant water to limit mosquito breeding; * Use a flyscreen or sleep under a mosquito net when camping

JEV is a rare, but serious illness that is spread to humans through infected mosquitoes.
Most people who get JEV do not show any symptoms, but some people may fever, headache and vomiting within five to 15 days after being bitten by an infected mosquito.
People experiencing severe infection may show symptoms such as neck stiffness, disorientation, tremors, coma, seizures, and paralysis. If you get these symptoms, contact a doctor right away, or call health-direct on 1800 022 222 for free, instant health advice. In an emergency call Triple Zero (000) or visit your nearest emergency department.
JEV vaccines are also available if you live or work in an area of high JEV concern and are at risk of mosquito bites.
Speak to your doctor or pharmacist to check your risk and eligibility for the vaccine.
For more information about the JEV vaccine, visit:

Get Wick'd - candle with a difference

A CANDLE with a difference is 'Get Wick'd', a unique twist to scented candles.

Head into Mallee Hen's Nest in Lee Street at the Macquarie Bridge end of town and discover a whole new world of candles – sand candle.

The 'sand' is a plant based natural wax as fine as sand and you just pour this into an appropriate vessel, insert a wick, and light.

The candle does the rest and this 'Get Wick'd' set also comes with fragrances if desired, plus plenty of replacement wicks.

You can even make this turn into a floating candle as well.

The 'Nest' is just the ideal resting place for locals and passers-by.

Enjoy a cool and relaxing cuppa, bite to eat, and a leisurely stroll through the clothing display and gifts to find – just what you were looking for.

The café prides itself on baristaing a quality refreshing coffee, being 7Miles Gusto roasted in Orange, and has also become a meeting place as well for locals, many of whom catch up with each-other on a weekly or fortnightly basis.

It also attracts passing vehicles with drivers and passengers keen for a morning or lunchtime coffee, tea or cool drink and a bite to eat.

There's some yummy locally made cakes, slices and sweets available and to whet the morning or lunchtime appetite, hot toasties or bacon and egg rolls, Turkish bread and wraps.

A stroll through the wall and enter a vast display of yesteryear with one of the finest range of vintage furniture, homewares and collectables.

While waiting for your coffee to brew, a leisurely stroll through the clothing and homeware displays will also enhance the stay. – And, you may even find just the gift you've been looking for – being Christmas time. Choose from the delightful range of Holiday brand, Brave and True, Shanty, Tallisman, Eb & Ive, Haven and hats, homewares and scented candles.

. Or maybe some jewellery – hand-made sterling silver, some with precious stones. There are also many gift ideas for teachers, plus bags, cushions, latest range of Madagascan Raffia hand-dyed Ottomans, and the largest range of sunglasses – always an option.

And to make sure your gift looks perfect, Mallee Hen's Nest offers complementary gift wrapping.

Mechanical repairs you can rely on at One Stop Auto

THE TEAM at One Stop Auto can service all makes and models of light vehicles, and what's most important, they can service any new vehicle without the owner losing any vehicle warranty.

Suspension upgrades on the family sedan or SUV and four-wheel-drive vehicles are a speciality at One Stop Auto where Daniel Blackhall and his team will fit you in and have your vehicle ready to drive in no time.

Located in Gisborne Street just next door to the Ampol fuel service station, Daniel took over the mechanical workshop from Doug Ney some 10 years ago and has been busy ever since.

He began his mechanics apprenticeship with Noel Morley at Noel's Auto Service in Arthur Street in 1994 and then managed Sam and Joel's Shell service workshop for three years before moving to his present workshop.

Suspension upgrades are fitted with RAW suspensions for guaranteed work.

There's always something that will crop up when you own a car, but nothing's a problem at One Stop Auto.

The team can also give GVM upgrades to 79-series Land Cruisers.

The boys will inspect vehicles for registration blue and pink slips on any vehicle up to 4.5 tonnes.

They use the latest technology in computer diagnostics, conduct wheel alignments and tyre balances, and always have charged up Delkor batteries on hand. Always a battery check available at any time.

When it comes to installing, removing or servicing Guardian Interlock systems, you can rely of One Stop Auto.

Open Monday to Friday from 8.30am to 5pm, there are only several weeks now leading up to the Christmas break, so, it's time to think about that holiday service and/or auto check-up before venturing off for holidays.

If you are a qualified mechanic or looking for an apprenticeship, give Daniel a call on 0439 589 860.

But organise this now because the team breaks for Christmas on Friday, December 19, and returns on January 6, next year.

ANOTHER WEEK of little rain, we measured 4mm. Harvesters want dry and hot weather. Rain Sunday, November 30.

***

Congratulations to ABC for 80 years of broadcasting the Country Hour. I remember my parents tuning to country hour at midday and then “Blue Hills” at 1pm.

As harvest winds up in Qld and Northern NSW wheat prices have firmed $3 to $5/t to $335. Barley $315 delivered the Downs.

Comment from Grain Central summed things up “there’s stuff on farms and stuff in depots, but growers are saying prices are too cheap, ‘I’ll talk to you in the new year after we get back from the beach’. Pulse prices are firming. Chickpeas have made it to $630/t Brisbane and $600 Downs. Faba beans lifted to $350/t NSW depots, $415/t Brisbane and $395/t Downs, as reported by Richard Kosh.

WA has been a stop/start harvest. Canola (GM free) is currently selling $720/t with growers enjoying high yields and quality. In southern states cool showery weather is delaying harvest. The soft finish looks to have boosted yields. In NSW central region harvest is in full swing but should finish in three weeks of fine weather. Quality of grain is excellent in most cases and similarly with yield. I believe there will be an improvement in prices shortly.

EMI sits 33% higher year on year

ANOTHER WEEK of impressive gains was the highlight of last week’s wool sales. Middle micron types led the charge and the fact that neither 20 or 21-micron wool could be quoted in Sydney, and no 21-micron quote from Melbourne tells the story of the supply squeeze in these once common types. The offering of 31,800 bales was up 2000 bales on the previous week with 3.6% passed in. Year to date there has been 26,500 fewer bales offered but gross sales are close to $100 million above last year. There were a few old records broken last week. The highest price paid at auction in Sydney since 2012 was for a 12.9-micron line which fetched 42,800 cents greasy purchased by Endeavour Wool for Italian interests and in Melbourne a 23.4-micron line made 1814 cents clean which is equivalent to a good 21-micron wool. Whilst these were one-off prices, it does however give us some confidence going forward that processors are willing to dig deep if they have to. The 19-micron through to 30 micron indicators are now sitting at 99 to 100 percentile for the past five years, with 17-microns at 55% and Merino cardings at a miserable 38%. To go back five years does put things in perspective a bit. Looking at the 2018/19 season, 20-microns were 300 cents above today’s level as were 17-microns, and the MC indicator was nearly 400 cents above today. Global political and economic circumstances are very different today, so we don’t think we are in for a favourable run like we saw from 2016-19. The last few months have seen an improvement in economic outlook and the base is building to allow for market consolidation well above where it has been post-pandemic, but it will be a saw tooth rise as we have witnessed since September. The sudden increases will be tempered by processor inability to pass on sharp rises but gradually the base is building and the next low will be higher than the previous one. Macwool and Carmichael wool offered 1550 bales yesterday with a national offering expected of 40,400 bales.

Stock report by Ross Plasto

DUBBO CATTLE record numbers - 10,185 head beating September 2013 of 9000 head. Fair to good quality yarding, fair number of plainer condition cattle from far west. A full field of buyers operating in a solid market. Young cattle to trade firm, vealers and yearlings 420c to 494c/kg. Feeder steers 3c to 6c dearer, heifers up to 12c dearer. Feeder steers 410c to 523c, heifers 420c to 506c/kg. Young cattle to restockers and backgrounders dearer, steers to 600c, heifers to 482c/kg. Grown steers and heifers 8c dearer, steers 430c to 502c/kg, heifers 430c to 492c/kg. Secondary cows firm, heavy weights 5c/kg cheaper. 3-scores to processors 326c to 405c, heavy cows 384c to 425c, ave 403c/kg. Cows to restockers 280c to 359c, feeders paid 388c/kg for cows. Heavy bulls to 395c/kg.

Dubbo Lamb 21,800 head. Dry conditions forcing numbers up. Much plainer yarding, large percentage of secondary lambs lacking bloom. Limited numbers of well finished trade and heavy lambs. Large numbers of exotics and hoggets. Light lambs to processors $5 cheaper, 12kg to 18kg 2-scores $145 to $200. Trade lambs $9 to $15 cheaper, trade new season lambs $198 to $289. Best shorn trade old lambs close to firm, most $15 cheaper, quality a factor. 20kg to 24kg old lambs $230 to $310, ave 1195c/kg cwt. Heavy lambs $10 to $13 cheaper, over 24kg $293 to $377, heavy new season to $332. Merino lambs up to $12 cheaper, trade weights $168 to $233. Young lambs to restockers $142 to $189, feeders paid to $192. Hoggets to $287.

Mutton. 11,430 mixed mutton most grades $10 to $20 cheaper. Merino ewes $66 to $268, crossbred ewes $138 to $301. Merino wethers sold from $84 to $213, most selling from 670c to 735c/kg cwt.

Wool. The October slide in prices have quickly become a distant memory as the November bounce back is proving to be strong and welcoming. Confusing market signals have been sent but the nature of the current supply and demand situation is the driving force. Demand remains sporadic and reactionary, appearing like it’s “one in all in” from the processors. Whatever the reason is, it’s certainly causing some extreme volatility in the market. Prices were dearer by a considerable margin from the outset last week with Tuesday’s NRI up 52 cents. It didn’t stop on Wednesday with a further 15-cent increase. Plus 100 cents was recorded for anything below 22 micron and finer for the Merino fleece types keeping in mind that the Northern region market outpaced the rest of the country. Crossbreds and Cardings held the headline indicators back from being reported even dearer. The price signals sent last week has caused a jump up for this week’s offering to over 40,000 bales nationally, which has proven to be a barrier of late. Passed-in rates last week were almost non-existent in the North with just 110 bales unsold or 1.4% of the 7648 bales that were offered. On average we are 35% dearer than the same time last year. It does however vary across micron ranges.

Racing at Cowra

AT AGE 27 Emma Ly was well on her way to achieving a degree in nursing however changed course and chose to become an apprentice jockey. Making her race riding debut in April 2023 she won on Choose Your Words at Queanbeyan and Emma Ly has now ridden 38 winners, the latest being Danish Hussar, in front of a big crowd on Saturday at Cowra.

An eight-year-old chestnut gelding, Danish Hussar is trained at Yass by Allan McRae and was very well ridden in the 1700 metres Lachlan River Produce Benchmark 50 Handicap.

Sending her mount to the early lead, Emma Ly controlled the tempo of the race and when challenged in the straight, Danish Hussar ($2.80 favourite) had enough in reserve to hold out by a half-neck the Barry Wall locally trained Tavi-jewel (Andrew Banks, $13), with Napoli (Zoe Hunt, $4) a length away third.

French born jockey Pierre Boudvillain who was leading the NSW jockey premiership from James McDonald and Ashley Morgan at the completion of race meetings on Saturday, landed a winning double at Cowra on the Gratz Vella, Canberra trained pair, We Shall Overcome and Prophet Time.

We Shall Overcome ($1.70 fav) led throughout to beat Lucky Monkey (Andrew Banks, $2.70) and Queen Kicker (Izzy Neale, $4) by almost six lengths in the 1100m Cowra Maiden Plate.

Prophet Time ($2.40 fav) also set the pace when a half-length winner of the 1100m Happy 80th Birthday Bruce & Ken- Benchmark 50 Handicap from Box Of Crackers (Emma Ly, $9) and Giovanna Star (Zoe Hunt, $11).

Due to scratchings there were only three starters in the 1375m Railway Maiden Plate however there was plenty of drama after the race.

First across the line was the Sharon Jeffries trained $1.70 favourite Impending Harmony (Jacob Stiff) by over a length from the Garry Lunn trained The Irish Boy (Jack Baker, $3) with a head to the third placed Classic Azabeel ($2.20) ridden by Pierre Boudvillain.

Protests were lodged by Pierre Boudvillain against the first and second placegetters.

The protest, 3rd versus 2nd was dismissed, while the protest 3rd versus 1st was upheld and the official placings then became, The Irish Boy the winner from Classic Azabeel (second) and Impending Harmony (third).

More straightforward was the 1375m Cowra Magpies 1995 Reunion Benchmark 50 Handicap when the Michael Mulholland, Dubbo trained Wing Nut (Shayleigh Ingelse, $1.90 fav) came from midfield to beat Firestorm Boy (Jack Baker, $6) and Rolled Gold (Zoe Hunt, $2.70).

The very successful meeting on Saturday augurs well for the Cowra Cup meeting on Sunday, January 18, 2026.

Racing at Orange

THE RESURGENCE of Orange as an important player in country racing continued on Friday with a tremendous crowd at Towac Park.

Although not programmed with any feature races, the attendance equalled or bettered that at many Cup meetings in the region.

A 14-horse field contested the high-est grade race, the 1300 metres Central West Power Construction Benchmark 82 Handicap, won by the Danielle Seib, Canberra trained Master Of Disguise ridden by apprentice Dale Cole.

Suffering horrific injuries at track-work when bucked from a horse and dragged hundreds of metres, Dale Cole after more than 12 months recovery made a miracle return to the saddle and rode his first winner at Goulburn in May this year.

Dale Cole has now ridden 10 winners and it was a cool and well-judged ride on Master Of Disguise which led early before being steadied to have a nice run close to Life’s A Party.

Taking advantage of an inside run, Master Of Disguise ($2.05) took control in the straight to win by two lengths from the fast-finishing How’s It Kev (Jordan Quince, $21) with Life’s A Party (Donovan Dillon, $15) a head away third.

Local trainer Alison Smith before her second with How’s It Kev had been a popular winner of the 1280m On-Track Ag Maiden Plate with Rosie I Am.

Street Skater (Wendy Peel, $3.40 favourite) took the lead in the straight from Bastion however after a good battle Rosie I Am (Clayton Gallagher, $6). won by a half-length from Street Skater while Twin Gift (Zoe Hunt, $31) ran home well for third.

Bred and owned by Michael Kennedy, formerly from the Come-By-Chance area and now living at Orange, the Clint Lundholm, Dubbo trained Crook ($5 fav) well ridden by apprentice Zoe Hunt, was ready to pounce turning for home and swept to a strong win over Jacob Joe (Pierre Boudvillain, $14) and Quick Onyx (Grant Buckley, $9.50) in the 1000m Pirtek Orange Country Boosted Benchmark 58 Handicap.

Another Dubbo trainer with a winner was Connie Greig with Broadcast Boogie (Mikayla Weir, $4.40) in the 1600m Tamburlaine Organic Wines Maiden Handicap.

Orange will next race on Monday, December 15.

Labor backflips on regional speed limit proposal

THE ALBANESE Labor Government has been forced into an embarrassing backflip on its ill-conceived plan to slash speed limits on regional roads to 70 km/h, a proposal that never should have seen the light of day.

Member for Parkes Jamie Chaffey said the decision to quietly drop the policy is an admission that Labor has failed to address the real issue: fixing dangerous, crumbling regional roads.

“This plan was a diversion from the fact that road funding has fallen a long way behind what is needed to maintain regional roads,” Mr Chaffey said. “Safety issues cannot be addressed by asking people to slow down to drive around potholes.

“Regional communities, local councils, and Liberal and National MPs have told the Albanese Labor Government in no uncertain terms they do not want this plan, and common sense has finally prevailed.

“This was a ridiculous plan, and the Labor Government has wasted months pushing a policy that punished regional motorists instead of repairing the roads that endanger them.”

Mr Chaffey said the Government’s backdown follows overwhelming public opposition, including more than 11,000 submissions rejecting Labor’s proposal.

“Cutting speed limits would have been a lazy substitute for real road investment,” he said.

“The amount of necessary funding that has been knocked back through Disaster Recovery Funding Arrangements in the past three to four years is staggering at about $150 million.

Councils cannot meet these enormous costs, and they should not be expected to.”

The backdown comes as Australia faces a worsening road-safety crisis: * 1361 Australians lost their lives on the road in the past year - a 6.9 per cent increase.

* Two-thirds of those fatalities occurred in regional Australia.

* October recorded the worst monthly toll in five years, with fatalities 14.9pc above average.
