Countless stories in 60-year career

Griggs recognised for service to 'Country Newspapers'

HE STARTED selling papers for sixpence at Sydney Royal Show as a young boy and now owns his own country newspaper.

LAST FRIDAY evening at the NSW Country Press Awards presentations, Mark Griggs was recognised for his 60 years of service to Country Newsapeprs.

He began his newspaper career as a seven-year-old paperboy selling Farmer & Settler newspapers at the Royal Show and Sydney Sheep Show.

On leaving high school, he began his career as an office boy for Country Life newspaper on November 8, 1965 for two years running advertising proofs all over Sydney until he was offered a photographic cadetship.

He then moved onto The Land and later became the Wagga editorial representative covering the Riverina, plus doing stud advertising and photography and writing during the late 70's.

In 1979 Mark became the Publicity Officer for the Australia Hereford Society in Brisbane which he spent almost a decade doing including a quarterly magazine.

In the early 2000's Mark became editor of Western Magazine. then ended up manager of the Wellington Times publishing three papers a week.

In 2005 he went back to The Land covering the Central West from Dubbo doing general stories and sales until he retired in 2021.

That's when he started the Wellington & District Leader with wife Sharon.

Scabbing Flat Bridge review submissions close tomorrow - this Friday!

SUBMISSIONS CLOSE this Friday 30 October for the review into keeping or replacing the single-lane, timber bridge over the Macquarie River out the back of Geurie.

The bridge has served the community for 116 years, but really needs to be replaced with a new, dual-lane concrete bridge that serves the needs of the community in 2026.

Put in a submission via the locals website: scabbingflat.com and go into the draw to win a year's supply of sausages (or $630 gift certificate of the meat of your choice).

Extra XPT train Dubbo to Sydney

After much lobbying for a number of years, it has been confirmed that Transport for NSW are undertaking planning for an extra daily XPT passenger train service between Dubbo and Sydney.

This is sorely needed.

The NSW government has announced an additional train will be added, departing Dubbo early in the morning and Sydney in the afternoon.

The Hon. Jenny Aitchison MP, NSW Minister for Regional Transport said Transport for NSW is developing plans for an additional regional rail service between Dubbo, Orange and Sydney.

The opportunity has been talked about since the announcement many years ago that the new regional rail fleet would be serviced in Dubbo.

The government is replacing the old NSW TrainLink Regional fleet of XPT trains with the new Regional Rail Fleet, with some of those new trains already being sighted on the track in our area being tested.

Planning is currently underway for the introduction of the first Regional Rail Fleet passenger service on the Sydney to Dubbo corridor.

There is no timeframe for when the additional services would begin, but the sooner, the better.

orestvale Road Causeway update

At Council's Standing Committee on 13 October 2026, Councillors received a report on the Forestvale Causeway detailing a way forward to the ongoing saga.

There has been water over the Forestvale Road causeway at Spicers Creek for a number of years that has been caused by the vegetation within Spicers Creek and the accumulation of sedimentation following the drought in 2020. Environmental investigations have been undertaken which is required for maintenance dredging of a watercourse. During the environmental investigations, there have been requirements for further investigations due to the potential presence of the Southern Purple Spotted Gudgeon, Sloane's Froglet, the Slender Darling Pea and the Pine Donkey Orchid.

These species are listed as endangered or vulnerable under various NSW and Commonwealth legislation.

The dredging of Spicers Creek is becoming more difficult in terms of meeting the environmental requirements and the required level of spending associated with the works.

While the dredging option was being explored, a replacement of the causeway with a culvert structure has also been progressed and it is proposed to cease the dredging option and move solely onto the replacement option.

While clearing is required to restore hydraulic performance, the works are treated as maintenance and any dredging or vegetation removal beyond the limited standing NSW Fisheries permit area requires additional environmental assessment, approvals and access arrangements.

Three options were put to Councillors at the 13 October meeting, with ratification being required at the 27 October meeting to lock in the way forward.

The Committee meeting recommended Option 3 which is the building of a replacement structure/mini-bridge with big, precast culverts.

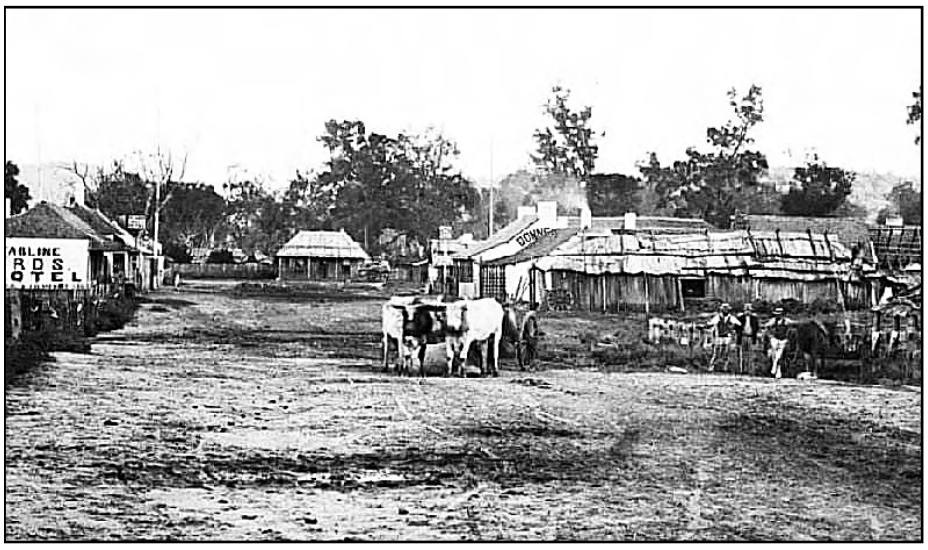

This option involves the replacement of the existing causeway with large culverts. This option is deemed acceptable by NSW Fisheries as it has the least impact on the environment.

Preliminary assessments have occurred for a replacement structure, and an anticipated timeframe of 20 months has been determined for the structure to be replaced.

Given that these works are forecast to be undertaken, the preliminary works have also progressed and there are identified funding sources, this is the recommended option.

Letter to the editor

A SON returning from business in Melbourne, to his home on the Gold Coast spent the long weekend with us in Wellington and we did a memory tour.

In Montefiores he asked "what do you know about its history" which led to a lengthy discussion about the British Slave Trade and the Montefiores family involvement and the association with the Village of Montefiores.

The Montefiores family were Italian Jews living in the Leghorn/Livorno area of Italy from the 16th century and in 1740 Moses Vital Montefiores migrated to England and became a Tea Merchant, prospered and created social standing for the family.

In 1784 another Moses Haim Montefiore was born in Italy and became extremely wealthy in England and became a prominent philanthropist and supporter of the disadvantaged, and was Sheriff of London and was subsequently knighted.

In 1812 the now Sir Moses Montefiore married Judith Cohen whose sister Hannah was married to Nathan Mayer Rothschild and they formed a business partnership including Insurance and became even more wealthy devoting much of their wealth to Philanthropic Causes and actively fighting for the emancipation of British Slavery.

When it was agreed to compensate Slave Owners for the loss of their slaves, and the British Government couldn't afford the full cost, Sir Moses and Nathan Rothschild agreed to underwrite £15 million of Government Commitment that reportedly still has not been fully repaid.

In 1841 to follow their interest in Gold the grandson of Sir Moses Montefiore, Jacob Barrow Montefiore arrived in Australia on the ship "Jupiter" and was allocated land grants, where Montefiores is today, and this was the administrative and judicial hub prior to the town of Wellington's establishment.

The residents of Montefiores can be very proud of the fact that they belong to an area established by a family with a significant role in such world history.

The Insurance Company started by the Montefiore/Rothchild families still exists prominently today throughout the Uk, Europe and North America.

THE SUCCESS of Wellington Rotary Club's Father's Day Sheep Dash in September was demonstrated enthusiastically during last Sturday's Maranatha House Fete.

Rotary presented a $12,000 cheque to Maranatha's management committee during the club's October monthly markets day.

Each month Rotary conducts their markets in Cameron Rotary, but in October the club joins forces with Maranatha to hold the fete within the facility's grounds ttracting many people who love supporting the Maranatha House cause.

Rotary raised the money from auctioning each of the eight sheep that ran in five races, plus selling naming rights of each sheep together with funds raised from stallholder fees, a sweep for each race and other activities.

Wellington says 'good-bye' to our favourite Aunty Ruth

SHE WAS Aunty Ruth to the thousands of children she taught to swim, then hundreds more she put through Royal Life Saving. People of all ages from Wellington and throughout the Central West, the state and the nation will sorely miss her.

RUTH BEVERLEY ARNOLD - 'Aunty Ruth'
10th April 1939 – 17th October 2026

Compiled by Marie Hoffman.

THIS REMARKABLE lady, who we all think of as our own true Wellingtonian, was born Ruth Raffin, in Condobolin 10th April 1939.

She was the first born of five children to Jack and Evelyn Raffin. Her siblings were sisters Kaye and Jill and brothers John and Greg.

Her father conducted Raffin's Menswear store in Condobolin and was actively involved in many community organisations, as was her mother.

Jack was heavily involved in the Home Guard during the war and the establishment of the Ambulance Service in Condobolin.

It was from her parents that Ruth learnt the importance of community and contributing to the community in which you live.

Ruth was the first and only child to work in the family store. She preferred chatting to people in the street rather than tending to the customers in the store.

The Raffin family backyard hosted many cricket teams that practiced on the home concrete half pitch. There is a story about a young Jeff Thompson, whose cousin lived next door, being the most famous cricketer to grace the backyard pitch.

It was amongst this environment that Ruth grew up and which her love of sport and community took hold.

As a kid growing up the pool was a section of the Lachlan River and this is where she learnt to swim and her love for water began.

Ruth attended boarding school at Marsden School in Bathurst, travelling there and back by train.

Through the Young Anglican group in Condobolin Ruth met her future husband, Colin Arnold.

Ruth always wanted to become a nurse.

She left Condobolin and moved to Sydney to begin her training at a hospital in Cronulla. In those days, nursing was a learning on the job experience. Ruth enjoyed her time in Sydney.

Colin frequently made the long journey to visit Ruth, driving over the Blue Mountains in the middle of winter, often in freezing conditions, as there was no heating in the car.

Ruth and Colin married 3rd October 1960 in Condobolin. They commenced their married life in Mudgee where they welcomed Mark 10th March 1962.

In 1964 they moved to their forever home, Wellington.

The family welcomed baby Fiona in 1965.

Ruth was a resident in Wellington for over 60 years and lived in her family home in Riverview Avenue for over 50 years.

She is best known for her life at the Wellington Swimming Pool where she not only taught swimming, but was involved with lifesaving, aquarobics, first aid and other water-based activities including school-based programs and carnivals.

Ruth spent so much time at the swimming pool during summer that her mother once sent her a letter addressed care of the local pool! It was a story Ruth loved to tell and one she would fondly recount on many occasions.

In 2002 Ruth was recognised by the citizens of Wellington with a Community Service Achievement award for Lifesaving.

Named Wellington's Citizen of the year 2004, Ruth received her award on Australia Day 2005.

Her citation is self-explanatory: Ruth has always been a most community minded person and approaches every task with enthusiasm and purpose.

She was a member of the organising committee when the Wellington Blue Light Discos were run and held the position of treasurer.

Ruth held the position of District Commissioner for the Wellington Girl Guides and Brownies for five years in the 1960s.

For several years Ruth was a Brownie leader and led one of the brownie packs. She was also a patron of the local Guide Association.

Ruth was secretary of the annual Anglican Church Blossom Ball committee for several years.

Each month she was rostered to deliver Meals On Wheels, representing the Guides and her church.

She was made a Life Member with 47 years of service.

Another activity Ruth volunteered for was Roster secretary for the SES Housie and this required organising callers and the teams to run the weekly Housie sessions.

Other community groups which Ruth was involved with are Infants, Primary and High schools Parents and Citizens Associations, CWA Night Branch, The Anglican Ladies Auxiliary and a number of others not recorded and remembered.

Ruth was the Life Saving coordinator for the Wellington Swimming Club for 26 years.

The Club won the prestigious Kelso King State Award for the sixth time for a number of awards gained.

In the 1970s she was the coach of the Wellington Swimming Club. When the Wellington Swimming Club ran free Learn to Swim lessons, she was the coordinator for several years.

Ruth always had a great interest in assisting children with disabilities to learn to swim. This was often in her own time and away from her normal lessons.

This selfless service (and sometimes after a lengthy period) often resulted in a child obtaining a freedom in the water (which would not otherwise be possible).

In 1990 the Commonwealth Council of the Royal Life Saving Society awarded her the Recognition Badge in recognition of valuable services rendered to the Society.

She became a Life Member of the Society in 2009.

In conjunction with Macquarie Area Health, Ruth helped initiate and conduct Aqua Fitness Classes one morning a week, primarily aimed at Seniors and people with disabilities.

This proved very successful and an evening session was then held with several younger people showing an interest.

For many years each February, Ruth conducted Learn to Swim sessions for adults. These catered for ages ranging from 20 to 80 years.

At the 2019 Austswim Conference, she was presented with the State Award of Excellence for service to Austswim. Ruth was an Austswim Fellow awarded in recognition of her leadership, expertise and service to aquatic education.

(separate from the club or Royal Life Saving Life Membership).

Invited to be a member of the consultative committee organising the Austswim State Conference. The Conference was very successful with (over 200 participants) and she presented two papers at the conference.

Ruth's role with Austswim, her part of the State extended from Orange to Broken Hill and from Lightning Ridge to Menindee.

This was a large area and was the cause of many adventures to the western part of the state with her husband Colin. Mick Austin will be pleased to know that she terrorised many of the Pool Managers, especially at the beginning of the season, if a pool was not open and ready for her to deliver a course.

It should be said though, that this would not stop her, with a number of courses being delivered in either a tank or dam, even if it meant wading through mud to get to the water. She had a mission and there was always a way to get the job done.

Before her time with Austswim, Ruth worked for The Department of Sport and Recreation.

She did many tours of the Central west and beyond with a staff member from the Orange office by the name of Carl Sharpe. These trips often combined swimming and cricket and she got to meet and know a number of Australian and State players including Doug Walters.

The Department of Sport and Recreation awarded her the Joy Parker Memorial award for her contribution as a swimming teacher in the western region.

During the opening of Water Safely Week at Government House, the Minister for Sport and Recreation, presented Ruth with the State Award for Service to the Community for Water Safety.

On another occasion in 2003, at the opening of Water Safety Week at Government House, the Minister for Sport and Recreation presented Ruth with the State Award for Outstanding contribution to education.

Ruth was a Life Member of the Wellington Swimming Club. Many, many people of Wellington have been taught to swim by her. Something we can never know is how many lives have been saved through her selfless efforts over the years.

The Arnold family donated a trophy to the Wellington Amateur Swimming Club for the most consistent swimmer.

Australia Day 2010 Ruth was named the prestigious 'Citizen of the Decade' for Wellington. The same day it was announced that she had been awarded the Order of Australia Medal for her outstanding service.

Ruth received her Order of Australia Medal at Government House Sydney on May 2010 from the NSW Governor Marie Bashir. This was an event that was attended by her family and they could not have been prouder, as she was one of the recipients that was acknowledged for the years of contributing to the community and not for fame or other reasons.

She was seated next to Don Burke from Burke's Backyard and talked his leg off with stories of swimming but didn't get any tips for her garden.

Double honour brings 'Aunty' to tears

SHARON TOYNTON

Australia Day proved to be a double celebration for Ruth Arnold who was named the town's Citizen of the Decade and was also honoured with an Order of Australia Medal.

The woman, known to many as 'Aunty Ruth', has taught generations of families across Wellington to swim during the past 40 years and has dedicated countless hours to helping disabled people achieve movement and mobility in the water.

On hearing her achievements read out to the crowd assembled at Cameron Park for the annual Australia Day ceremony and surmising she would be called up to receive the award of Citizen of the Decade, Mrs Arnold burst into tears.

She said it was a great honour.

"I'm overwhelmed ... in complete shock," she said.

"I do appreciate it, but anything I do I do for the love of it. I have seen so many people achieve movement and mobility in the water.

"It's great fun."

Mrs Arnold began teaching people to swim when she left school and has been involved with swimming at Wellington since moving to town in 1968.

Since that time the dedicated teacher has taught both young and old, from toddlers to octogenarians, the skills required to be safe in the water and has been involved in the local swimming club, of which she is now a life member, for the past 40 years.

She has also received a number of state and regional awards recognising her achievements.

Mrs Arnold said while she had known about the OAM, which was awarded for services to water safety and as an instructor, for a while, she had no idea she would be named Citizen of the Decade.

"The first time I found out about the OAM was when I received a letter asking if I would accept the award. Then another letter arrived in September saying I would be receiving one but I had to sign a confidentiality declaration," she said.

"Col (her husband) knew about it, but I couldn't tell the kids. It was the hardest thing to do. Fiona didn't find out until Thursday when people started ringing up asking for interviews.

"Then my son Mark and grandson Blayne arrived from Lismore at 11.30 last night (Monday) and I was saying why come all this way when I wouldn't be receiving the medal today."

Despite an article in the Wellington Times on Monday, Mrs Arnold remained oblivious to the fact she may receive such an honour. However, many residents across Wellington were not, with many congratulating her yesterday commenting that they knew she would win the award.

"I'm very humbled," she said.

"You do sit back and contemplate on what you have done but it is just a part of life and something that I love doing.

"A lot of people are involved in someone achieving something and for me my family has been very supportive."

Aside from her commitment to teaching people to swim, Mrs Arnold has also being actively involved in guides and brownies, the blue light disco and meals on wheels.

DOUBLE HONOUR BRINGS 'AUNTY' TO TEARS.

"A lot of people are involved in someone achieving something and for me my family has been very supportive."

At the fortieth-year celebrations of Austswim held in Sydney in 2019, Ruth was known for teaching swimming instructors, and this was plainly demonstrated.

At the event there were four swimming instructors, that were with Austswim from the beginning. Each of the four instructors were known for their roles and enjoyed celebrity status cutting the celebratory cake and were engaged in many conversations where their contribution was acknowledged.

Their impact was not just on their local communities but statewide. Both of Ruth's children, Mark and Fiona were in attendance and could not have been prouder.

Ruth's son, Mark, tells the origin, or when she became known as Aunty Ruth.

This is often discussed with a number of different stories.

"It was a title given to her by his classmates and maybe 'Johno' Johnson during the late seventies as she didn't like being called Mrs Arnold as that was her mother-in-law and she was a little old fashioned for just Ruth, so Aunty Ruth became the title."

Whether this is right or not it is supported by the following comments from one of Mark's classmates from over 45 years ago in this recent comment.

"Oh Mark – our dear Aunty Ruth was such a big part of our lives for a very long time as you know – she guided us, fed us, organised us, taught many of us to swim!"

Mark's daughter included "Someone like Aunty Ruth Arnold leaves a big hole in many lives, but we can be comforted knowing she is with Col and Fiona now."

Ruth was married to Colin, a former Wellington Shire Clerk, now deceased, and is the mother of Mark and Fiona (deceased), mother-in-law to Marcia and Paul Wilson and the proud grandmother of Blayne, Tahnee, Jode and Ilah.

Ruth passed away in Wellington on Saturday 17th October 2006 after a life of service to the community.

This beautiful poem written for her grandmother.

RUTH BEVERLEY ARNOLD.
By her Granddaughter Ilah Arnold

She taught us to float
She taught us how to trust the water,
To kick, to breathe, to let go of a wall.
Generations of small hands learnt from her that we would not fall.
She stood at the edge in the morning sun,
patient, steady, calm,
and every nervous little swimmer felt safe in her open arms.
She loved the paddocks and the gum trees,
the red dust road, the open sky,
a town where everyone knew her name and she knew theirs,
and she knew why,
Wellington is her home, her people,
the place she gave her heart and hands.
They pinned a medal on her for it,
but she'd say the thanks were never the aim.
She only wanted a child to feel brave
the first time they swam out and came back again.
She made us confident and we dived right in,
because she said we can.
When the evening settles,
the waters calm
and the light goes gold on the river,
Rest easy now, Grandma.
Every stroke we swim,
every child we teach,
is where your story
begins again.
She taught us.

Citizen of the Decade to be revealed

SHARON TOYNTON

A 10-year wait will end tomorrow morning when Wellington's Citizen of the Decade is revealed.

The award is one of many to be handed out at the Australia Day Ceremony in Cameron Park and recognises the achievements of one special resident who has continued to give their best to the community throughout the past decade.

The award has only been handed out twice in the past with Nell Ailworth the recipient in 1999 and Ritchie Thomas being honoured in 2000.

Australia Day Committee chairman Kevin Mason said this year the winner had been selected from those who had been named as Wellington's Citizen of the Year during the past decade.

"This award is recognition of a person who has done some extraordinary things for the community," Mr Mason said.

"This is an extra thank you to them for their efforts ... there are a number of people who could have won it."

Past Citizen of the Year Winners

2009: ..... Bev Midson
2008: ..... Rod Althofer
2007: ..... Lorraine Gould
2006: ..... Sr Marie Frauenfelder
2005: ..... Ruth Arnold
2004: ..... Wally Samuels
2003: ..... Rhonda Jones
2002: ..... Frank Stanford
2001: ..... John Nicholas
2000: ..... Tim Toynton, Len Matthews

The award is set to be one of the highlights of the Australia Day ceremony in Cameron Park which will kick off about 8.30am tomorrow.

"It's going to be a great morning," Mr Mason said.

"We have a number of talented performers who will be entertaining the crowd.

"I encourage everyone to come down and have a look."

Prior to the ceremony the State Emergency Service will be hosting a breakfast, while lunch will also be available in the park once the awards and showbags for the kids have been handed out.

Wellington Amateur Swimming Club honoured Ruth Arnold at Friday evening's Pointscore.

Attending Ruth Arnold's memorial service are Bernard Sheridan, Paul Wilson and Mark Arnold.

War widows honoured

MINISTYER FOR Veterans David Harris joined Queen Dunbar, President of the Families of Veterans Guild, Sydney war widows and other members of the veteran and Defence community at the Cenotaph in Martin Place to mark the fifth Annual War Widows Day and the 80th anniversary of the founding of the Australian War Widows Guild of NSW.

Recognising eight decades of service, strength and sacrifice by war widows and widowers across Australia, the milestone anniversary commemorates the establishment of the Australian War Widows Guild of NSW, now the Families of Veterans Guild, in 1946 by Jessie Vasey, whose vision created a support network for families navigating the loss of loved ones who served their nation.

War Widows Day is officially recognised on October 19 in most Australian states, and over the last week commemorations across the country have taken place to honour the contribution and personal sacrifice of more than 28,000 surviving war widows and widowers in Australia, over 8000 of them from New South Wales.

Following the Second World War, Australia mourned the loss of thousands of servicemen, leaving behind a generation of women facing an uncertain future.

Recognising their shared grief and the significant challenges ahead, Ms Vasey brought together a group of war widows and founded the Australian War Widows Craft Guild, laying the foundation for what would become the War Widows' Guild of Australia.

The Guild brought war widows together so they could support each other and advocate for the recognition they deserved.

Under Ms Vasey's leadership, the organisation successfully lobbied governments for improved pensions, housing, children's allowances and healthcare benefits, and even built self-care units for war widows across several states.

That history of advocacy is the foundation for how the Families of Veterans Guild serves its war widow and veteran family members today.

For more information on how to support War Widows, including by purchasing a special edition 80th anniversary pin featuring the iconic kookaburra or sharing a tribute on the Australian War Widows Honour Roll visit: https://familiesofveterans.org.au/war-widows-day/

Congratulations Griggsy!

IT WAS terrific to attend the Country Press NSW Awards of Excellence held last Friday evening at the Orange Ex-Services Club and help present some of the awards to our high achieving country journos and local newspaper owners.

Mark Griggs from the Wellington & District Leader was honoured with a special award for 60 years of service to regional journalism and country newspapers.

It's an extraordinary achievement! Well done Griggsy!

Special guest at the Country Press NSW awards of excellence evening, Andrew Gee presents the distinguish service medalion to Mark Griggs with his wife and co-publisher, Sharon Wilson.

Congratulations and thank you to all of the night's nominees and winners for your vital contribution to country Australia!

No Place for Political Violence

Our communities are in shock over the horrific, vicious and targeted attack on Helen Haines, the Federal Member for Indi.

Violence in all its forms must be repudiated and condemned.

It has no place in Australian political life and it's extremely concerning that threats and violence against political representatives are increasing.

Our thoughts are with Helen, her family, staff and community in this deeply traumatic time.

tech talk with Mathew Dickerson, Axxis Comworld

I REMEMBER driving an older vehicle many years ago when an overly enthusiastic adjustment of the air vent resulted in a rather disappointing snapping sound.

The little plastic adjuster in the middle of the vent had broken. Not exactly a mechanical catastrophe, but just annoying enough to remind me every time I needed to adjust the airflow.

After an unsuccessful encounter with Superglue, I decided to replace it.

Surely a tiny piece of moulded plastic couldn't cost much?

My local dealer was happy to help.

They didn't have one in stock, but for the bargain price of $50, they could have one delivered within 10 days.

Fifty dollars! And this was almost 20 years ago!

I suspect the manufacturing cost was measured in cents rather than dollars.

I was left with a choice between an irritating air vent and an irritating hole in my wallet.

Spare parts might be a wonderful profit centre for manufacturers, but surely there is a limit to how much customer frustration they should generate?

Fast-forward to today and one car manufacturer has an idea that might make its competitors slightly nervous.

Czech carmaker Škoda, part of the Volkswagen Group, has started giving away digital designs that allow owners to manufacture their own car accessories using a 3D printer.

Instead of ordering a part, waiting for delivery and paying a premium, you can potentially make it yourself.

For those unfamiliar with 3D printing, imagine a machine resembling a miniature robotic icing dispenser.

Instead of decorating a cake, it builds solid objects by laying down hundreds of incredibly thin layers of material, usually plastic. Feed it a digital design and, several hours later, you have a physical object.

Škoda has embraced this technology by releasing officially approved designs for accessories including USB cable holders, cupholder inserts, phone brackets, coin storage compartments and even folding tables. My personal favourite is a centre console organiser designed to accommodate hot chips and sauce.

Finally, technology addressing one of humanity's greatest challenges: preventing tomato sauce from ending up on your trousers. Although I would still recommend enjoying those chips while safely parked!

The designs themselves are free. You still need access to a suitable printer, printing materials and a little patience.

But with 3D printers becoming increasingly affordable and community makerspaces offering access to the technology, ownership of a printer isn't necessarily essential.

What makes this latest development interesting is the potential shift in thinking.

For decades, manufacturers have controlled the supply of replacement parts and accessories. Break something, lose something or want something different, and you return to the manufacturer with your credit card.

Now imagine a future where buying a vehicle includes access to an entire digital library of replacement components.

Broken glovebox latch? Print another. Missing cupholder insert? Download a replacement. Want a custom phone mount? Modify an existing design to suit your needs.

There are limitations, of course. Nobody should be printing their own brake components or steering mechanisms on a desktop printer. Safety-critical parts require appropriate materials, engineering and rigorous testing.

But for thousands of non-critical plastic components, the possibilities are enormous.

Beyond saving money, this could reduce shipping, packaging, warehouse storage and unnecessary waste. It could also help keep older vehicles on the road long after manufacturers stop stocking obscure plastic components.

And perhaps most importantly, it challenges our increasingly disposable culture.

Imagine a world where manufacturers sell us products designed to be repaired, personalised and maintained rather than simply replaced.

That little broken air vent from 20 years ago might finally have its revenge.

And this time, the $50 stays in my pocket.

Parkrun celebrates 12 months attracting 3346 participants

CAMERON and PIONEER Parks have been buzzing with human activity early each Saturday morning for the past 12 months.

And last Saturday, October 24, the Wellington Park Run celebrated it's 100th weekly turnout attracting many runners and walkers, lots of colour and a cake to celebrate.

Since the first run on October 18 last year, they have conducted 52 weekly runs with a total of 3346 participants who actually finished the route, all organised by 207 volunteers.

It has been a popular community event with approximately 50 to 60 participants every week (including runners, walkers, joggers, families, prams) - sometimes there are three generations of the same families completing the course each week.

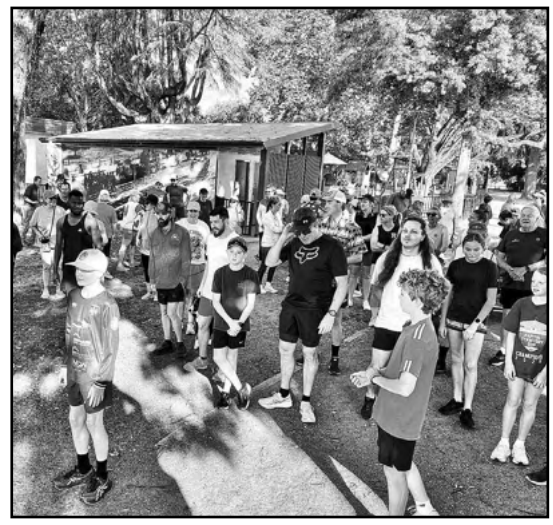

As well, the group has attracted many parkrun 'tourists' each week coming from throughout the Central West, Sydney and many more places, many of which keep returning.

It was a 10-year process to get this event up and running, and a purpose track built, actually twice thanks for the 2022 November flood.

The parkrun is a free, weekly, community event where people of all ages can walk, jog, run, volunteer or spectate over five kilometres each Saturday from 8am.

The Saturday morning event helps fitness, friendship and a shared sense of belonging.

The benefits include physical health, supporting mental wellbeing, social connection and a stronger healthier community, healthier, more connected communities, as well as economic benefit from parkrun 'tourists' visiting the local event each week.

ROTARY CLUB of Wellington held a dedication service for their Peace Pole in Cameron Park recently. The Wellington Buddhist Centre commemorated their Peace Pole last month. The Peace Pole programme which had its beginnings after the 2nd WW in 1955, was developed by the World Peace Society founder Masahisa Goi. Now, more than 300,000 Peace Poles stand in some 200 Countries, symbolising the common wish for World at Peace.

Boosting local Rugby stars

FEDERAL MEMBER for Calare (and Wellington) Andrew Gee dropped by the Wellington Rugby Club to present a $1000 Volunteer Grant for the under 12s Redbacks.

Mr Gee said he was impressed with the young players during their mini-training session with him.

"They were running their own drills and supporting one another, it was great to see," Mr Gee said.

"This funding will help cover travel expenses so the team can compete at the TAS Rugby Carnival in Armidale.

Looking further ahead, the club is also hoping to build towards a trip to New Zealand for this team in 2028.

"A huge shoutout to president Josh Bullock and junior vice-president Grant Spradbrow. In just the past year, the club has skyrocketed from 137 to over 200 players."

Mr Gee said he was thrilled to support grassroots sport and Wellington's amazing local volunteers keeping kids active and connected.

New home for SES HQ

AFTER YEARS of waiting to upgrade its service capability and response, the SES Western Zone has officially waved goodbye to its beloved Bultje Street Dubbo Headquarters and said hello to its brand-new facility in the Blueridge Business Park on Saturday.

With a dedicated Level 3 Incident Control Room which can comfortably house more than 50 personnel at a time, secure warehouse space for rescue boats, vehicles and supplies, and facilities for flood rescue coordination, training and community engagement, the new facility is a massive upgrade from the Bultje Street premises that have served the SES since the 1980s.

Built for purpose and built to scale up in the future, this new space isn't just for our SES staff and volunteers. It's for every person and family across the Western Zone who knows they can count on the SES for help during an emergency.

Payroll Policy

During the past Parliamentary Sitting fortnight, the NSW Nationals and Liberals introduced our signature Payroll Tax Policy to the Parliament, giving Labor the opportunity to support reforms that reduce the cost of doing business, encourage investment in NSW and grow the economy.

If passed, our Payroll Tax Policy will:
* Raise the payroll tax threshold from $1.2 million to $1.5 million.
* Reduce the payroll tax rate from 5.45 per cent to 4.75 per cent for businesses with a total Australian payroll below $10 million.
* Introduce CPI indexation to payroll tax thresholds to eliminate bracket creep.

These changes will help businesses keep more of what they earn and create more local jobs.

We've done the work and we're ready to back small businesses. It's time for the Minns Labor Government to do the right thing and back our legislation.

Golden Highway consultation

Transport for NSW is inviting the community, business and industry to help prioritise short, medium and longer-term projects along the Golden Highway corridor and inform potential future investment decisions as part of the Regional Corridors Upgrade Program (RCUP).

Investigations already undertaken as part of the RCUP have identified a range of recommended fast-tracked, short term, and medium to longer term improvements, including safety upgrades, overtaking lanes, freight and heavy vehicle improvements, and Intelligent Transport Systems.

Feedback will help Transport for NSW to refine project priorities and inform future planning, funding and delivery decisions for the Golden Highway corridor between Newcastle and Dubbo.

Heritage Order on Scabbing Flat Bridge may not have been legally sound

By Tony Graham, Binjang Radio.

AFTER WAITING for a response for over three years from Jenny Aitchison, the NSW State Minister For Transport, the Scabbing Flat Bridge Committee has finally won a review into the Heritage Status of the Scabbing Flat Bridge.

The Geurie community wants a new fit for purpose crossing which evidently the old bridge can never be.

The Committee's research alleges that the heritage order was neither appropriate nor legally sound.

The Heritage Act of 1977 Legislated by the Wran Labor Government was the instrument the O'Farrell Coalition Government enacted on the Scabbing Flat Bridge agreed to by then responsible Roads and Ports Minister and National Party member, Duncan Gay, along with the then Liberal Party Heritage Minister Robyn Parker as part of the process.

Ultimately, The Heritage Council of NSW played a critical and decisive role in the fate of the Scabbing Flat Bridge, effectively serving as the primary authority that mandated its preservation.

While the roads authority managed the structural and logistical side of the network, the Heritage Council held the statutory power under the Heritage Act 1977 to approve or block demolition.

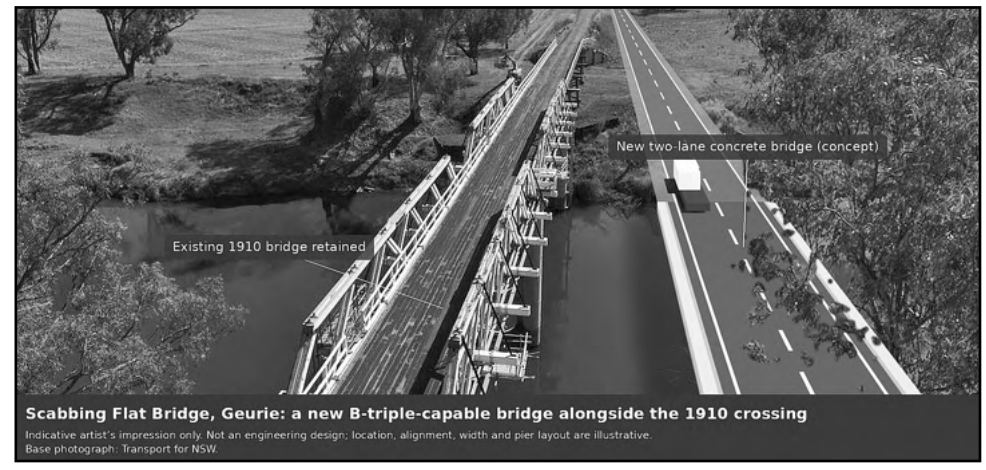

The composition of the then nine appointees to the Heritage Committee has since been questioned as to the potential for conflicts of interest, particularly with two of the members allegedly associated with major Sydney-based heritage consultancies.

There were also interstate academics and representatives on the Council from NSW state government departments with perceived various potential conflicts of interest.

The fact that these decision-makers also resided hundreds of kilometres away in urban Sydney or interstate, and not a soul from regional Australia, is a primary source of the deep community frustration surrounding the bridge today.

Transport For NSW has also admitted that the process at the time did not follow the mandated requirement for Community Consultation prior to implementation of the Heritage order on the Scabbing Flat Bridge.

In NSW administrative law, a demonstrated failure to manage a material conflict of interest or a breach of procedural fairness can render a statutory decision invalid.

Tellingly, the Heritage orders were collectively placed on 26 Timber Truss Bridges across NSW, 26 of them were in Regional NSW, the exception being the Galston Gorge Bridge in Sydney, the shortest Timber Truss Bridge in NSW.

The Scabbing Flat Committee says that with an estimated $5 to $8million dollars spent on maintaining the bridge in 18 months to the end of 2025 alone, work is ongoing and studies show the cost benefit to industry and taxpayers just doesn't add up.

There is only a narrow window of opportunity to have your say before submissions close tomorrow - October 30.

Complete the survey, drop a pin and Lodge a submission at: haveyoursay.nsw.gov.au/TTBS-review and wait another 12 months for the Government's decision.

NSW steps further into aged care as report warns state not to replace Commonwealth

The State Government will provide interim aged care services to help older stranded patients to return from hospital to the comfort of home more quickly and safely.

It comes as a new report by the NSW Productivity and Equality Commission (PEC) warns any state action needs to complement, not replace, the Commonwealth's responsibility for aged care.

PEC report: 7000 stranded older patients within 10 years

The NSW Government commissioned the PEC's Helping older patients stranded in NSW public hospitals report in response to the growing impact that discharge delays are having on older people, their families, and hospitals across NSW.

Based on Commission modelling, the number of older stranded patients could increase from around 1100 today to more than 7000 by 2036 as the population ages and demand for aged care continues to outpace supply.

The report estimates that the Commonwealth Government will need to deliver 2600 additional residential aged care beds in NSW each year, but is currently only delivering a quarter of what is required.

The PEC recommends the Commonwealth Government to increase funding for aged care, separate to funding for healthcare and hospital activity.

Interim aged care services

The Government will establish a new $28 million pilot program to provide interim aged care services to assist older patients waiting to be discharged from hospital to return home, while they wait for Commonwealth Government Support At Home packages.

The support may include clinical care such as wound care and symptom management, personal care, domestic assistance, assistive technology, and home modifications.

The $28 million pilot program will assist more than 300 patients each year, and unlock more hospital beds for patients who need them the most.

This forms part of the government's $35.7 million Aged Care Response Package, to help older patients stay healthy and avoid hospital, as well as to help older patients return home more quickly and safely.

Unlocking beds

The NSW Government has consistently pursued reform through avenues available to it to alleviate the impact stranded patients have on the people concerned and the healthcare system more broadly, including:

* Expanding the capability of our specialist geriatric care services, providing hospital-level care to more than 39,000 older patients across the state, in the comfort of their own home and without the stress of a traditional hospital stay.
* Strengthening discharge planning and to support older people to transition well from hospital to aged care despite the challenges arising from Commonwealth stranded patients, there have been improvements in emergency department performance and the number of people accessing care outside of the hospital.

The government will also continue to work constructively with the Commonwealth Government and all states and territories through the Hospital Discharge Joint Taskforce and Health Ministers Meeting, recognising this challenge goes past state boundaries and requires collective national action.

Minister for Health Ryan Park said we cannot continue to wait for the Commonwealth Government to deliver on its aged care responsibilities because too many people are already stranded in our hospitals and they deserve better.

$560 Million agreement for the future of free TAFE program

THE FEDERAL and State Governments have locked in Free TAFE for New South Wales, with a $560 million joint investment to grow the skilled workforce and break down the financial barriers to vocational study.

Federal Minister for Skills and Training Andrew Giles and NSW Minister for Skills, TAFE and Tertiary Education Steve Whan have signed the Free TAFE Agreement, which will deliver around 160,000 Free TAFE and training places in NSW across five years from 2027.

Building on previous time-limited arrangements, the new five-year partnership will deliver greater certainty and stability to the state's vocational education system, supporting longterm planning and sustained access to Free TAFE.

The agreement is the first to be signed since the passage of the Free TAFE Act through the Australian Parliament, delivering on the Albanese Government's commitment to make Free TAFE an enduring feature of the nation's skills system.

This partnership builds on NSW's existing commitments for fee-free training, reducing financial barriers that may have been in place for people who are thinking about training or taking up a new career.

Free TAFE will help deliver a pipeline of workers in critical skills areas by removing fees from qualifications in occupations that support priority areas such as housing construction, energy, digital and technology and essential care services. The Free TAFE Agreement also includes a focus on upskilling those who are typically under-represented in the economy to help meet the skilled workforce shortage challenge.

Andrew Giles said Free TAFE was life-changing.

"From construction to agriculture, nursing to aged care, cyber security to early childhood education – Free TAFE is backing-in Australians to get the skills they want, to do the jobs we need.

"Hundreds of thousands of Australians have benefitted so far from the program, and now hundreds of thousands more will continue to in New South Wales following this agreement.

"I welcome the state government signing on as the first state or territory to the Free TAFE Agreement, leading the country and in doing so ensuring better outcomes for VET students across the state."

Steve Whan said it's terrific to see the new Free TAFE Agreement in place – an important milestone that provided long-term stability and certainty for the NSW vocational education and training system while delivering real cost-of-living relief for tens of thousands of NSW students.

"Backed by the State Government's record $3.46 billion investment in skills, training and TAFE, Free TAFE has encouraged more people in our state to take up vocational education and training in the critical skills areas that will make a real difference to the economic future of our state.

"This is what we mean by delivering the skills that work. By removing barriers, including upfront costs, we're creating pathways into secure jobs and building the workforce needed to deliver more homes, support the clean energy transition and strengthen essential services across New South Wales."

Australians are some of the world's thirstiest coffee drinkers, downing two billion cups a year, but only produce 0.3% of that coffee. In the largest ever investment into our coffee growing industry, a new AgriFutures Australia $4million grant is boosting research into new varieties and coffee growing regions.

The new rust -resistant varieties will grow in warmer climates such as Wellington. They will have multive advantages, including not growing as tall. Wherever you can grow avocados you can plant these newer coffee varieties. There's a lot of money to be made out of growing coffee beans.

You may recall last year I wrote how to grow them, harvest and the best varieties to grow. Give it a go.

PRODUCE.. I received from my colleague Guy Allen, economist professor of Kansas University that wheat prices in America are sliding for the eighth week in longest losing streak since 1997.

The risk factor in the market has begun to fade as President Trump's administration attempts to initiate peace talks between Moscow and Kyiv as increasing amounts of Russian wheat have begun to be exported through alternative routes. Global production is expected to be the second largest on record, helping to ease broader supply concerns, but the export slowdown from the Black Sea could impact production in the longer term. Chinese oilseed buyers have purchased around 1 million tonne of Australian canola in recent deals for deliveries in early 2027.

The sale was about US$700/t c & f China,

Smaller offering doesn't change market sentiment

DESPITE A smaller offering the wool market continued to ease, indicating that despite new business being written, it's just not enough new business to halt falls. All three selling centres operated on Tuesday with a softer sentiment, showing up in most of the indicators. Northern fine wools held their ground and attracted strong competition for the European style types. The pressure increased on day 2 with losses continuing, leading to grower resistance becoming more prominent. The national passed-in rate grew from 7.5% on Tuesday to 19.2 % on Wednesday, telling the story of where the market is at currently with the offering of just 25,892 bales. Skirtings were unchanged on the opening day but couldn't hold that level on Wednesday weakening by up to 30 cents, cardings eased nationally, as did the crossbreds.

We regularly speak about the investment and trade that the Australian wool industry does with China, which started to be driven around 25 years ago through cheaper labour and handling costs, and has now led to plants that are unsurpassed technologically worldwide. In an article that has been published this week, a Queensland company announced that it is looking at building a wool scour in the centre of the state in Blackall, with construction scheduled to start early next year, with the first wool to be scoured mid-2028. The design of the scour will be different to past operations in Australia, leveraging the natural resources from the Great Artesian Basin, with ongoing energy, water and waste costs being eliminated, allowing Australian scouring operations viable after a 30-year hiatus. The site selection was driven by the requirements of a viable manufacturing operation rather than a wool growing activity, as future energy, water and waste disposal costs pose a greater threat to viability than transport costs. Scoured wool will go to Vietnam to be made onto tops, then onto spinners who already have supplied letters of intent. This diversification will drive future investment, create regional jobs and unlock opportunities for producers. If all goes to plan, Deniliquin and Moree could also have scouring sites in the future. Here's hoping that the new technology allows the numbers to stack up. 31,458 bales offered this week, with Macwool/Carmichael/Beecher offering 1368 bales on Tuesday.

Stock report by Ross Plasto

DUBBO CATTLE.. 5740 head. Young trade cattle firm, vealers and yearlings 446c to 515c/kg. Feeder steers and heifers up to 20c dearer, strong support from northern buyers. Feeder steers 490c to 587c, heifers 460c to 534c/kg. Young cattle to restockers up to 80c dearer, steers to 740c, heifers to 650c/kg. Grown steers and heifers firm to 3c dearer, steers 450c to 502c, heifers 470c to 496c/kg. Cows 2c to 5c cheaper, 3 scores to processors 355c to 402c/kg. Heavy cows 380c to 419c, ave 405c/kg. Cows to restockers 340c to 414c/kg. Heavy bulls to 445c/kg.

DUBBO SHEEP.. 15,166 head. Plainer with a dry run of new season lambs and an overall lighter yarding of lambs. Merinos limited, few pens of extra heavy lambs. Market recorded a firm trend on quality. New season stores to $235. Trade 20 to 24kg $223 to $274, 24 to 26kg $280 to $300, ave 1110c to 1140c/kg, odd pen of fresh lambs to 1180c/kg. Shorn trade lambs $240 to $296, heavy $274 to $354, ave 1160c/kg on shorn new season lambs. Extra heavies topped at $409 or 1080c/kg. Merino lambs reached $300 most 1050c to 1100c/kg. Best hoggets reached $320.

MUTTON.. Numbers lifted and quality mixed. Prices firm to $4 dearer, crossbred ewes to $344, Merinos $339. Most medium and heavy mutton from 840c to 900c, lighter weights 900c and better.

WOOL.. The lower offering did little to arrest the slide in the market. Since returning from the mid-year recess only three selling weeks out of 10 have delivered a positive result and one of those was by the barest of margins. Superfine types have held on well over this period with the 18-micron indicator only marginally down on pre-recess prices whilst the drag on the market has come from the broader Merino types. Over the same period the 20 and 21 micron indicators have shed 180 cents and 280 cents respectively. Some of the reasons for this were covered last week with the micron mix of the national clip changing over the September quarter. Cardings have been resilient whilst crossbreds have followed the path of the broader Merino types. In the Northern region the market retreated 2 cents on the opening day and a further 13 cents by Wednesday's close with the largest falls occurring in the crossbred sector. 20,979 bales were sold for the week with an 87c5% clearance rate. Major buyers included Techwool, Tianyu and Sequoia. Up until the end of last week 53,000 bales fewer have been sold nationally compared to last season. This does equate to a slight build-up of held stock in store based on AWTA testing data although not dramatically. The positive news is even with selling 53,000 fewer bales the total turnover for the season to date is currently $100 million higher than last season.

Racing at Coonabarabran

FROM UNWANTED longshot to punters favourite has been the rise in status this campaign for the Natalie Pearce, Dubbo trained News Bound, an impressive winner on Sunday at Coonabarabran.

News Bound was a $71 rank outsider when a fast-finishing winner at Mudgee and after an unplaced run at Narromine again started at long odds ($31) when arriving late on the scene to win in a five-way photo finish at Coonamble.

In the 1400m Edwards Air Conditioning and Refrigeration-Daikin-Showcase Benchmark 66 Handicap at Coonabarabran, News Bound as the $4.40 favourite had Kody Nestor in the saddle and after racing in a more forward position swept to the lead in the straight for a convincing win from Tiger Town (Nick Heywood, $18) and Marnoo (Serg Lisnyy, $4.80).

Brett and Katrina Bowman from Coonabarabran not only sponsored the race but also won the 1400m Bowman Racing Class 1 Showcase Handicap with Miners Mate.

Third leg of a winning treble for jockey Clayton Gallagher, the Lyle Chandler, Scone trained Miners Mate ($3.60 fav) led most of the way to beat Russian Escape (Luke Rolls, $5.50) and the Wayne Martyn, locally trained Justo's Rocket (Jake Pracey-Holmes, $5).

Clayton Gallagher was in the green and white hoops Bowman Racing colours on the Peter Bloomfield, Scone trained Mia Amore when winning the opening race, the 900m Coonabarabran Bakery Maiden Showcase Plate.

From a nice position, Mia Amore ($4.20) broke clear and won by a length from Fratianno (Luke Rolls, $3.40 fav) with three lengths to Little Bubbles (Mikayla Weir, $9) which had led for home.

The Brett Robb, Dubbo trained Talakai ($2.60 fav) settled near the tail of the field before being switched to the outside by Clayton Gallagher and charging home to win the 1600m Barron's Tyre and Mechanical Class 3 Showcase Handicap from Coella (Luke Rolls, $7) and Delrico (Gabrielle Johnston, $14).

Prominent north coast jockey Luke Rolls gave the Sue Grills, Tamworth trained Little Duke ($10) a charmed run behind the leaders before finishing best to win the 1200m Phong Nguyen Memorial Super Maiden Handicap from Dirty Dani (Jake Pracey-Holmes, $3.70 equal fav) and Hollywood Hunk (Shannen Llewellyn, $19).

Coonabarabran attracted a big crowd and it was unfortunate due to a fierce storm and rain the meeting was abandoned with the last three races including the $75,000 Imperial Hotel Coonabarabran Showcase Cup over 1600m still to be run.

Small Town, Big Dreams: St Mary's Students Take Centre Stage

From Wellington to one of Australia's most iconic stages, four St Mary's Catholic School students recently enjoyed the experience of a lifetime, performing at the Sydney Opera House as part of the Moorambilla Voices program.

Caitlin, Zane, Maeve and Lillian proudly represented St Mary's, joining 400 talented young performers from regional and remote NSW. Following months of preparation, workshops and rehearsals, their hard work culminated in an unforgettable performance on the Concert Hall stage.

Now celebrating 21 years, Moorambilla Voices continues to provide extraordinary opportunities for young people from regional and remote communities to develop their talents, build friendships and experience the magic of music.

The St Mary's community is incredibly proud of these four students, not only for their musical achievements but also for the enthusiasm, dedication and courage they demonstrated in embracing this wonderful opportunity.

From the classrooms of Wellington to the bright lights of the Sydney Opera House, these four students have certainly created memories to last a lifetime!

Swimming Club Honours a Life Member and looks ahead to major carnival

LAST FRIDAY night's Pointscore was a poignant evening for the Wellington Amateur Swimming Club as members gathered to honour the life of Ruth Arnold OAM, who sadly passed away during the week.

Swimmers, families and supporters united in a touching Guard of Honour before sharing a minute's silence in recognition of Ruth's remarkable contribution to the club and the wider swimming community.

Ruth dedicated countless hours to the sport she loved, and her commitment, passion and generosity have left a lasting legacy that will be remembered for many years to come.

She will be deeply missed by all who had the privilege of knowing her.

Carnival

On Sunday, a team of 13 Wellington swimmers travelled to Dubbo to compete at the Orana Aquatic Swimming Carnival.

The club congratulates every swimmer who represented Wellington with pride, determination and outstanding sportsmanship throughout the day.

The focus now turns to one of the club's biggest events of the season, the 105th Dr Nat Barton Memorial Carnival, which will be held this Sunday at the Wellington Pool.

The annual carnival attracts swimmers from across the region and promises a fantastic day of competitive racing.

The club looks forward to welcoming visiting clubs and spectators for another successful event.
